Salt Lake and Utah. Harriman's Great Work. Utah. Do You Know It? Nothing But Wonders.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SALE LAKE CITY, Aug. 14.

THIS is written on the Union Pacific, between California and Salt Lake. The late E. H. Harriman bought, ruled and improved this railroad system and the Southern Pacific accomplishing wonders, in a few years. Untimely death took one of the most useful men that this country has known.

He rebuilt his own roads, making prosperous and efficient what was imperfect and unprofitable.

He also showed other railroad men how to build, extend and open up new territory.

Some day more monuments will be built to men like E. H. Harriman, and fewer to men that have killed other men.

OVER mountains, prairies, deserts and plains, the Mormons came slowly here to the Great Salt Lake, eighty-two years ago. They sought a place where they might live as they chose, and practice a religion, especially revealed to them, as all religions, have been especially revealed to others. They also wanted to have many wives, as King Solomon, David and other good Biblical characters had the same idea.

THEY have abandoned polygamy now, realizing what anybody might have told them, that one wife is enough, but cling to their Mormon religion.

BRIGHAM YOUNG, when he laid out Salt Lake City in 1850, made his streets 132 feet wide from curb to curb. There was a wise man. There is no traffic problem in Salt Lake City, although it will come.

When you come West, to Salt Lake, ask for D. S. Spencer, general passenger agent of the Union Pacific. He will tell you all about everything.

MUCH wealth, unlimited opportunity, in Utah's eighty-four thousand nine hundred and ninety square miles.

In all the world only three ranges of mountains run East and West. Utah has one of them. All other mountain ranges run north and South. Why?

Have the magnetic currents, going North and South anything to do with it?

The first two white men that ever saw Utah were Spanish priests, Fathers Escalaste and Dominguez, in 1776, year of the first Fourth of July.

UTAH has 1,251 factories now, and produces yearly enough evaporated milk to fill a row of cans reaching from San Diego to Paris, France.

F. G. BONFILS, who owns the Denver Post and gives competitors a headache, writes "When you get into Colorado Thursday morning you will see more agricultural wealth and growing crops than you have seen from Los Angeles to the Colorado line, an amazing statement, but true."

You will hear about Bonfils, Colorado and the city of Denver tomorrow.

RETURNING to Utah, one county, Box Elder, population 20,819, spends each year $8,836,892.63. The county's assessment $39,161,194, averages $7,523.76 per family.

And consider Utah's mineral wealth.

Ninty-three different minerals, 210 varieties, the largest open cut copper mine in the world. Utah Copper Company has paid $161,991,296 in dividends.

UTAH stands first among the states in silver production, second in lead, second in copper, fourth in zinc, sixth in gold.

Utah has enough salt to supply the entire world for more than 500 years. Enough rock of the right kind to pave every highway, street and alley in the United States, enough marble to build a column nearly two feet thick from the earth to the moon, and coal to supply the country for 100 years to come, also which should please good prohicitionists, enough onyx to build a soda foundation long enough to accommodate $50,000,000 people at one time, two feet for each customer.

BEST of all, Utah has a public school system as fine as any in the union.

There are in Utah now 20 times as many high schools as there were in 1905. Fewer than three out of every 1,000 people in Utah are illiterate. Also and finally, Utah has the largest known dinosaur deposit in the world, Brigham Young's magnificent temple possesses an organ so big, deep and solemn, that its music would make you melancholy on your happiest day.

You should see Utah, Salt Lake city.

Salt Lake is really salt. From four pails filled with water you get one pail full of salt.

GRAF SOARS OVER BALTIC; STORM IN PATH

Dirigible Due at Moscow by Dawn—Receives Ovations Over European Cities

International News Service.

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, Aug. 15.—The Graf Zeppelin flew over Koenigsberg at 4:16 o'clock this afternoon (11:16 a. m. Pittsburgh daylight savings time). Koenigsberg lies on the eastern shore of the Gulf of Danzig, 80 miles east of the city of Danzig.

Her next important point was Duenaburg, Latvia, when she was to head into Russia toward Moscow.

ON BOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, Aug. 15.—(Via Direct Radio)—The staid old city of Danzig, which was severed from Germany by the terms of the Versailles treaty, literally went wild today when the Graf Zeppelin passed over its checquer-board area at 2:55 o'clock this afternoon (9:55 a. m. Pittsburgh daylight time).

With whistles screaming, flags, handkerchiefs, bunting and hats wildly waving in the hands of enthusiastic residents, the free city of Danzig accorded the Graf a more tumultuous reception than was received from any German city, not excepting Berlin.

The Graf reached the Baltic at 3:06 p. m., and should be over Moscow by dawn tomorrow. All on board were happy over the good progress made.

Get Thrilling View

When we left Friedrichshafen this morning some of the passengers were sleepy and, as nothing could be seen in the darkness, they went to bed.

William B. Leeds, of New York; Joachim B. Rickard, of Boston, and Lieut. J. C. Richardson, of the United States Navy air service, were still asleep when the ship passed over Berlin at 10:40 a. m.

It was a thrilling view when we crossed the suburbs of Berlin and then flew across the city with the streets and squares lying beneath us like a chess board.

Our speed from Friedrichshafen to Berlin averaged from 59 to 60 miles an hour.

Only four of the motors were working, to save fuel.

Russia Ready to Aid

GIRL TOO YOUNG FOR PALS, SLAIN

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 15.—Because she was "too small to play with grownup girls," Olga Zemach, 7, was dead today and authorities were wondering what they should do about Genevieve Rich, 12, who admits that she shot Olga.

Olga died in New Castle Hospital this morning of a bullet wound in the abdomen. District Attorney J. Elder Bryan said he had not decided whether he would make any charge against Genevieve.

KILLER TELLS STORY

This was the story Genevieve told: Genevieve and Olga's 10-year-old sister, Effie Zemach, and several other girls were playing in Cascade street near their homes yesterday. The Zemachs live at 640 Cascade street, the Richs at 638 Cascade street. Olga was the youngest of the group.

Genevieve's mother sent her to the store, and the other girls started along. So did Olga.

"Go back," someone told Olga. "We don't want you."

"TOO SMALL, GO HOME!"

"Yes, go on home, you're too small to play with grownup girls," Genevieve admonished Olga. "If you don't, I'll shoot!"

In Genevieve's hands was a .22-caliber rifle, the property of her brother, Thomas Rich. The girls had been playing with the gun.

Olga ran after the older girls. Genevieve pulled the trigger.

Italy Plays Host To Servants Today

ROME, Aug. 15.—This is the Italian Feast of Ferragosto, one of the three recognized "tipping days" of the national calendar. Domestics and other employes are entitled to spend the day with palms extended.

MYSTERY SEEN IN EERIE MUSIC

It's well after midnight, Ellsworth avenue, near Neville street, is dark, with heavily-leaved trees absorbing the weak rays from the few street lights.

Blinds on nearby homes are pulled, and only here and there faint streams of refracted yellow appear from windows of apartments high up from the street. There are the few late comers preparing to retire. The entire district is quiet.

Then, carried on the lazy summer air, haunting strains! They come from the Church of the Ascension, a big, old English structure of stone, dark against the darker sky. They are melodies played on an organ.

WHO PLAYS IT?

Night workmen and residents still awake listen. They hear strange old tunes. Mostly hymns. The air shivers with them. They try to find the "radio." But find none. They walk as far as the big doors of the church. They try them. All are locked.

But the weird, early morning music still hangs in the air. It is the church organ. But who plays it?

That's what a score or more families are asking themselves and each other. The Rev. H. Boyd Edwards, pastor, might answer, but he is reported out of town.

They have heard the organ played three nights in the last three weeks.

WAIT FOR RETURN

A number of residents of Cathedral Mansions, exclusive apartment house across the street, are listening nightly for the return of the mysterious organist. Among them are Mrs. E. N. Kelly, R. L. Carpenter and his little daughter,

Hoot Gibson's Wife Held in Check Case

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Helen Gibson, stage actress and former wife of Hoot Gibson, motion picture star, was at liberty under bond today on a warrant from San Diego which charged she had given a hotel there a worthless check. Mrs. Gibson said it was "all a mistake." She declared the bank had refused to honor a $100 check because her signature was illegible.

FAKE WARRANT PLOT LAID TO DRY OFFICE

Humes Accuses Pennington And Aide of 'Conspiracy' In Prohibition Searches

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, his assistant, R. E. Joyce, and his legal advisor, Louis E. Graham, were charged with conspiring to use fraudulent search warrants by Attorney E. Lowrey Humes, former United States district attorney, in Federal Court today.

In a bitter attack on dry enforcement methods, Humes accused the prohibition authorities of conspiring with various constables to supply "catch-as-catch-can" warrants for raiders' use.

Humes made his charges in a hearing before Judge R. V. Gibson on a review of the revocation of the permit of the Barr Manufacturing Company, of Tyrone, Pa., to use denatured alcohol in manufacture of perfumes and other toilet articles.

CHARGES FRAUD

Humes alleged that Constable Edward Brubach, of Bellevue, had used 557 fraudently sworn search warrants in Allegheny county.

These warrants were supplied by the constable to prohibition squads for raids, most of them upon private homes, Humes asserted.

"WARNED CONSTABLE"

The warrants were signed by justices of the peace in pads of 100 or more, Humes asserted. The raiders filled them in at their convenience, Humes said. In most cases the magistrates never saw the men who were purported to have sworn to the information upon which the warrants were issued, according to Humes.

Humes charged, also, that Graham had told Brubach not to answer questions at the revocation hearing, to prevent the constable from incriminating himself.

Joseph A. Richardson, government counsel, said the Barr Manufacturing Company had violated its agreement to use only government formulas in making its products.

He charged that bad faith had been shown when L. S. Barr, secretary and treasurer of the company, met Thayer D. Moss, former employe in the prohibition legal department, to discuss the revocation, which at that time was pending.

BRIEFS ORDERED

Judge Gibson ordered the attorneys to file briefs.

The permit of the company was revoked March 11 by Administrator Pennington. The hearing was held March 4, with Attorney Graham as auditor.

At the hearing the company was described as the largest user of denatured alcohol in the area under Pennington's jurisdiction. It was alleged that much of its product was easily redistilled and diverted to the bootleg trade.

KREMER FACES BRAVES TODAY

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—Remy Kremer will take on the enemy this afternoon in the second clash of the Braves and Pirates. Frenchy was very unfortunate a few days ago in Brooklyn when the Robins won by making three homers in the eighth after the side should have been retired. Perhaps the veteran will have some better "breaks" today.

Jess Petty started the Pirates off right in Boston yesterday by winning a one-to-nothing feature number over Percy Lee Jones. Jones allowed only three hits and Petty was just about as stingy as he yielded five safeties.

If the Tribe sends another lefthander out to face the Pirates today, Earl Sheely will remain on first base. Eddie Brandt is due to work, but Acting Manager Evers wasn't sure of the home slab choice for the afternoon. Socks Seibold and Bob Smith also are ready to pitch.

AUTO BANDITS SHOOT, ESCAPE

Three bandits robbed a gasoline station collector of $500 in Washington boulevard today and escaped after halting pursuing motorists with shots in a chase through East End streets.

The collector, Gustave Badorf, of 357 Agnew avenue, had collections from 10 American Oil Company stations in his money bag when he arrived at the station in Washington boulevard at the Lincoln Avenue Bridge.

Bedorf collected the station's receipts and drove off. He had gone a few hundred yards when a car drew alongside and forced him into an embankment. Three youths stepped out and one pressed a pistol against Bedorf. Another grabbed Bedorf's money bag.

The bandits sped away and Bedorf, giving them a start, followed. Another motorist, Walter Henz, of R. D. 2, Glenshaw, joined the chase.

They turned into Shetland avenue, then into Lincoln avenue. In Lincoln avenue, a bandit leaned from the car and emptied a pistol at the pursuers. Bedorf and Henz gave up the chase.

'Sherlock Holmes' Hero as Home Burns

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous creator of Sherlock Holmes, had an adventure of his own today when an old section of his country residence, Bignell House, caught fire. Sir Arthur dashed into the burning house several times and rescued valuable documents and books from the flames. A modern wing of the dwelling was saved.

POLITICAL FEUD FIRES RENEWED

The bitter factional battles that marked Pittsburgh's political history before W. L. Mellon brought about his harmony agreement four years ago may be resumed as the result of the failure of Republican organization leaders to agree upon a mayoralty candidate.

With bitter feeling growing daily, there are signs that indicate a movement to place two complete slates in the field at the September primary.

Friends of Councilman James F. Malone today threatened to oppose the re-election of Councilman W. Y. English and John S. Herron because they are supporting Mayor Charles H. Kline. John A. Fugassi, assistant head of the county road bureau, may be slated by the Malone forces for one of their places.

On the other hand, a number of North Side leaders friendly to Kline are talking of opposing Councilman Harry A. Little, whom they believe to be friendly to Malone. They want

APPEAL FOR NEW TRIAL PREPARED

Defense Counsel Says Jury Was Prejudiced, Influenced From Outside During Trial

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 15.—Five specific reasons for a new trial for Dr. James H. Snook, slayer of Theora Hix, co-ed beauty, will be cited by his attorneys in a "last ditch" fight to save the former Ohio State University professor from the electric chair, they announced today.

Snook was convicted of first-degree murder, without recommendation of mercy, by a jury which took but one ballot and deliberated only 28 minutes.

ARGUE NEW TRIAL MONDAY

Motion for a new trial will be argued Monday before Judge Henry L. Scarlett. The five claims that Snook's lawyers will set up are:

1—That the jury was prejudiced when it was seated.

2—That one or more of the jurors was influenced from outside sources.

3—That the demonstration that followed Prosecutor John J. Chester's closing address to the jury was "pre-arranged" and that the jury was influenced by the burst of applause.

4—That the verdict was not justified by the testimony.

5—That defense counsel did not have sufficient time to prepare its case.

The motion for the new trial will be filed Saturday, according to E.

Two Malone Headquarters Downtown in Prospect

If two headquarters can be had, Councilman James F. Malone may have them in his mayoralty race.

Carpenters and sign painters today were preparing Malone-for-Mayor assembly rooms and offices on the mezzanine floor of the William Penn Hotel.

Meanwhile, Malone workers still were answering telephone calls at the Hotel Henry, where Malone headquarters were opened yesterday.

The Hotel Henry long has been "Organization Headquarters," and it is conceded that the candidate whose campaign is housed there has the psychological edge.

The Hotel Henry is a Mellon property. Howard Johnson, renting agent, would not believe Malone quarters had been opened in the Hotel Henry until he saw the signs.

"They slipped in by a trick," said Mr. Johnson, then.

ZEPPELIN GETS WILD WELCOME FLYING OVER BERLIN

TOKIO-BOUND L..NER SETS FAST PACE

Pauses Over German Capital After Perfect Start and Speedy Flight from Home

follow the Trans-Siberian Railway across the Soviet Union.

The Hamburg Weather Bureau announced this evening good flying weather prevails south of the sixtieth parallel of latitude, but the weather over the whole of Russia is stormy north of the sixtieth parallel.

The northernmost part of the Trans-Siberian Railway lies about the fifty-fifth parallel.

The Graf made fine progress across Germany after leaving here at 4:35 a. m. today (11:35 p. m., Wednesday, Pittsburgh daylight saving time). She passed over Berlin late in the morning, then headed direct for Danzig.

The start of the Graf on the longest non-stop flight ever attempted was an auspicious one. Everything went smoothly.

Awe-Inspiring Picture

Bathed in a glow of ground lights which reflected resplendently on her silver-sheened sides, the huge craft made an awe-inspiring picture as she soared upward less than 10 minutes after having been moved out from her hangar.

Steadily gaining height, she headed into the northeast and in a few minutes only a dim outline of her cigar-like contour and the gleam of her cabin lights could be seen.

Soon even these disappeared from view as the huge crowd on the landing field gaped upward toward a sky from which the night shadows were just beginning to be dispelled by the first pink of dawn.

Just before boarding his ship Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, expressed pleasure at the wonderful atmospheric conditions attending the start of the flight.

Elated by Weather

"The weather is remarkably fine," he said. "There is prospect of a tailwind. We will go over Berlin and then head toward Koenigsberg as scheduled."

Capt. Lehmann, the ship's navigator, was also gratified by the weather.

"With conditions as fine as we could possibly wish for, we will probably make good speed on the first part of our journey," he said.

Knut Eckener, the commander's son, commented on the fact that there was not even a ground wind stirring to hamper the start.

When the ship was weighted just before the ground crew released their hold on the lines, it was found she was heavier than expected and a considerable amount of water ballast was dumped overboard.

At the last minute before the start, a bust of the late Baron Von Huenefeld intended for the Japanese emperor was put aboard.

As the huge craft began to point her nose upward, a group of Japanese women, relatives of compatriot passengers aboard, threw flowers at the ship as they cheered the start.

Crowd Rushes Field

At the same time, some 2,000 spectators broke through the police lines and rushed onto the field but the ship was already off the ground when they reached the spot where the Graf had been and no damage was done.

Lady Drummond Hay, the only woman making the flight, was the last passenger to board the airship. She smiled and waved gaily to the cheering crowds.

There were two vastly disappointed persons left behind. One was Nelson Morris, of Chicago, who appeared at the field showing a ticket for the world flight sold to him in New York. When he handed his ticket to Capt. Von Schiller, in charge of the passenger list, the latter apologized that the ticket had erroneously been sold him and stated another passenger could not be taken without overloading the ship.

The other was Miss Kaneko Kitamura, a Japanese woman who had been pleading for the last two days to be allowed to make the flight to Tokio. The officials were firm in refusing to take more han 20 passengers.

The Graf's flight will take her between 6,000 and 7,000 miles over Eastern Europe and the wide areas of uninhabited Siberian forest lands.

Ready for Emergencies

Leaving Berlin, the Graf will head eastward over the Latvian-Russian border toward Moscow. After passing the Soviet capital, the ship will strike a northeasterly course again to the Mid-Ural Mountains.

Once over Siberia, the Graf's course will be determined by weather conditions. In all probability Dr. Eckener will follow a northerly course after passing Omsk and then ead southward over Manchuria after passing Sakhalin.

The Zeppelin is expected to reach Tokio in about five days. To conserve fuel only four of the ship's five motors will be used most of the way. This will mak. it possible for the Graf to remain in the air more than 180 hours if necessary.

Every provision for an emergency landing has been made. The ship is equipped with an emergency landing gear which will facilitate a landing in an uninhabited region where a ground crew could not be got together.

Sufficient food and drink for some time is being carried. Rifles and ammunition are also being carried to protect the passengers and crew in case of a forced landing in a region inhabited by hostile natives, according to an announcement made by Capt. Von Schiller just before the start of the flight.

Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent any stowaways from getting aboard on this flight. A heavy guard was posted within the hangar before the start. Armed men were located on the hangar roof and on ladders around the walls.

Americans on Board

No freight is being carried by the Zeppelin, to allow for additional fuel for the long hop. A consignment of mail is aboard, however.

There are several Americans among the passengers. These include Com. Charles A. Rosendahl and Lieut. Richardson, U. S. Navy dirigible experts, and William B. Leeds, New York banker and husband of Princess Xenia of Russia.

After reaching Tokio, the Graf will have another long hop across the Pacific Ocean to Los Angeles ahead of her. A final trip across the United States will bring her back to Lakehurst, N. J., the starting point of the world flight. She is expected to complete her globe-circling jaunt on or about September 4.

In several ways, the present flight of the Graf is the most remarkable she has yet attempted. It is the longest non-stop flight yet ventured and is the first commercial air venture directly linking Europe with the Far East.

On the first leg of the world flight, the Graf covered the distance between Lakehurst and Friedrichshafen in the record time of 55 hours and 20 minutes.

Nancy Carpenter; Clarke Johnston, residents there; Robert Roche, employed there, and George Washington, Negro elevator man.

Roche and Washington have stood beside the church doors and listened to the organ. They have recognized "Nearer My God to Thee" and other hymns. They have watched for the organist, for a light in the big edifice, but have seen neither.

DOORS LOCKED

Residents of the Wilson Arms apartment, on Neville street, adjoining the church, have heard the music. They, too, according to Miss Carolyn Lyle, a teacher living there, never have seen the organist. They listen for the music, however, as "the organist" plays masterly, they agree.

Across the street Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dashbach have enjoyed the haunting music. He has tried the doors and found them locked.

A THEORY

Elevator Operator Washington has stood on the sidewalk in front of the Cathedral Mansions during the three nights he has heard the organ.

"I can't see anything," he said. "I've watched for whoever might play that organ. The windows and doors are locked tight. Maybe the church isn't haunted. But if you asked my thought there's undoubtedly a ghost up there. No man'd roam about that place without a light in it. Isnt that reason?"

two places on the councilmanic ticket and have entered former Councilman William B. Robertson, Magistrate Edward B. Hough and C. B. Connelley. If a decision is made to throw Little overboard, they probably will support two of the three.

Apparently neither side has decided its attitude toward Councilman P. J. McArdle, also seeking re-election. It is possible that, should two slates be made, he will appear on both.

The battle between Councilman Daniel Winters and Henry Oliver Evans for controller will have a factional tinge. The rivalry may extend to the office of sheriff, each side selecting an aspirant.

Coroner W. J. McGregor is unopposed for re-election. Both factions, it is reported, will support Jury Commissioner James M. Moore for another term and aid Judge Thomas C. Jones for re-election to the County Court.

Both Mellon and Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong left the city last night without making statements, leaving the impression that a policy of neutrality will be maintained for a time at least.

Alexander P. Lindsay, chairman of the Judge Richard W. Martin campaign committee, issued a statement urging all voters to register Republican in order to vote for Martin, "a Republican, not an independent, candidate."

Wayne died en route to an Alexandria hospital.

ZEPPELIN TOWN TENSE ON EVE OF SAILING

Lady Drummond Hay Finds Wives of Graf's Officers Brave and Cheery Band

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY,
Only woman passenger on Hearst-Zeppelin-Round-the-World-Flight.

FRIEDRICHSHFEN Aug. 15.—Suppressed, and even expressed, excitement thrills Friedrichshfen with unusual vibrations and emotions at the impending departure of the Graf Zeppelin.

It is not every day a Zeppelin is starting out on a 7,000-mile pioneer trans-continental voyage, and even if the Zeppelin crew is preserving a proud silence, the whole of Friedrichshafen is eager to discuss the coming flight.

"How soon will the Zeppelin come back to us?" was the inevitable question.

Women Are Brave

This afternoon I paid a round of farewell visits to Mrs. Eckener, Mrs. Lehmann, Mrs. Fleming and Mrs. Von Schiller. The conversation was bravely general, but four pairs of yearning eyes silently demanded:

"How soon will our men come back to us?"

Frau Fleming had daintily prepared tea, and peaches and candies were in "my own little room," a regular arbor of gay flowers. She said:

"These are nothing to what I will have around when the Zeppelin comes home. I will make the whole house a fragrant flower garden—I will—I will."

Her voice trailed as she painted the scene rather to herself than to me, sitting a moment lost in the silence.

Captain Cheerful

The bell rang. Capt. Fleming, looking tired but cheery, had returned home. The strain was broken by his "looks like a regular party. Give me a peach!"

I left immediately, knowing how precious and sweet these last hours are.

A glorious garden in its full summer glory leads to the foliage-covered Eckener house. There I met Frau Eckener. We strode around the grounds. She cut eight rosebuds.

"They will last until Tokio; tell my husband they came from home," she said.

Quicker than before, I left—leaving mother and son together and asking her to greet her daughter Lotte, who is in Berlin.

"Lotte is such a good girl—diligent and successful in her work," said Frau Eckener. Then, looking me straight in the eyes with her own clear gaze, she added deliberately:

"I am proud of my family."

She had no need to say more.

In High Spirits

The whole Schiller family was eating supper—to which I was invited. Frau Schiller, about the only woman who has held the helm of a Zeppelin, was in high spirits.

The Von Schiller supper table was gay with badinage. Frau Schiller and I merrily suggested a list of things the Captain should bring from Japan. His wife said:

"I don't want kimonos. Silks, and crystal curios. Bring me a fine horse to ride!"

Frau Schiller is going on her vacation during the flight.

Famous explorer, who crossed the Atlantic aboard the Graf Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen, and is writing the story of the Hearst-Zeppelin-Round-the-World Flight.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 15.—It is now four hours before the zero hour and everyone is confident that when the barrage in the form of the hangar doors lifts we will hop out over the hills to battle successfully with the elements.

The air streams will be our greatest potential danger throughout the longest journey ever attempted with a passenger airship, yet these very air streams may be friendly. We hope so.

Every passenger dined well, despite the approaching thrill. Some dance, some sit grouped talking and telling jokes. The Japanese crowd, which has been augmented daily, now is singing hymns beneath my window.

Sure of Success

The lowering temperature suits the plane splendidly. It gives the airship greater lift, conserves her gas and enables her to take a greater fuel load.

The last weather reports indicate a slight cloudiness on our course a few miles out, but with winds followng soon after leaving.

We are anxious to get started but not anxious about the safety or success of the trip. That seems almost assured.

I am just about to take a bath—my last chance for the next four days. Then I will snatch a few minutes sleep before leaving for the hangar.

One by one the passengers turned in while the guests dance on into morning—all except three, Leeds, Richardson and Rickard.

And another who, to the bitter end, considered himself a passenger—Nelson Morris—walked up and down the terrace and through the corridors of the hotel, calmly smoking cigarets and answering very firmly when questioned:

"Of course I'm going; here's my ticket," displaying a ticket reading: "From Lakehurst to Lakehurst," and properly issued by the Hamburg-American Line.

Von Schiller, however, insisted that Morris was not going, but after midnight it was discovered that Morris' baggage was on the Graf Zeppelin. Leeds and Rickard volunteered to go without baggage, wearing only one suit and shirt five days if, by disposing of their luggage weight, Morris would be able to go, since Dr. Eckener wanted as light a load as possible at the start.

Load Lightened

Until a few hours before the starting of the Graf Zeppelin's trip to Tokio, the hangar looked as if it were the scene of a firemen's convention. Each worker had brought with him a hose and a ladder. The longest extension ladders lined each side of the great ship and the men on top, with buckets of dope and wide brushes, put the final touches to the outer skin that will slip through 6,000 miles of air before being reattended.

Few people are allowed near the ship during the late hours of preparation. Knut Eckener was on guard as the late inspection showed many more tanks of gasoline and a total absence of the baggage and freight such as carried on the trans-Atlantic trip. Every superfluous bit of weight has been removed, and a few extra comforts and conveniences installed.

New chairs in the control compartment, special chart holders on the navigator's table, above which four chronometers record the local time of as many places, conveniences for the official photographer—all have been arranged for the comfort of those aboard.

FAKE DOCTOR CHARGE LAID TO CLERIC

Empringham, Secretary of Church Temperance Body, Accused of Examinations

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Rev. Dr. James Empringham, national secretary of the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal Church, today stood accused of state medical law violations involving the physical examinations of disrobed men and women.

Operation of an X-ray machine in the Health Educational Society clinic—recently closed after investigation—is also charged against the 54-year-old clergyman.

Commissioner of Health Shirley Wynne has forwarded reports of city investigators and complaints of young women to the state health department and to Bishop William T. Manning, head of the New York diocese of the Episcopal Church.

NOW SEEKING DIVORCE

Dr. Empringham is now in Reno, Nev., where he has filed suit for divorce. He was national superintendent of the defunct health society, an offshoot of the temperance society.

Authorities said they were interested to know if patients were led to believe the divine was a medical doctor when they disrobed for examination.

One young unmarried woman was quoted as saying Dr. Empringham assured her the procedure was customary and proper and necessary for diagnosis.

ACCUSED OF PLAGIARISM

Dr. Empringham was recently involved in a suit in which the court held he had plagiarized in a medical book he published.

The defense was that Dr. W. L. Cocks, a licensed practitioner, had always been in the office with Dr. Empringham during the examinations.

Dr. Louis I. Harris, health commissioner at the time of the suit, said today he believed the clergyman should be dealt with "severely."

"I am glad the health department has followed this case through and is proceeding against Empringam. I am sorry he has not been brought to prosecution.

"I believe ministers can be and are of great help to the medical profession, but only in bringing comfort and building up the morale of patients," he said.

GAVE "FATHERLY ADVICE"

Dr. Empringam said he gave fatherly advice and warned against the use of tobacco, liquor and late hours as health detriments.

It was reported that Bishop Manning is reluctant to take any immediate notice of the charges because of possibly unpleasant publicity.

"What the Episcopal church wants to do with Empringham as a minister is its own affair," said Dr. S. Lana Hubbard, chief of the legal bureau of the Health Department.

"We don't intend to have him posing as a doctor of medicine or to permit him or any other unlicensed person the professional privileges of doctors to examine men and women disrobed. After great difficulty we have closed Dr. Empringham's clinic and we have been assured by the Church Temperance Society that it will stay closed," he said.

Lucky Bucks—New Money for Old

By LUCKY BUCK

Well, folks, today's hero—outside of the visiting fireman who brought his wife to town—is Miss Cecelia Mazer, 803 Chestnut street, who shook hands with Lady Luck and wouldn't let g .

This young lady hangs out at Meyer Jonasson Company. In her pay envelope Tuesday was Lucky Buck No. V59504434D, worth 20 smacks. She liked the looks of that simoleon so much that she held on to it until the Sun-Telegraph yesterday convinced her her hunch was good.

It's with a fast trot that Miss Mazer sweeps into my cubby hole yesterday and demands $20 from my fair assistant.

That was all right, see. We were glad to see her get it. But the boss groaned as he loosened his grip on the purse strings to pay Walter K. Waldie a half century in new bucks. Big Bill No. N76742813D was listed at $50 and $50 he got, than's to me. I'm on your side folks, and 'll stand up for you every time. Just ask for me and collect like Kid Walter did.

A. J. Easley, 2323 Tilbury street, Squirrel Hill, idles in and tells about cornering a Fortunate Simoleon in his hardware store on Homewood avenue. He was about to loan some money to another bozo when suddenly he notices that the uppermost smacker is H95139809D. Glancing at his trusty Sun-Telegraph, there was that number worth one double sawbuck, payable on demand. That folks, that is the bill I left in Fishel's tea room, Murray avenue, Saturday. Read it and weap, Fishelites.

Of course we shouldn't forget John L. Bloss, Bridgeport, O., the fortunate friend of Benevolent Bean No. K39753782D, which I left in Wheeling, W. Va., last week.

Pittsburgh to Wheeling to Bridgeport is about as good as Tinkers to Evans to Chance, what?

Scott's Lunch, Brownsville road, Brentwood, near the Sun-Telegraph model home; Davis Brothers' Drug Store, 614 Beltzhoover avenue, and 1846 Wylie avenue, should look alive, if you follow me. If you don't, well, somebody else will and then where'll you be? I'll tell you all about the other two tomorrow.

GIRL, 22, DRINKS POISON IN TAXICAB

Quarrel With Youth Blamed By Police; Driver Sees Passenger Drain Bottle

Constance Hollister, 22, of 1217 Boyle street, North Side, was in a serious condition in Allegheny General Hospital today as a result, police said, of drinking poison in a taxicab last night.

Police said they were seeking a North Side youth after the girl had told them a quarrel with her "boy friend" decided her to try suicide.

M. J. Sekra, 1408 East street, a taxicab driver, took her to the hospital. He told police that the girl engaged him at the Fort Wayne station and told him to drive to the downtown district. While passing over the Sixth Street Bridge, he said, he turned and saw the girl draining the contents of a bottle. A few seconds later she collapsed in the seat, and Sekra, turning his car, hurried to the hospital.

WIFE SLAYER FOUND DEAD

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.— (INS.) — Searchers today discovered the body of Clarence Flener, sought for the murder of his young wife, in the woods near the spot where Mrs. Flener had been found mortally wounded yesterday.

Flora Eva, 21, his wife and mother of their two-year-old daughter, was found dying from three knife wounds as she lay beneath the wreckage of an overturned automobile.

"My husband did it," she sobbed just before her death, rescuers said.

The Fleners had been estranged. According to the dead man's brother, Flener had threatened the lives of his wife and daughter, Dorothy, and himself.

Examination of the body showed that Flener was stabbed twice through the heart.

Witnesses Say His Name Figured in Tiff Resulting In Death of Pair at Party

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The name "Walter" on letters and telegrams addressed to Miss Montell Mansfield, Texas heiress who, with her admirer, Gail Hamilton, wealthy New Yorker, found dead at their retreat near Poughkeepsie, is Walter Farwell, blind multi-millionaire society man.

His name figured in the quarrel described by a witness to the suicides as preceding the shootings.

Farwell explained the messages today:

"DATES"

"I met Miss Mansfield through mutual friends and had luncheon with her on various occasions. Her father is connected with the Texas Company, in which I am interested. The letters I wrote her were just friendly little letters to a young lady whose father was an associate of mine.

"The various little unusual phrases used in the letters were used jestingly, and I had no motive behind them.

"She visited my home on several occasions, just to say hello. She didn't stay but a few minutes each time.

EMPLOYED HER FATHER

"The girl's father is one of my land agents in the Panhandle section of Texas and my relations with his daughter were perfectly conventional and there was nothing in the world wrong.

"I knew of no men friends of Miss Mansfield. I had never met Mr. Hamilton. I was unaware of the situation in Poughkeepsie. I merely know that she had moved up there for some reason."

One of the letters found, dated June 11, read:

"Dear Monte: I congratulate you on your country estate. It is a grand idea. You should have asked my permission before going so far away.

"NEW BEAU"

"If it is not too much to ask, can you have lunch with the three bachelors at the Metropolitan Club, Sixtieth street and Fifth avenue.

"It looks to me as if you had found a new beau that you like better than me."

It was signed "Walter."

There was also a telegram dated June 17:

"Will you lunch Metropolitan Club Wednesday 1 o'clock. Wire answer."

It bore the name "Walter Farrem." Telegraph company officials told investigators "Farrem" was a misprint, the original message having born the signature "Walter Farwell." They said it was dated Syossett, L. I., where Farwell lives.

CORONER'S INQUIRY

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Gail Hamilton and his young sweetheart, Montell Mansfield, Texas heiress, quarrelled bitterly and struck each other before they ended their lives in their apartments near here, the coroner's inquiry learned today.

Rudolph Bachert, a New York insurance company officer, with the couple on a midnight drive before their deaths, told the story at an inquiry by Coroner John A. Card.

COUPLE FOUGHT

Bachert said Miss Mansfield struck and scratched Hamilton and he, in turn, had struck her in the eye, cutting her face deeply with a ring he wore.

Bachert had just come out of a stupor, induced, police said, by liquor he consumed the night of the double tragedy when he, Hamilton and Miss Mansfield and several friends had a drinking party in the cottage Hamilton furnished for Miss Mansfield.

He was on the verge of nervous collapse as he spoke from the stand.

PARK KILLING CLUE TRACED

A mysterious telephone call to the Westinghouse Airbrake Company may furnish a clue in clearing up the death of Edward J. Bloom, 25, of 840 Vista street, whose body was found in Riverview Park last night.

Police first ascribed his death to suicide, but the victim's wife, Martha, today revealed that when she called the sheet metal department of the airbrake company to inquire for her husband Monday, after he had been missing two nights, she was told that he had been reported sick.

J. W. Bloom, father, and George H. Bloom, of 520 Thropp street, a brother of the victim, visited the morgue today and told Supt. John P. Black that Edward never had owned a revolver. A revolver was found six feet from Bloom's body when it was discovered in a clump of bushes in the park by William Gow, of 3036 Viola street, last night.

Bloom left home Saturday afternoon to pay a couple small bills, promising to return to his wife and two children in a short time. It was on Monday, when he had failed to return, that his wife called the airbrake plant to learn if he was at work and was told that he had been reported sick. Superintendent Black ordered a post mortem examination and notified the city homicide squad.

According to the family, Bloom was in good spirits. He had been working steadily recently and had no trouble that they were aware of. He was much attached to his two children, Edward J. Bloom, Jr., 5, and Mary Josephine, 3.

SUSPECT TAKEN IN GIRL KILLING

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 15.—(AP.) — Police today arrested a suspect in connection with the slaying of 12-year-old Dorothy Aune when detectives picked up a man recently released from the insane asylum at St. Peter, Minn.

His identity was not disclosed but police said he was wearing shoes apparently stained with blood and was unable to give a satisfactory explanation of his movements Wednesday, when the body of the girl, bound in gunny sacks, was found by two firemen in a vacant lot.

Harold Carlson, said he espied the man wandering about near where the girl's body was found. Carlson summoned police who said he admitted the stains on his shoes were bloodstains but that they resulted from broken blisters on his feet. He claimed to have purchased the shoes in a pawnshop Tuesday.

Mrs. Andrew Aune, the mother, told police that a man had asked Dorothy to ride in his car, but she refused.

Dorothy, described as unusually bright, was graduated in June from the Simmons Grade School and was looking forward to entering Roosevelt High School in September.

During the remaining days here we will visit Windsor Castle and attend services in St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday morning.

We hope to deliver Mayor Charles H. Kline's letter to the Lord Mayor of London before we leave.

KA-CHOO! IT'S HAY FEVER

Hay fever has arrived in Pittsburgh—without advance notice but at about the regular time.

If you have it, you will be interested in the advice of Dr. Charles B. Maits, director of public health.

The best you can hope for, he said today, is temporary relief. It is too late for preventive treatment. You should have attended to that a couple of months ago.

But suffering in many cases can be alleviated. Generally, a physician will be able to help you, Dr. Maits said, and bids you consult one.

If you want to be immune next year, the thing to do, the health director states, is to take various tests, around the middle or latter part of June, to see to which kinds of pollen you are sensitive. That being determined, you should take a course of preventive treatment requiring from six to eight weeks. It should be completed just shortly before the hay fever season starts. Although some cases are not benefited, relief is afforded a large proportion.

Ragweed, giant ragweed and corn pollen are responsible for most of the hay fever in and around Pittsburgh, the director said. Comparatively few are set sneezing and nose-blowing by goldenrod, he asserted.

Dr. Maits said there was a great deal of hay fever in Pittsburgh, but the bureau of sanitation in his department was trying to keep it down by requiring owners of vacant lots to keep the weeds cut.

Navy's New 'Tin' Airship Given Right-of-Way

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—In order that the experimental tests of the all-metal dirigible built for the Navy might proceed without interruption at Grosse Isle Airport, near Detroit, pilots of other aircraft in the vicinity have been requested to give it right-of-way.

Tests of the "tin ship" will be conducted from now until September 1, and William P. McCracken, Jr., assistant secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, requested that particular care be exercised by other airmen to avoid a close approach during the maneuvers.

JITNEYS BARRED IN STRIKE

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 15.—(INS.)—An atmosphere of tenseness permeated the city today as police strengthened their lines to enforce the City Commission's plan to ban "jitneys."

Under the commission's plan, each jitney driver will be compelled to post $5,000 indemnity bond. Wholesale arrests have been ordered in event the order is not obeyed.

Street car strikers and their sympathizers have petitioned the commission to rescind its decision as long as the street cars are being operated with imported strikebreakers.

Possibility of renewed violence was discussed at a conference yesterday between the commissioners and leaders of the union car men. The commission has given the Police Department permission to add to its force to cope with any further rioting.

No violence has occurred since two street cars were dynamited yesterday.

'RED' MEETING SITES MOVED

Permission to Communists to hold two meetings was granted today by Public Safety Director James M. Clark—but not until police had changed the proposed places of meeting.

Patrick Devine, local Communist organizer, sought a permit for a meeting to be held tonight at Forty-fifth and Butler streets. A permit asked for tomorrow night designated Union and East Ohio streets, North Side.

After Devine's conference with Clark, the director called upon Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh who declared the locations unsuitable. He recommended that tonight's meeting be held at Schenley Oval, Schenley Park, and suggested Columbus and St. Ives streets, North Side, for tomorrow night. Director Clark approved these sites.

Devine expressed dissatisfaction with the arrangements and was not certain the meetings would be held. In calling on Director Clark, Devine was accompanied by a woman stenographer and sought unsuccessfully, to have the discussion recorded.

EVIDENCE FALSE, JUDGE PLEADS FOR MOONEY'S RELEASE

Perjury and Suppression Of Facts in Bomb Outrage Trial Detailed by Jurist

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.

Pleading for the release of Thomas Mooney, convicted in the San Francisco preparedness day bomb outrage, Superior Judge Franklin A. Griffin has released the text of an address he delivered in Los Angeles last Friday. It follows:

By JUDGE FRANKLIN A. GRIFFIN.

My interest in the Mooney case does not arise out of any personal relation with or personal feeling for Mooney himself, for I have no belief in nor sympathy with any of his alleged beliefs or doctrines, and such political and economic principles as he is alleged to hold are as far separate from my own as are the North and South poles.

I have, however, a deep personal interest in the case of the people of the State of California vs. Thomas J. Mooney for the reason that in that case, in the court over which I presided, it has been demonstrated beyond all doubt that a gross miscarriage of justice occurred, and believing as I do that a court of justice means just exactly what those words imply and that such a forum is erected with the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the issues submitted to it, and having the further belief that no man, whatever his personal conviction, opinions or belief, should be denied justice, my sense of duty has led me now to advocate the pardon of Mooney.

Picture Proves Alibi

At the trial of Mooney there were four witnesses and four only, who connected him at all with the crime which was committed at Steuart and Market streets on Preparedness Day. They were John McDonald, Mrs. Nellie Edau and her daughter, Sadie, and Frank C. Oxman. Of these, Oxman and McDonald placed him at the scene of the crime and the Edaus testified to his presence at 721 Market street, from which point it was contended that Mooney and his co-defendants, Weinberg, Mrs. Mooney and Billings, drove in Weinberg's jitney to the place of the crime.

The testimony of the Edaus is important only for the reason that it tends to corroborate that of Oxman, who swore that he saw the same four people arrive at Steuart and Market streets in the same conveyance a short time after its departure from the Edaus' observation.

The testimony of McDonald is inherently untrue and is shown to be false by photographs of the Preparedness Day parade on its arrival at Mason and Market streets, innocently taken by one Hamilton, an employe of Eller's Music Company, which by some fortuitous accident embraced a part of the roof of the building from which they were taken, over a mile and a quarter distant from the bomb explosion and which disclosed the presence of Mooney and Mrs. Mooney upon the roof at the very moment that McDonald testified to their presence at the scene of the crime.

Testimony Discredited

These pictures were suppressed and sequestered by the district attorney and were produced by him only after he had been directed by court order to produce them. In addition to these circumstances, far more important is the fact that McDonald has since confessed under oath that his testimony was perjured and given under promise of sharing the reward offered for the conviction of the perpetrators of the bomb outrage.

Testimony of the Edaus has been entirely discredited by two members of the Oakland police department, Inspector Smith and Capt. Peterson, formerly chief of police, and Capt. Charles Goff, of the San Francisco police department. The sworn testimony of these police officials produced at the trial of Mrs. Rena Mooney and Israel Weinberg, discloses that a few days after this tragedy at Steuart and Market streets, Nellie Edau called on the Oakland officials and then informed them that they were present at the scene of the crime saw the perpetrators thereof.

She was thereupon taken by Inspector Smith to San Francisco where the defendants who were then under arrest were shown her, and in the presence of Inspector Smith and Capt. Goff she not only stated that she could not identify them but that they were not the guilty parties. Subsequently in examination of these irreconcilable statements, Mrs. Edau stated that she and her daughter were at Steuart and Market streets "in their astral bodies." I may add that Weinberg and Mrs. Mooney were, upon their trial, acquitted.

Urged New Trial

Frank C. Oxman was by far the most important witness produced by the state against Mooney. He did not testify in the trial of any of the other defendants. His testimony was unshaken on cross-examination and his appearance bore out his statements that he was a reputable cattle dealer and a land owner from the state of Oregon. There is no question but that he made a profound impression upon the jury, upon all of those who listened to his testimony. And there is now no doubt that his story was the turning point in the Mooney case and that he is the pivot around which all the other evidence in the case revolves.

In brief he testified he had arrived in San Francisco within an hour of the time of the bomb explosion; that he saw Mooney and his companions arrive at Steuart and Market streets in Weinberg's automobile-jitney bus; that Mooney had a suitcase, presumably containing the bombs, in his hand, that because of the suspicious actions of the party, he took the license number of the automobile and that he was able to identify the members of the party. He described as well the placing of the suitcase by Billings against the wall of the building at approximately the place where the bomb exploded. It was because of the importance of this witness and his naive simplicity on the witness stand that when the disclosures of the letters he had written to Ed. Rigall and his mother was had, I requested the attorney-general to ask for a new trial of the Mooney case, then pending before the Supreme Court.

Guilty of Perjury

These letters are a plain attempt on the part of Oxman to suborn perjury and it has been since demonstrated that Oxman's testimony is entirely false and that he himself was guilty of perjury. It now appears that at the time Oxman says he was in San Francisco, he was in reality in the town of Woodland and that he did not leave there until after the bomb was exploded at Steuart and Market streets and did not arrive in San Francisco until 5:30 p. m. that day, shortly after which time he registered at the Terminal Hotel, located one half block from the Ferry building. These facts are established by testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Hatcher, of Woodland, at whose home Oxman visited during his stay in Woodland and by Oxman's admittedly genuine signature on the date of July 22, 1916, on the register of the Byrnes Hotel at Woodland, Cal.

The testimony of the Hatchers is a matter of public record in the proceedings of the grand jury of this city and county which investigated the Oxman testimony some years after the trial of Mooney. Later it has been shown by the statements of Draper Hand, a member of the police department of this city, who was detailed by those in charge of the Mooney case to look after Oxman at the time, that Oxman had never seen the automobile jitney of Weinberg until it had been shown him in the place which it had been sequestered by the authorities after Weinberg's arrest; that he did not know the license number of the automobile until it had been told him, and that he had never seen either Mooney or his co-defendants until they had been pointed out to him after their arrest and while they were confined in the county jail.

Entitled to Freedom

The detailed story of the Mooney case is far too long to be embraced within the space allotted me. Suffice it to say that every witness who testified against Mooney has been shown by facts and circumstances developed since his trial and which are incontrovertible, to have testified falsely.

There is now no evidence against him. There is not a serious suggestion that any exists.

In the face of this demonstrated perjury, in the light of its willful presentation to the jury trying Mooney, and in view of the willful suppression at the time of all evidence favorable to him, no fair-minded person who will familiarize himself with the details of the truth that Mooney is entitled to be pardoned.

Dogs Answer Call Of Wild; Kill Cattle

KANE, Pa., Aug. 15.—Three police dogs and an ordinary hound who have answered the call of the wild, were being sought today by Carl Benson, game warden, after he received a report that thye attacked a live cow and tore it to pieces.

The dogs, feasting on the slaughtered cow, were scared away by a man who had gone to a pasture to get the animal.

Benson has enlisted the aid of farmers and launched a hunt for the dogs in an effort to get them before they destroy other cattle.

Slaughter of sheep by dogs is common, but farmers say it is seldom that cattle are attacked.

Flealess Monkeys Discovered by Expedition

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—There is such a thing as "flealess monkeys," Dr. Adolph H. Schultz, associate professor of physic anthropology at Johns Hopkins University, revealed following his return from a two months' expedition into the jungles of Central America for the purpose of obtaining monkeys for scientific investigation and study.

Schultz and his party brought back the bodies of 133 monkeys they shot in the jungle. As soon as one was shot its body was placed in a muslin bag. On cooling, any parasites which may have infested it would become entangled in the muslin.

On none of the monkeys the party came in contact with could a parasite of any type be found.

. . . a Suggestion for Better Gas Service

Replace Rubber Hose with Copper Tubing or Pipe

TO ELIMINATE possibilites of gas leaks and unsatisfactory performance of appliances we earnestly suggest that consumers replace any rubber hose connections in their homes.

Ordinary rubber hose rapidly deteriorates when exposed to gas and it offers further danger of being accidently detached while the gas is in use.

The safe way is to use inexpensive copper tubing connections, for sale in various hardware and department stores.

If desired we will have our service department connect your appliances with copper tubing or gas pipe, charging you only the exact cost of material and labor.

Snook, Unmoved, to Fight Chair

O. Ricketts, of defense counsel.

If the judge overrules the motion Monday he will immediately set the date for Snook's execution. If the death conviction is speedily affirmed he may go to the electric chair Thanksgiving week—100 days from the day of conviction, as is necessary by law. Appeals may delay the execution much longer.

Attorneys for the defense insisted today that the demonstration that greeted Chester's address was prearranged and that spectators inimical to Snook were "planted" in the crowded courtroom. Attorney John F. Seidel said he had heard the day before that a demonstration was coming.

Efforts to delay the carrying out of the sentence will be fought by the state. Prosecutor Chester's only comment on the punishment meted out to Snook was: "The verdict of the jury speaks for itself."

Dr. Snook isn't worrying about the chair. He made that plain in an interview in his cell at the county jail today.

"I haven't thought about it," said Snook when asked how he felt about the prospect of entering "the little green door."

The "poker-faced," steel-nerved slayer was reading a magazine when visited by reporters. He was unperturbed, as usual.

"Have you any statement to make?" he was asked.

"No," he replied before I could do anything like that I would have to consult my counsel."

"Did you tell everything about this case when you were on the stand?" was another question.

"No," he answered. "I have lots left over. There are salient facts yet to be told."

He reminded his audience that his "affair" with Miss Hix lasted three years, whereas he "had only six or eight hours to tell it." He evidently meant his direct examination, for he had been on the witness stand 17 hours, including cross-examination.

SCOFFS AT DIVORCE

Asked if he had recalled slitting the co-ed's throat with his pen knife, he replied he had not.

"Is there any truth to the report that Mrs. Snook plans to divorce you?" he was asked.

"No, indeed," he retorted. "She was in court yesterday, wasn't she?"

Snook refused to comment upon plans of his lawyers to file motion for a new trial. He said he felt "pretty good, everything considered." If he felt in any way apprehensive over the prospect of going to his death in the electric chair he concealed it well beneath his icy exterior.

His appetite remains good. He ate a hearty meal of pork and beans an hour after he heard the verdict and this morning partook of a substantial breakfast.

PUBLIC O. K.'S VERDICT

Public approval of the verdict was expressed on all sides in Columbus today. Never in this city's history has sentiment been so pronounced against a defendant.

Interviews with "men in the street" carried in a Columbus newspaper today could be epitomized in the phrase. "Tickled to death that the jury gave him the limit."

Snook heard the verdict without a flicker of emotion. He never batted an eyelash. His "poker face" never changed expression. He seemed the calmest person in the crowded court room. He was as self-possessed as he must have been in those by-gone days when he rang up bulls eyes as the champion rapid-fire pistol shot of the world.

Gloucester Fishermen Trust All to Radio

When the Gloucester fishing boats —the fleet that Kipling wrote about in "Captains Courageous"—go forth to chase mackerel up to the Grand Banks, the fishermen receive information upon which their lives and fortunes depend, through Atwater Kent Radio.

There are 150 boats in the fleet, and every one has radio—not the flash-dot sets that trans-ocean liners use—but the same kind of sets you use at home.

The fishermen have their own broadcasting station, WHDH, which sends to the fleet the news of arrivals at Gloucester, prices of fish and the places where fish are being caught. The prices are broadcast in code. If they are low and a vessel receiving the information is only half loaded, it stays on the fish. If the price is high, each boat races madly for port to cash in.

The fishermen's station also broadcasts weather reports and personal information about the health of the families at home. On dull days when fish are scarce for the boats are loafing outside the Cape, waiting for news of the mackerel run, the sets are tuned

Zep's Crew Has No Fear of Guns in Troubled Russia

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
World-renowned newspaper correspondent, who crossed the Atlantic aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its first trans-Atlantic cruise, and who is writing the story of the Hearst-Zeppelin-Round-the-World-Flight.

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Aug. 15.—We left Friedrichshafen at 4:34 this morning, Central European time, the great ship rising rather soggily, but smoothly, due to the warm atmosphere and the extremely heavy load.

In the first hour we reached Ulm, the Wurtemburg city where the Austrians surrendered to Napoleon in 1805, and headed for Nuremburg, traveling at the rate of 90 miles an hour.

"The weather is perfect," declared Commander Eckener to me soon after we rose and started to the northeast.

"We should have a fine trip. Everything is in our favor."

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 14.—M. Karklin, the Russian geographer, informed Dr. Eckener tonight that there was a danger that the Russian frontier guards might shoot at the Graf Zeppelin unless the airship crossed the frontier between Dunaberg and Minsk.

This entrance, indicated by the Soviet official who, is a famous airship expert, is the regular international airway through which the regular airplane service between Russia and Germany passes.

M. Karklin declared that once within Russia, there would be no restrictions as to the route of the Graf Zeppelin.

Dr. Eckener was amused and not inclined to take seriously the possibility of frontier guards shooting at the great air liner.

"I cannot commit myself to any route," said the commander, "because the airship must be left to free latitude."

Von Schiller said, jockingly to M. Karklin:

"If there is any shooting, we will put you in the front where the first shots will hit you," whereupon both laughed.

Daring Voyage

Within a few hours we are scheduled to start on the most daring long distance, non-stop aerial voyage—from the western edge of Europe to the very eastern rim of Asia—that ever has been attempted.

When the Graf Zeppelin takes off tomorrow morning with 20 passengers, a crew of 40 members and bags of mail for far-off Tokio, Commander Eckener will be confronted by an undertaking in aerial navigation that may test, as never before, the nerves, knowledge and skill of that master air navigator of the world.

It promises also to demonstrate once and for all whether or not great airships are the solution of air transportation over stretches of thousands of miles. That 20 venturesome passengers, including one woman—Lady Drummond Hay, the intrepid Englishwoman—are willing to trust themselves to the Graf Zeppelin, speaks volumes for their confidence in the great air liner and their trust in Commander Eckener, Officers Lehmann, Schiller and Fleming, and the crew.

Navigators Calm

I have never seen Dr. Eckener calmer than when he left his office at 7 o'clock tonight. "I'm going home to get a little sleep," he said.

Lehmann, too, is smiling as ever. "I want to get a few winks before I go on the bridge at dawn," he said.

Fleming, who is the weather chief aboard, was satisfied with the meteorological chart. Schiller, after a hard day, was confronted with another problem of an oversold ship when Nelson Morris, Chicago, showed up suddenly claiming that a round-the-world ticket had been sold to him, too, in New York.

She will start away with 2,400 cubic yards of fuel gas, eight to 10 tons of gasoline and two to three tons of ballast water.

"We will have 150 hours of fuel for four moters at cruising speed and with favorable winds, which are indicated, I expect we will run some of the time with only three motors, thus keeping a good reserve for any headwinds we may meet," explained Commander Eckener.

The last day before the flight was enlivened by the tenacious, almost desperate fight by Haneko Kitamura, a Japanese girl, as sweet, as gentle and attractive as she is small, who was determined to get aboard the Graf.

The agency through which the Zeppelin Company sells its tickets had accepted a deposit from this Japanese woman journalist on contract to transport her to Tokio on the airship, overlooking the fact that Commander Eckener is not free in the matter of taking newspaper representatives on the flight, owing to contracts entered into with newspapers in Japan and elsewhere.

Wins Consent

It was impossible not to admire her determination against all odds. Mlle. Kitamura, who weighs scarcely 80 pounds, when told all the cabins were full, always answered:

"I'll sleep in a chair in the corridor in the interior of the ship. I'll sleep anywhere; just let me go!"

With tears in her eyes, she pleaded with Dr. Eckener, Capts. Lehmann and Schiller and me, and begged Lady Hay to intercede until we all yielded to her wish. She was told she could go, and she at once became the happiest Japanese girl in the world.

At that, the representatives of the Japanese groups of newspapers to whom Dr. Eckener sold the news rights for Japan, entered upon the scene and reopened the fight with the same determination that characterized the daughter of the Samurai.

There were threats of lawsuits and threats of withdrawal from the contracts and the danger of bad press feeling in Japan. It was now Japan divided against itself.

Dr. Eckener and Capt. Lehmann tore their hair in perplexity. Every sporting instinct was for little Haneko Kitamura. Lady Hay, who at first was not enthusiastic about a feminine rival on board although she had no right to protest, went completely over to the side of Mlle. Kitamura in the all-male fight against the Japanese girl, and going to the Zeppelin office, pleaded with Lehmann:

As a last resort, the Japanese embassy in Berlin was appealed to by long distance telephone.

Diplomacy decided. The little Japanese maid had lost her splendid fight.

While the others lunched, she sat in her room in the Kurgarten Hotel crying softly:

"It was my dream to return to Tokio by air. Now I must make the long, long way by steamer, which will take five weeks when I might have been home in five days."

FACE-TO-FACE REALISM
...another Sparton Triumph
Still again Sparton comes to you with something new and big in radio. It is an accomplishment of the magnitude you would naturally expect from Sparton . . . remembering such achievements in the past as the pioneering of AC reception; as the introduction of the revolutionary EQUASONNE circuit—"Radio's Richest Voice". Once more Sparton has taken a long stride ahead, and presents new developments which bring . . . "FACE-TO-FACE REALISM".
The NEW SPARTON EQUASONNE
An amazing new "something" is now found in "Radio's Richest Voice". It becomes really ALIVE, with all the warmth and charm of a human presence. You forget distance. You step right into the picture yourself . . . to FEEL the mood of the artist . . . to almost SEE as you listen. Your entertainers become living, captivating PERSONALITIES.
You will wonder at what has been done to so HUMANIZE the Sparton voice. The explanation itself is simple, but the actual accomplishment is a scientific triumph. The "range of inclusion" of Sparton has been widened to capture, in glorious combinations, both the fundamentals and the elusive OVERTONES which are the very essence of worth-while music . . . as well as of the depth and charm of a speaker's voice.
With this broadened range, Sparton gives full play to the individuality of the entertainer. You sense his mood and expression . . . you feel his presence and charm. It is more than smoothness and purity . . . it is more than richness of tone. It is genuine reception of PERSONALITIES . . . with all their warmth and color.
We invite you to be the judge of Sparton's "FACE-TO-FACE REALISM". We want you to experience its thrill. Accept our invitation—on behalf of Sparton dealers—to visit the one nearest you to hear the new Spartons and form your own opinions.

The consideration was not divulged and it was stated by Firestone representatives that plans for the use of the property were not yet complete.

table men and women of this section—is your guarantee that this famous compound with the ten wonderful natural ingredients goes to the source of indigestion, gas, bloating, biliousness, dizziness, specks before the eyes, headaches, pains and aches across the back, frequent rising at night, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness, and constipation. Learn more about Ten Herbs by calling at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this new medicine is being introduced.

"Some months ago Ten Herbs ended my stomach trouble, nervousness and rheumatism, and the ailments have never returned," was the recent statement of Mr. A. S. Richardson, 829 Western avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh. "It was just what my system needed. I used to have spells of indigestion that would last for a long time. I would fill with gas and have heartburn and sour stomach. There were certain things I did not dare eat. I did not sleep well, and had very little energy. My system seemed to need a good cleansing.

"I read a great deal about Ten Herbs and finally started using it. Your medicine did not work on one organ alone, but gave my whole digestive tract a thorough cleansing. I soon felt like a different person, as I had new strength and energy. My appetite improved, and I got so I could eat anything without having gas, heartburn, sour stomach or other distress. I gladly endorse Ten Herbs to the public."

ILL 20 YEARS; KONJOLA ENDED STOMACH PAINS

"In Four Weeks I Felt Like Different Person," Says Pittsburgh Man.

"No medicine like Konjola in the world." Time and time again this expression appears in the written or verbal indorsements of Konjola, the new and different medicine, that has won more than a million friends; that has become the most talked-of medicine in America.

MR. J. R. THOMPSON

"Why is Konjola such a success?" That can be answered in just three words—KONJOLA MAKES GOOD. And how Konjola makes good is described in the tens of thousands of voluntary indorsements from men and women that found their first and only relief in this super-remedy. And the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, greets untold numbers of Pittsburgh people who call to tell of their wonderful experiences with this wonderful medicine. Is it not wise to let these experiences be your guide in your search for health? Take, for instance, the case of Mr. J. R. Thompson, 415 Jackson Street, Pittsburgh, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"In four weeks Konjola made me feel like a different person. When I say that Konjola ended twenty years of suffering that is proof enough that this is, indeed, the master medicine of medicines.

"During all those twenty years I was never free of stomach disorders. Though I constantly searched for the right medicine to reach my case I found only disappointment and discouragement. I traveled the length and breadth of this state, seeking health—yet the miseries and agonies still made life hardly worthwhile. Food never digested as it should. I could not eat a meal without having gas form and press against my heart, causing pains and wild palpitation. For years I did not know what it was to enjoy a night of sound, refreshing sleep.

"Just about this time, when my condition was pitiful, I learned about Konjola. But I thought that it was just another medicine. I did not think I could stand another disappointment and so I did not give it a trial. That is my one regret, for later I decided to take another chance. But I was taking no chance with Konjola, for it was exactly the right medicine for me. In a month's time I was eating anything I desired, for Konjola had restored my digestion, improved my appetite and made me well. I sleep soundly every night, have greater strength and energy and owe all this glorious health to Konjola. Just think, twenty years of suffering ended by one medicine. That is why I am its lifelong friend."

Konjola is unlike other medicines. Each of its 32 ingredients has a special duty to perform, yet all work together in restoring a more normal, healthy action to the important functionary organs of the body.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of his new and different medicine.

There is also a Konjola Man at Dow's Drug Store, Diamond and Smithfield—also Dow's Drug Store, 5939 Penn Avenue, East Liberty.

Comment Concerning Shaw and Attractions Announced for Local Theaters

BERNARD SHAW LAUGHED OVER LUNT AND FONTANNE IN COMEDY "CAPRICE"

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

(Correspondence by Mail.)

LONDON.

BERNARD SHAW went to the St. James Theater a few nights ago to see Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne play "Caprice." It isn't considered good form for one dramatist to laugh at another's comedy. But Shaw laughed extravagantly at Sil-Vara's delicious satire. It must have been funny. It was.

Then Shaw invited the Lunts to luncheon. His own function was to talk. The others did the eating.

George Seibel

He generally dines off a Plasmon biscuit and a bean.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, who also is playing in London at this time, once said to Shaw:

"One of these days you'll eat a pound of beefsteak, and then the Lord have mercy on us women!"

Shaw hasn't taken to red meat yet. At the Lunt - Fontanne luncheon he indulged himself in a poached egg of moderate dimensions.

Malvern Rival For Stratford

"He's all pink and white," says Miss Fontanne. Looks as if he had been just scrubbed and rubbed. Ought to smell of soap and talcum. Generates ideas as fast as a clock can tick. Would make a prime politician. 'Do you know Mr. Lunt?' some one asked at the introduction. 'Of course I know Alfred,' he answered."

Despite his 74 years, Shaw is still wrestling with the lusty lad from Stratford. He is busy rehearsing the players for the Malvern Festival.

At Stratford they are having a Shakespeare Festival. At Malvern they are having a Shaw Festival, arranged by Sir Barry Jackson, England's premier actor-manager.

Shaw's new play, "The Apple Cart" is then to be presented for the first time in England. Other productions are "Back to Methuselah," "Heartbreak House," and "Caesar and Cleopatra."

But Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne won't be there to pay back his compliment by laughing at Shaw's plays.

They will be at Marienbad—once in Austria, now in Czecho-Slovakia, recovering from their strenuous London season.

That season was a triumph for Lynn Fontanne, born in England, who couldn't get an engagement in London a few years ago. And it was a triumph for Alfred Lunt, born in Milwaukee, who never drops an aitch and faced a British public for the first time.

They came, the first-nighters saw them, and surrendered.

Boy Eats Green Fruit, Sleeps In Barns

GREENVILLE, Pa., Aug. 15.—John Wonzik, aged 13, of Erie, ate green apples and slept in barns for three days in an attempt to locate a friend in Sharon. Unable to find the friend he started home but was arrested here by police. He has been turned over to Erie authorities.

Will Lodge in Goethe's Home

"Beware of Marienbad," I told Miss Fontanne. "That's where Goethe fell in love at the age of 80. Shaw's beefsteak is a mild sedative compared with the Marienbad springs."

"You frighten me," she answered. "Because we're going to live in the same house where Goethe lodged. But I'll be very careful to keep away from all men over 70."

From Marienbad the Lunts will return to America for a short season on the road with "Caprice." They open with Sil-Vara's comedy in Cleveland on September 9. After Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, they come to the Nixon Theater the week of October 28.

And a few weeks later they will produce a new play, "Meteor," by S. N. Behrmann, in Boston. It is a study in egotism.

Pittsburghers will be fortunate in having an opportunity to see "Caprice" before it is withdrawn by the Theater Guild. It is a racy comedy, rarely done by a perfect cast. Even Shaw laughed.

WALTER WINCHELL—On Broadway

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.

A Gentleman Makes a Gesture

MAY I be frank and say to you
That I am absolutely through!
I've stood all that a woman can;
I'm off to get another man.

What's that? You will repent, you say?
You could have done that yesterday
When I was eager for your kiss.
Oh, no, my dear, I tell you this:

I'm absolutely through with you,
To start again will never do.
I beg your pardon? Not so loud!
I can't kiss you in all this crowd!

Now, don't be silly, I have said
My love for you is really dead.
I know, but . . . what, dear, dine and dance?
A woman hasn't got a chance?

PORTRAIT OF A KIBITZER

WHEN the market slumped all the way down to here last week, Eddie Cantor hose-dived with it for plenty. His father-in-law tried to console with him: "Addie, dun't worreh. You got Menufecturuss Trost—dot's sobstansill! You got Guldmen-Sex, dot's also substansill."

"Oh," moaned the irritable Cantor, "please go away from me!"

The old man, who had never been squelched by Eddie before, ran into the kitchen and yowled to his daughter: "Ida! Ida! Addie jost insalted me somting terrible! I'm livving you house immidyitly—after lonch—or maybe efter sopper!"

SIMILE

Ten out of ten Broadway managers' promises are like the Ten Commandments—all broken.

IT COULD HAPPEN

WHETHER it is true or not they are spreading it around Hard Times Square about him. They tell you that Al Jolson's only fear is thunder and lightning and that not long ago it was raining hard and the heavens roared.

The frightened star then got down on his knees in his Ritz Towers suite and prayed: "Oh, God, please make it stop thundering and lightning. This is Al Jolson talking."

OH, MR. WILSTACH!

Frank J. Wilstach's Best Similes book might be corrected in the next edition regarding the famous simile "As much privacy as a goldfish" which is usually credited to Irvin S. Cobb.

The nifty appears in the volume "Reginald and Reginald in Russia" written by Saki (H. H. Munro) and published in 1904. Cobb first employed it about 15 years ago in "Speaking of Operations."

It's little things like that that make big paragraphs like these.

REDUNDANT RUDY

He always instructs the hotel elevator operator to "Stop at the main floor" . . . He says his penthouse is on the roof . . . He always refers to it as cold ice water . . . He simply adores "red" rubies, "green" emeralds, "jazzy" ragtime and sexy shows that are "risque."

OOP!

AND the office clown says he knows a Scotsman as tight as O. O. McIntyre's collar.

IMAGINE

When the Woolworth Building opened Old Man Woolworth was very particular about his tenants, arguing that it would damage the prestige of the skyscraper if they failed in it. At the time a man offered Woolworth $10,000 a year for the privilege of the Tower, certain, he said, he could entice sightseers from the two million "floaters" who come to Manhattan daily.

Mr. Woolworth, however, turned him down, even after the man promised the maintenance of the elevator. "No," said the founder of all those stores, "it would be a bust and that would hurt me."

Later, the idea appealed so strongly to Woolworth he tried the stunt, charging 50 cents to sightseers to inspect New York from the tower.

The first year 120,000 persons paid half a dollar for the treat, netting the multimillionaire $60,000 on the other fellow's idea.

HEHEHEH

When Walter Hagen made his celebrated 68 in the British Open Championship Bert Ennis and Earle Hampton, who got the news between holes on a Hollywood course, stood in wide-eyed amazement.

"If that's golf," cracked Hampton after he recovered his powers of speech, "what in Heaven is the name of the game we play?"

THE RETORT TERRIBLE

CHARLES RAY, the one time moom picture favorite and now a two-a-day feature, attended an affair given in honor of a visiting femme novelist. Getting a moment to chat with her and for want of something better to say, Ray asked her if she liked egotistical men as well as the other kind.

"What," was the indifferent reply, "other kind?"

RUSE

The Government's newest wrinkle in obtaining convictions of bootleggers, heretofore pretty difficult, rests for its success on the selection of the jury. The prosecution now attempts to engineer it so that the jurymen are, to all appearances, confirmed drinkers, a direct reversal of policy.

The prosecution then proceeds to make a complete and convincing analysis of the stuff the defendant is accused of peddling, the result leaving a profound impression on the jury, when they see what it is doing to their abdomens (ritz for tummines).

In high rage, they rarely fail to bring in a verdict in favor of the prosecution.

SOTTO VOCE

"Mickey": Veriwell.
J. Harper: No can use.
Max Hoffman, Jr.: Used it two years ago.
Pearl Weston: Your rhymes don't.

NEWSPAPERMAN STUFF

IT happened to Art Bossin, one of the better fire wagon chasers on one of the Canadian rags. He was assigned to get descriptive stuff at a prayer meeting conducted by one of those hectic evangelists who make religious whoopee. Bossin managed to worm into a doorway and was about to hustle back to the office when the congregation knelt to pray.

The revivalist, walking silently among the crowd, noticed him.

"Well, my man," he said, "have you decided to give your soul to the Lord and be saved?"

"I am a reporter," said Bossin stiffly.

"Oh," the Reverend apologized, "I beg your pardon."

Hunts Location, Finds It in Jail Cell

FARRELL, Pa., Aug. 15.—John Badrnza, 37, of Sharon, dropped into the local police station to find the location of Stewart avenue. He found it—but it was cell in the police station and not the avenue. County Detective Samuel Leyshock, sitting in the station, recognized the man as one he had been seeking since February.

He also went to the street and found Mrs. Mary Markus, also of Sharon, sitting in the car. The woman was lodged in a cell.

Last February officers found two gallons of liquor in her home and saw Badrnza leaving with a five gallon keg which he later dropped in his effort to escape. Both have been held for court.

STAGE, SCREEN PROGRAM VARIED

Next week's vehicle for the George Sharp Players in the Pitt is to be "The Old Soak," the comedy by Don Marquis, in which Raymond Hitchcock appeared here when the play was touring. Hugh O'Connell will play the title role.

The stage presentation in which Teddy Joyce will make his return in the Penn next week is a musical extravaganza entitled "Let's Go." The screen attraction is to be "Wonder of Women," with Lewis Stone, Peggy Wood and Leila Hyams. It is a talking production made from Herman Sudermann's novel, The Wife of Stephen Tromholt."

"The Hottentot" comes to the Stanley Friday as an all-talking attraction starring Edward Everett Horton and Patsy Ruth Miller. On the stage Brooke Johns is to present "Speed Mania."

"BROADWAY" TWO WEEKS

"Broadway," all-talking film melodrama, featuring Glenn Tryon, Merna Kennedy and Evelyn Brent, has been retained for a second and final week in the Grand.

Lon Chaney appears as a railroad engineer in "Thunder," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sound synchronized railroad drama coming to the Aldine next week. Phyllis Haver is featured also.

Alice White, in her latest all-talking film, "Broadway Babies," comes to the Olympic next week.

Eddie Leonard, in "Melody Lane," is the all-talking and singing attraction in the Harris next week. This is Leonard's initial screen venture.

"Dark Streets," all-talking film, comes to the Enright Saturday with Jack Mulhall in the leading role. On the stage Dick Powell will present "Zig Zag."

"Fashions in Love," Adolphe Menjou's all-talking production, will be the attraction in the Regent for three days, opening Saturday.

Clara Bow, supported by Richard Arlen, comes to the Liberty Saturday in her latest talking film, "Dangerous Curves."

Norma Shearer, in "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," will be the feature all-talking picture in the Sheridan Square the first three days of next week. Eddie Leonard, in "Melody Lane," will be seen and heard the last half of the week.

Famous Dance Orchestras Play on Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

MUSICAL comedy hits, past and present, will be given an audition by the Lehn and Fink Serenaders in a jubilee program over KDKA at 8 p. m.

Leo Reisman, the Victor star over WCAE at 8:30, has withheld the repertoire for his dance concert but we assume it will be in all proportion to the excellent program presented last Thursday by the High Hatters.

From Piney Woods, Mississippi, come the Cotton Blossom Singers who will give a program in the KDKA studio at 7 o'clock.

Temple Hour has been changed from Saturday night to Thursday night over WJAS, effective this evening at 10 p. m.

Vincent Lopez and his Orchestra again will lead the Kylectroneers, KDKA at 7:30, in "Caprice Viennoise" and a novelty, "Casey Jones," as well as the usual dance numbers.

Spanish atmosphere will be provided in the Voice of Columbia, WJAS at 10:30.

We Now Present

"Cal" Mara, secretary of KQV, was very liberal with kisses upon returning from her vacation yesterday. Besides lots of candy, she brought a heavy coat of tan from the well-known seaboard resort.

Queer indeed is the impression a listener gets of a person before the microphone. Of the replies judged in the Freed "Sound-Eye Test" conducted by the Allied Electric Supply Company recently, not one has come close to a perfect score. It was noted that men invariably classified Ermine Calloway as a brunette, where she actually is a blue-eyed blonde. The girls expressed a belief that Curt Peterson was single, but he's married. Maj. Edward Bowes, whom they judged to be a scholarly person, never attended college, while George Frame Brown, "Mat Thompkins" of Real Folks, whom many judged to be without much school learnin', turned out to be a graduate of the University of Washington and a very good student. The winner of the Freed radio for the best score in this test will be announced Sunday.

The walls of the KDKA reception room in the William Penn have been given a fresh coat of paint. We still await the "official opening" of these studios.

We haven't forgotten the Radio Favorites' poll, and we hope to be in a position to announce the leaders this Sunday, as well as the winners of 200 complimentary tickets to the Pittsburgh Radio Show. It's a job!

Al Jolson, accompanied by an 11-piece orchestra, will be the feature attraction over the WEAF network tomorrow night at 11.

Robert Considine, a notorious criminal, but lately released from Folsom Prison after completing a sentence which rounds out more than 20 years of confinement in France, America, England and South Africa, is the author of tonight's drama. Considine became especially notorious from his shooting of Eddie Guerin, another criminal, and the estranged friend of Chicago May, with which "cleverest crook" Considine was associated for years. "Elbows Across the Street" is an account of Considine's most notable coup, committed in London with Chicago May's assistance, and is a thrilling, human document no one but an accomplished and experienced member of the underworld could have written.

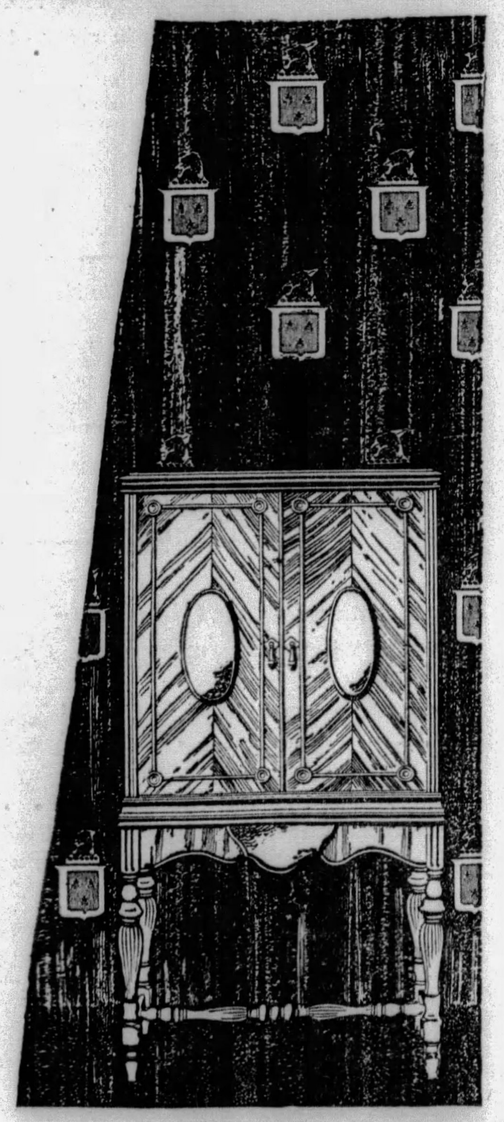
Presenting the C. A. Earl Radio



The Super-Selective Set
Tested to Meet Any Broadcasting Condition Anywhere in This Country

"AN old-established reputation" counts for little in radio. Each new model must stand or fall on its own merits. We offer you the C. A. Earl as a "show down" set, a challenger for first place, on the strength of its performance—tested as to super-selectivity, tone and quality.

For some time important dealers have been urging me to put out a set bearing my own name. I appreciated the compliment but—

I determined to wait until we had produced a receiver that would offer a really brilliant performance under the most adverse reception conditions imaginable anywhere. The C. A. Earl is that receiver.

"Hair-Line" Super-Selectivity, absolutely unique in radio — that is exclusively C. A. Earl.

The traffic on the air may be at its thickest. Nearer and more powerful stations may volley and thunder. But so far as you are concerned there is only one station on the air—the station you are listening to.

That "Hair-Line" Super-Selectivity has been tested from New England to California. The C. A. Earl Radio has been subjected to the most searching tests any radio has ever undergone—in good reception areas and bad reception areas. The performance is outstanding under all conditions. We know that.

On the basis of that Super-Selectivity the C. A. Earl challenges the world. Compare the C. A. Earl with whatever set you please at whatever price.

Will you do me a very great favor? I want your opinion and that of a million other radio users as to how the C. A. Earl compares with the highest priced receivers on the market. Won't you listen to a C. A. Earl Radio at the nearest dealer's (his name on request)? Then tell him or write me personally your frank opinion. Thank you.

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT by ERICH M. REMARQUE

After Painful Train Ride Paul and Kropp Are Put in Hospital

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Paul Baumer and his soldier comrades all enlisted at 18. During their training, they were abused and persecuted by a former mail-carrier, now Corp. Himmelstross. Hating him, they beat him up the last night. Later, at the front, he appears. One of the privates calls him a "dirty hound." He threatens court-martial. Light sentences are imposed when the lieutenant learns the whole story of the corporal's abuse in camp. Paul and his comrades are back in the front lines. On the way they passed piles of new coffins. Their spirits are low. After days of fighting, the trenches are wrecked. Food is scarce and the barrage is so heavy that none can be brought up. Baumer and his comrades are in hand-to-hand fighting defending their position. After a successful counter-attack, night comes and all is quiet in the trenches. Again the shelling begins; attack, counter-attack, charge, repulse. Young recruits, with little knowledge of warfare, fall the easiest victims. Paul's company has been relieved and casualties are found to be numerous. While in swimming Paul and his comrades speak to several French girls across the canal. That night they visit the girls' home. Paul is granted a furlough but is sorry when he leaves his comrades. Everything at home seems changed and he is not at ease. He hates the silly questions asked about the fighting. Paul goes to see Mrs. Kemmerich and lies to her about the way her son was killed. He has reported back to the camp where he had his first training as a soldier. Paul returns to the front and is glad to be with his old comrades again. The Kaiser reviews the troops and they are disappointed in him. Paul, out on patrol, loses his comrades during a heavy barrage. He seeks shelter in a shell-hole. Suddenly an enemy soldier jumps into the hole and Paul stabs him. The man dies and Paul is remorseful. Looking through the dead man's wallet Paul finds pictures of a woman and little girl. Paul returns safely to his own trench. Left to guard an abandoned village, his comrades find a supply of food. Paul and Kropp are wounded. They bribe the attendants at the dressing station with cigars to keep them together.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIX.

OUR stretchers stand on the platform. We wait for the train. It rains and the station has no roof. Our covers are thin. We waited already two hours.

The sergeant major looks after us like a mother. Although I feel pretty bad I do not let our scheme out of my mind. Occasionally I let him see the packet and give him one cigar in advance. In exchange the sergeant major covers us with a waterproof sheet.

"Albert, old man," I suddenly bethink myself, "our four-poster and the cat—"

"And the club chairs," he adds.

Yes, the club chairs with red plush. In the evening we used to sit in them like lords, and intended later on to let them out by the hour. One cigaret per hour. It might have turned into a regular business, a real good living.

"And our bags of grub, too, Albert."

We grow melancholy. We might have made some use of the things. If only the train left one day later Kat would be sure to find us and bring us the stuff.

What damned hard luck! In our bellies there is gruel, mean hospital stuff, and in our bags roast pork. But we are so weak that we cannot work up any more excitement about it.

The stretchers are sopping wet by the time the train arrives in the morning. The sergeant major sees to it that we are put in the same car. There is a crowd of Red Cross nurses. Kropp is stowed in below. I am lifted up and put into the bed above him.

"Good God!" I exclaimed suddenly.

"What is it?" asks the sister.

I cast a glance at the bed. It is covered with clean snow-white linen, that even has the marks of the iron still on it. And my shirt has gone six weeks without being washed and is terribly muddy.

"Can't you get in by yourself?" asks the sister gently.

"Why, yes," I say in a sweat, "but take off the bed cover first."

"What for?"

I felt like a pig. Must I get in there? — "It will get—" I hesitate.

"A little bit dirty?" she suggests helpfully. "That does not matter, we will wash it again afterwards."

"No, no, not that—" I say excitedly. I am not equal to such overwhelming refinement.

"When you have been lying out there in the trenches, surely we can wash a sheet," she goes on.

I look at her, she is young and crisp, spotless and neat, like everything here; a man cannot realize that it isn't for officers only, and feels himself strange and in some way even alarmed.

All the same, the woman is a torn entor, she is going to force me to say it. "It is only—" I try again, surely she must know what I mean.

"What is it then?"

"Because of the lice," I bawl out at last.

She laughs. "Well, they must have a good day for once, too."

Now I don't care any more. I scramble into bed and pull up the covers.

A hand gropes over the bed cover. The sergeant-major. He goes off with the cigars.

An hour later we notice that we are moving.

At night I cannot sleep. Kropp is restless, too. The train rides easily over the rails. I cannot realize it all yet; a bed, a train, home. "Albert!" I whisper.

"Yes—"

"Do you know where the washroom is?"

"Over to the right of the door, I think."

"I'm going to have a look." It is dark, I grope for the edge of the bed and cautiously try to slide down. But my foot finds no support, I begin to slip, the plaster leg is no help, and with a crash I lie on the floor.

"Damn!" I say.

"Have you bumped yourself?" asks Kropp.

"You could hear that well enough for yourself," I growl, "my head—"

A door opens in the rear of the car. The sister comes with a light and looks at me.

"He has fallen out of bed —"

She feels my pulse and smoothes my forehead. "You haven't any fever, though."

"No," I agree.

"Have you been dreaming then?" she asks.

"Perhaps—" I evade. The interrogation starts again. She looks at me with her clear eyes, and the more wonderful and sweet she is the less am I able to tell her what I want.

I am lifted up into bed again. That will be all right. As soon as she goes I must try to climb down again. If she were an old woman, it might be easier to say what a man wants, but she is so very young, at the most 25, it can't be done, I cannot possibly tell her.

Then Albert comes to my rescue, he is not bashful, it makes no difference to him who is upset. He calls to the sister. She turns round. "Sister, he wants—" but no more does Albert know how to express it modestly and decently. Out there we say it in a single word, but here, to such a lady—All at once he remembers his school days and finishes hastily: "He wants to leave the room, sister."

"Ah!" says the sister, "but he shouldn't climb out of his bed with his plaster bandage."

The train travels slowly. Sometimes it halts and the dead are unloaded. It halts often.

Albert is feverish. I feel miserable and have a good deal of pain, but the worst of it is that apparently there are still lice under the plaster bandage. They itch terribly, and I cannot scratch myself.

We sleep through the days.

The country glides quietly past the window. The third night we reach Herbstal. I hear from the sister that Albert is to be put off at the next station because of his fever. "How far does the train go?" I ask.

"To Cologne."

"Albert," I says, "we stick together; you see."

On the sister's next round I hold my breath and press it up into my head. My face swells and turns red. She stops. "Are you in pain?" "Yes," I groan, "all of a sudden."

She gives me a thermometer and goes on. I would not have been under Kat's tuition if I did not know what to do now. These army thermometers are not made for old soldiers. All one has to do is to drive the quicksilver up and then it stays there without falling again.

I stick the thermometer under my arm at a slant, and flip it steadily with my forefinger. Then I give it a shake. I send it up to 100.2 degrees. But that is not enough. A match held cautiously near to it brings it up to 101.6 degrees.

As the sister comes back, I blow myself out, breathe in short gasps, goggle at her with vacant eyes, toss about restlessly, and mutter in a whisper: "I can't bear it any longer—"

She notes me down on a slip of paper. I know perfectly well my plaster bandage will not be re-opened if it can be avoided.

Albert and I are put off together.

We are in the same room in a Catholic Hospital. That is a piece of luck, the Catholic infirmaries are noted for their good treatment and good food. The hospital has been filled up from our train, there are a great many bad cases amongst them. We do not get examined today because there are too few surgeons. The flat trolleys with the rubber wheels pass continually along the corridor, and always with someone stretched at full length upon them. A damnable position, stretched out at full length like that—the only time it is good is when one is asleep.

The night is very disturbed. No one can sleep. Toward morning we doze a little. I wake up just as it grows light. The door stands open and I hear voices from the corridor. The others wake up too. One fellow, who has been there a couple of days already explains it to us: "Up here in the corridor every morning the sisters say prayers. They call it morning devotion. And so that you can get your share, they leave the door open."

No doubt it is well meant, but it gives us aches in our heads and bones.

"Such an absurdity!" I say, "just when a man dropped off to sleep."

"All the light cases are up here, that's why they do it here," he replies.

Albert groans. I get furious and call out: "Be quiet out there!"

A minute later a sister appears. In her black and white dress she looks like a beautiful tea-cosy. "Shut the door, will you, sister?" says someone.

"We are saying prayers, that is why the door is open," she responds.

"But we want to go on sleeping—"

"Prayer is better than sleep," she stands there and smiles innocently. "And it is seven o'clock already."

Albert groans again. "Shut the door," I snort.

She is quite disconcerted. Apparently she cannot understand. "But we are saying prayers for you too."

"Shut the door, anyway."

She disappears, leaving the door open. The intoning of the Litany proceeds.

I feel savage, and say: "I'm going to count up to three. If it doesn't stop before then I'll let something fly."

"Me, too," says another.

I count up to five. Then I take hold of a bottle, aim, and heave it through the door into the corridor. It smashes into a thousand pieces. The praying stops. A swarm of sisters appear and reproach us in concert.

"Shut the door!" we yell.

They withdraw. The little one who came first is the last to go. "Heathen," she chirps, but shuts the door all the same. We have won.

At noon the hospital inspector arrives and abuses us. He threatens us with clink and all the rest of it. But a hospital inspector is just the same as a commissariat inspector, or anyone else who wears a long dagger and shoulder straps, but is really a clerk, and is never considered even by a recruit as a real officer. So we let him talk. What can they do to us, anyway—

"Who threw the bottle?" he asks.

Before I can think whether I should report myself, someone says: "I did."

A man with a bristling beard sits up. Everyone is excited; why should he report himself?

"You?"

"Yes. I was annoyed because we were waked up unnecessarily and lost my senses so that I did not know what I was doing."

He talks like a book.

"What is your name?"

"Reinforcement Reservist Josef Hamacher."

The inspector departs.

We are all curious. "But why did you say you did it? It wasn't you at all!"

He grins. "That doesn't matter. I have a shooting license."

Then, of course, we all understand. Whoever has a shooting license can do just whatever he pleases.

"Yes," he explains, "I got a crack in the head and they presented me with a certificate to say that I was periodically not responsible for my actions. Ever since then I've had a grand time. No one dares to annoy me. And nobody does anything to me.

"I reported myself because the shot amused me. If they open the door again tomorrow we will pitch another."

We are overjoyed. With Josef Hamacher in our midst we can now risk anything.

Then come the soundless, flat trollies to take us away.

The bandages are stuck fast. We bellow like steers.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Becoming cynical at her mother's wish to have her marry for wealth and social position, Nancy Hollenbeck, young and beautiful, accepts the ardent attentions of Jack Beamer, supposedly an Englishman of noble birth, who is married to a wealthy invalid. On a mountain trip Nancy, after a brief courtship, makes a hasty marriage with a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. Sickening of the loneliness, with Roger away, she returns home to resume her old life, still keeping her marriage a secret. When Roger, deeply in love with Nancy, comes to take her back, she tells him unless he makes his home in the city she will divorce him, although she realizes her own love for him. After Roger leaves, Nancy continues her clandestine affair with Beamer, whose wife, aware of his philandering, refuses to free him. Louise, Nancy's sister, always second with men, now has a rich, though elderly, suitor. Beamer takes Nancy out to his stock farm on a jaunt. Mrs. Beamer unexpectedly arrives and Nancy is bundled into the kitchen. Beamer decides to placate his wife to protect his own financial welfare. Nancy, though humiliated, forgives all when he phones. At home Nancy assails her mother for catering to Lachman, Louise's rich admirer. When Louise, who is in love with Mat Tully, forgets her family dinner for Lachman, disaster impends. When her family is all together, Louise suddenly announces she is going to get married. At first her mother forbids her to do so, but later relents. Louise and Mat are married and leave on honeymoon. Jack tells Nancy he intends to visit his wife in the High Sierras. Meanwhile, Nancy hears he has been formerly a groom at a race stable in England. Jack's wife admits that she is trying to keep him away from Nancy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII.

NANCY read Louise's letter to papa.

"We're being very grand, with liveried servants, and lots of long cold halls, hung with art treasurers that nobody pays the least attention to. The place is full of doctors and newspaper reporters all the time, but Mr. Tully is going to get well, and that is a great load off Mat's mind. He feels a little sheepish, poor dear, at having masqueraded as the poor student out here. But mamma will be disappointed to hear that he dresses just as badly as ever. I've been shopping with Anne Rinderneck, Mat's cousin, and I have a perfectly huge allowance, enough for some lovely things for mamma and Nancy and I'm not forgetting Grandma. And tell papa not to worry about the bank and Mr. Lachman, because Mat says we can take care of everything. It really is nice to be rich, but I'm just the least bit homesick, and will be glad when we come back. Dearest love to all. Tell papa Mat is forwarding a check.

"LOU."

"Pretty nice, isn't it?" Nancy asked lightly, crumpling the scribbled sheet, forgetting she ought to save it for mamma.

"Yes, pretty nice," papa echoed weakly. And he shut his eyes, and pretended to doze. For he was heartsick. He didn't want Matthew Tully's money. He didn't want anybody's help. He just wanted to get well, and take care of his own family.

When she had gone he struggled to an upright position in the wheel chair. Painfully he bent over, and began to push and prod at his heavy, lifeless legs. But he could not move them, and after a while he gave up, and lay back with his eyes closed.

Grandma found him there when she came out to ask his advice about the legal terms that confused her.

"I'm thinking I made a mistake about the eucalyptus," she began hesitantly.

He opened tired eyes. "About the eucalyptus, mother?"

"Yes, seems as though I shouldn't have tried anything so big. But pshaw! I did hate those dirty chickens your father swore by. Seems as though I went kind of crazy there for a while after he died. Seemed like I had to tear down those sheds and have something pretty. And I always liked trees. I dunno, maybe I shouldn't have put in eucalyptus. Seems like they were planted too close, and besides, not being very near the railroad. . .well, I guess your father was right. You know he always said you couldn't trust a woman with money or she'd lose it." She smiled sadly.

"I've lost most of it for you."

"Why, Peter, you shouldn't say that! I never missed what little I sent!"

Oh, I know. About the time you got ready to spend some money for improvements I needed something for the family. There's no use pretending differently." He turned his head away, unable to go on. He was thinking of the cheap, thin envelope that had come, so regularly through the years. Cashier's checks. Money orders. He had never written to her except when he needed money. Just drifted away . . . got tangled up with Kitty . . . friends . . . and where were they now? "I've been a failure," he finished thickly. He wanted her to know that he knew it.

This was his Gethsemene, his darkest hour.

Her arms ached to comfort him. Her son . . . the only one left . . . She bit her lip. It wasn't pity he wanted . . . "I wish you'd quit talking nonsense, and give me some advice!"

"My advice isn't worth much." But he cleared his throat, and lifted his drooping head.

"Well, as I said, I couldn't swing the eucalptus deal. Taxes are too high. Looked like I might lose the whole thing when some oil people came monkeying around, testing out the country, and they gave me a thousand dollars for an option. I felt pretty happy about that—"

She paused, and he suppressed a sigh. Oil. It would be oil. Some of the money she had given him, that should have gone to save the eucalptus grove had gone into his own worthless oil stock. The stock that he fondly expected, up to a month or so ago, to make him rich.

"But they didn't find any. They spent a lot of money, they say. Well, it was kind of foolish to hope they would. I guess I should have known that old chicken ranch wasn't good for anything but chickens. Well, I guess we've lost it, Peter. I can't ever pay all that interest I owe. I was just wondering what I'd better do. I thought I'd show you the papers I have, I can't make much out of them—"

"What was the name of the company?" he asked dully. "The people that sunk the well, I mean?"

"Giant California and Southwestern."

"Giant California and Southwestern! Giant Cal and . . . why, that's funny! I don't understand that! That's the same company I . . . why I'm a stockholder . . . there's something funny about that. . . Mother, could you wheel me into the hall to the telephone? I want to call Burkhart at the bank, he—"

"Peter! You look so. . . excited . . . you don't think? That maybe we could—"

"Papa! Grandma . . . why, what's the matter? What's happened?" Nancy cried from the stairs.

"Just be quiet. You'll find all about it in due time . . . Sutter two eight seven . . . Mr. Burkhart, Hollenbeck calling!"

Papa held the receiver with a steady hand. He spoke with his old manner, assured, a little bombastic. His eyes were alight, he straightened his rumpled collar as he waited. Leave everything to me, his eyes said. I'll take care of the business for my family!

With difficulty Nancy closed her gaping mouth. When she heard him talking about Giant California and Southwestern she tiptoed upstairs again, to have a good cry. Poor pape, still fussing over his worthless stock!

It was the hottest day of the season. The horses lagged. Jack Beamer's face was red and set, he pushed on doggedly. His wife followed, a picture of misery on her sweating, tired horse. She wanted to stop and get a drink from the canteen that hung by the saddle but she was afraid to ask, afraid to try to unfasten the canteen without stopping. For she was terribly afraid of the steep, slippery trail, and Jack was in a vile humor. She gulped, and pushed a strand of wet hair off her hot face. Her tongue felt swollen. But she set her mouth and went on. If she got through this day without complaining Jack could never again accuse her of being a poor sport.

It was growing dark. Clouds were covering the sun. "One of those damned thunderstorms!" he snarled, turning to glare at the unhappy woman as if it were her fault.

And she, tortured out of all control, snapped back irritably, "You needn't look at me like that. I didn't order it!"

Then the rain came. Lightning flashed. Thunder crashed, and the mountains on each side of the narrow canyon in which they rode threw back the echo so that it seemed to be coming from all sides at once. Almost instantly they were drenched, water coursed down the trail, turning it into a miniature river.

A terrific crash, almost upon them, maddened Anita's nervous horse. It swerved dangerously, made a frantic effort to turn on the narrow trail.

"Jack! I'm frightened!" she screamed.

A light, powerful as the headlight of a locomotive, flashed full in Jack's eyes, blinding him for an instant. In the same instant he heard the deafening crash of the thunder, and a redwood, not five feet away, was splintered. With an almost human whining wail it gave way. Fell just beyond him.

"Jack! Help me!" Anita sobbed. "Help me!"

With a smothered oath he slid from his horse and led the shuddering, steaming animal back to where she waited, sobbing, some 20 feet below.

Piles Disappear Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent results can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent, and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from May-Liggett and Mayflower Drug Stores today. It has ended all pile suffering of thousands and must do the same for you or money back.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mystery Deepens as No Trace Is Found of Prince Georges.

I BENT to where Noel's hand pointed and agreed with his theory that here was the trail of the car which had taken Prince Georges, whether dead or alive, from the scene of the murderous attack which had been made upon him. There were two well-defined double tracks, one going toward the restaurant, where Noel and I had dined, and the other returning. Noel walked toward the inn for a few feet, his flashlight following the tracks, stopped abruptly, bent to the road, circling the flashlight around, and then ran back to us.

"The trail is plain," he said. "A car came past here, put on brakes suddenly and skidded a bit. Then it turned around and came back."

"Can you see the traces of any other car besides yours?" I asked. "Fresh tracks, I mean?"

"No," he answered, and one of the waiters struck in with the comment that there had been no visitors to the restaurant for a full hour before we appeared.

"Trade is terribly dull tonight," he added.

With the knowledge that there was nothing more to be learned at this point, I turned to Noel.

"We must find out where the car tracks go," I said, "and we must also do some telephoning."

"The police, ma'am?" one of the waiters said, and there was in his voice the fear of police publicity which most all restaurant people feel.

"No, not yet," I returned decidedly, for I felt that Lillian and Harry Underwood should be informed of this affair before anything else was done. Fresh in my memory were the details of the plot involving Princess Olina which Harry Underwood had frustrated, almost at the cost of his life. Prince Georges was a member of a royal family, in all probability the future King of Trees. The search for him should be in the hands of the government secret service with which Lillian was still connected, though not actively, and the police called in only when she should wish them.

The man gave a sigh of relief. "That's better, ma'am," he said. "Was there anybody you'd like me to telephone for you? I could run back and do it."

"Thank you, but I must get to the telephone more quickly than that," I rejoined. "Noel, will you take the flashlight and follow the tracks of that car?" If they leave the road wait until I come but if not, keep on toward the main highway."

"There ain't no road crossing this one till you get to the Montauk Highway," the waiter volunteered. "Leastwise not one a car could get through. There's a couple of old overgrown wood trails, but nobody ever goes in them."

"Inspect the entrance to those, carefully, oNel," I directed, "to see if there is any indication that anyone has left the car and gone into the paths. I'll run the car down to the restaurant and have the Underwoods meet us. I'll be back before you get to the main road. Come, Mary."

"I want to go with Noel," Mary said rebelliously. "He shouldn't be alone going down this road."

There was in her voice the same note of fear which had been there when she had discovered that Prince Georges was missing from the car. I hoped that Noel recognized it, as I put my hand upon her arm, stiffly defiant now, and heard the boy's quick protest.

"Oh, no, Mary. You musn't. You're hurt."

"Noel is right, Mary," I said firmly. "You must get into the car with me. There is no danger now, and you ought not to be standing, even."

"How do you know there's no danger, now?" she queried defiantly, but she obeyed me, nevertheless, and with the waiters again clinging to the running boards, I drove back to the restaurant and telephoned Lillian, being careful to let no hint slip of what had happened for fear of possible listeners-in.

"Will you meet us at the corner of Montauk Highway and that road which leads down to the Ashoken Inn?" I queried. "We're starting now, so please come as quickly as you can. Bring an extra sweater with you. I'm chilly."

I heard Lillian catch her breath over the telephone, for the last two sentences were code signals which we occasionally had used during our secret service work. They meant, "Possible danger. Come armed." But her voice was nonchalant as she replied:

"I'll just do that little thing. But it serves you right for not taking your sweater. What is it, Harry? Wait a second, Madge."

She turned away from the receiver and I heard the tones, but not the words of a hurried colloquy. Then she came back to me.

"Harry says he'll bring his own special new sweaeter for you," she laughed. "He says it has a new inner lining, and he says until he gets there you're to wrap that fool thin coat of yours around your throat and hold it there until we get there."

Her voice was high-pitched, laughing, and any eavesdropper would have received only the impression of the nonsensical talk in which friends so often indulge. But I thrilled to the knowledge that hidden in the apparently gibing message was the news that Harry Underwood had inside information concerning our dilemma and that we were to "hold everything" until he joined us.

Yet how could he have known so quickly of the attack upon Prince Georges?

The Fairest Flower -:- By Madge Geyer

"A ROSE for you, kind sir!" And she laughingly pins the lovely blossom to his coat. A veritable rose herself with her exquisite little face turned appealingly and temptingly to his. And as he watches her, he cannot help but compare her with the blossoms with which she is surrounded. There are roses and daisies and lilies and all the flowers imaginable growing in profusion in this tempting garden, but there's not one as fair as she.

To him she's the fairest flower of them all. Fragile, yet strong and lovely in her beauty. Beautiful with a beauty that is so unconscious of itself that its innocence finds a mirrored reflection in her happy face. He almost worships her, yet so flower-like is she that his only thought is to protect her and keep her loveliness fresh forever and ever with his love.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Circumstances Alter Situations

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have received a wedding invitation from a very dear friend. Although we have seen very little of each other for two years, we have corresponded constantly. My fiance, whom she has never met, she did not invite to the wedding. I feel hurt, and, consequently, have declined the invitation, which I would gladly have accepted had he been invited. Do you think that I am justified?

2. Is my stationery correct, also the form of my letter and my handwriting? I would appreciate very much any suggestions from you. S. J. C.

I COULDN'T pass judgment on this until I knew what kind of wedding your friend has planned and how many friends she was inviting to the wedding. She may have had, by force of circumstances, to limit her invitation list, and so could not include all the people that she wished to. Please, dear lady, do not do anything foolish to spoil your friendship with this girl until you know whether or not she could have extended her list.

2. Your letter paper is excellent, your handwriting is full of character and charmingly legible, and your letter form is perfect. NOW, aren't you proud? Anyone who writes such a fine letter, and of such artistic appearance, may well be.

Friendship in Business

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to have your honest opinion on this matter. I have been working for a man fifteen years, and he took quite an interest in me until he made some money in the past few years. I have given him a great deal of help and all my time, and now he wants me to work out of the place entirely. If I should leave there will be much talk, as I am very well known here and I would not like to work anywhere here. What would you do in a case like this? TROUBLED.

I CAN well understand that you must be "troubled," but an outsider could not possibly give you any advice on this difficult problem. There must be many ramifications and many angles, and these would have to determine what you are to do. However, evidently it is going to be bitter for you no matter what you do, and so, dear girl, just make up your mind to hold your head high and start again in another position. "The mark of rank in nature is capacity for pain." So hold on to your handful of stars, and this shadow won't be able to defeat you.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, August 16

THE sidereal operations for this day hold testimony of a sudden and quite unforseen visitation. It may call for an unexpected change or require a change of employment. The domestic or purely personal relations are likewise under a baneful or doubtful influence, calling for discreet and calm conduct. But there may be satisfactory new connections and renewed contracts by way of compensation.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year calling for preparation for sudden and abrupt visitations, both business and personal. They should be careful not to jeopardize their employment and should cherish and safeguard domestic and social affiliations from inharmony and harm.

A child born on this day may be clever and versatile but restless and unsettled. It may have unpleasant relations in employment.

I am bigger than anything that can happen to me. . . . sorrow, misfortune, suffering are outside my door. I am in the house and I have the key.—Lummis.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR ROYAL S. COPELAND

Guard Against Transmission of Typhoid.

ONLY a few years ago typhoid fever was one of the most common and most fatal of diseases. Today it is almost never met, certainly not in a well-ordered community.

DR. COPELAND

How can any educated person sneer at germ theory of disease and scoff about what the laboratory has done for the world? What has been done in the control of typhoid fever alone should be enough to convince the most skeptical that society owes an overwhelming debt of gratitude to the bacteriologist.

When I was a medical student we used to hear dreadful tales of the decimation of communities by this dread disease. The bullets of the Spanish War did little harm, but the germs of typhoid killed thousands.

Fortunately for the world, the control of typhoid had been learned before the advent of the World War. What was so terrible a scourge in previous wars was of little importance in this one. Because of the means of protection provided by the medical corps, the armies escaped it.

The typhoid germ or baccilus is a vigorous and hardy one. In the presence of moisture it will live for months. Even in river or harbor water it will remain alive for weeks. One writer states that the bacillus has lived in a sealed tube for more than a dozen years. When typhoid-infected water freezes, the germ will live in the ice for a period of three or four months.

The germ finds its way into the human body through food or drink. Water, milk, contaminated vegetables, and other articles of food may carry the baccilus. Careless food handling is responsible for most cases of typhoid fever.

The person who has once had the disease may be spreading the germs of typhoid for months or even years after full recovery has taken place. Examination of the fecal matter or the urine may reveal them. In some reported cases they have been discovered by such examination years after the patient had the disease.

The "typhoid carrier" usually has a colony of germs growing in the gall bladder. A notable example of this sort is "Typhoid Mary," who has been under quarantine for years, because of the large number of cases of typhoid traced to her.

Every case of typhoid fever means that somebody else had the disease and has passed it on to the present victim. This may be done through food or drink, or possibly the contagion may be carried by flies.

The doctor and nurse will impress upon the members of the family, and all the servants, the very great importance of guarding against the transmission of typhoid. If the first patient is properly cared for, that will be the end of the typhoid flurry in that particular family.

It is absolutely essential that the secretions and excretions of the typhoid patient be destroyed. This precaution must continue until after repeated examinations it has been determined that all evidence of the disease has disappeared. Not until then can the victim be released from observation.

SHE THOUGHT:

"It is hot... but even the heat doesn't excuse 'B.O.'"

Yet, to be polite,

SHE SAID:

"Isn't it terrible today, Uncle —90 in the shade!"

Poor Uncle Ed...a half-failure

—too bad he never suspected "B.O."

(Body Odor)

PEOPLE had never liked him. Despite his geniality, even men had denied him friendship. For all his ability, real success had always evaded him.

Now he was past middle age — a lonely man—unpopular, just a half-way success —and all for the same unpardonable failing—"B.O." Body Odor.

Odorless perspiration — even in hot weather

Isn't it too bad that the offender is always last—when he should be first to suspect "B.O."?

We're fooled, doctors say, because we become insensitive to ever-present odors. But we perspire constantly—more than ever in hot weather. As much as a quart of odor-causing waste is given off by pores daily.

Why take chances when it's so pleasant, so easy to keep safe? Just use the favorite bath soap of millions—Lifebuoy. Its mild antiseptic lather deeply purifies. You'll notice the glorious new sense of cleanness it gives—the marvelous freshness that lasts for hours, with never a hint of "B.O."

Note, too, how fresh and clear Lifebuoy keeps complexions. Remember, it guards health—by removing germs. You'll love Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent that tells you it purifies, yet quickly vanishes as you rinse. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

BALL VET HELD IN 2 KILLINGS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Samuel "Red" Crane, former major league baseball player, was held without bail for court on two murder charges.

Through counsel, Crane pleaded not guilty to the two formal charges of killing his former sweetheart, Della Lyter, highway department stenographer, and his rival, John D. Oren, brick salesman. Crane is alleged to have shot them in a back room of a saloon.

The grand jury which will begin its sessions September 16 will be asked to return true bills against Crane.

Car Left in Sharon Last Seen in Ohio

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 15.—Ohio men are blamed for the disappearance of an automobile owned by Charles Bair, Lowellville, O., while the machine was parked here. The car was seen in Hubbard, O., shortly before Mr. Bair reported the theft.

Firemen Start Blaze, Then Put It Out

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 15.—West Brownsville firemen were called out yesterday to extinguish a fire which they started themselves.

The firemen lit a lot of rubbish three blocks from the fire house and left the fire in charge of some boys. Residents fearing the flames would reach a nearby foundry, turned in an alarm.

The fire-fighters returned and stayed until the fire was out.

Heiress and Judge's Son Elope to Marry

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Miss Lindsay Harrison, 18-year-old heiress and daughter of the late millionaire Philadelphia sportsman, Mitchell Harrison, has married Warren Holladay, 19, son of a Virginia judge, it was learned today. The couple were quietly married in a midnight elopement to Burkittsville, Md.

AGENT'S DEATH CLUES SOUGHT

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 15.—(AP.) Finger prints on the automobile which Paul E. Reynolds, United States Department of Justice agent, drove shortly before he was slain last Friday, were checked by police for clues to the identity of the slayer. Reynolds' body was discovered in an irrigation canal, a bullet through the heart.

The car was found parked before a hotel here. Investigators also said they were inquiring into the activities of two young women employes in federal offices here who they suspected had associated with Phoenix liquor and narcotic operatives. Reynolds was said to have made a confidante of one of the women. Their names were withheld.

A possible reason for the slaying was seen in an intimation of federal officers that Reynolds had been working on a case involving collusion between former federal and state officials and Phoenix narcotic and liquor leaders.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Bud Still Sojourns Abroad

I WONDER if some of those folks who have been away from the city during most of the summer are beginning to find their interest quickening at the thought of the three or four months to come. It is certainly easy to imagine that the debutantes, at least, around whom most of the entertaining centers during the fall and winter, are letting their attention wander a little from their absorption in summer sports. They are destined for days crammed full of parties, and while that seems like a kind fate, it is not one to be looked forward to lightly. With a list of debutantes as long as this winter's, the girls can hardly hope for a breathing spell until New Year's is past.

One of the two Thanksgiving Day debutantes, Rosamond Fitch, is still over in Europe with her mother, Mrs. Chester Marsh VanKleeck, of East drive, Sewickley, I hear. Rosamond studied in Rome last winter, you know, and to the best of my knowledge, she didn't return home after the school year, but remained in Europe, where her mother crossed to join her. They are expected back in the States some time in September.

Expected home about the same time is one of the Pittsburgh matrons who is planning to entertain for the debutantes next winter, Mrs. John Crossan Dilworth, of Bennington avenue. Mrs. Dilworth is spending the summer at Jackson Hole, Wyo., and she is planning to arrive at home on September 16.

To get away from the subject of debutantes, though, I understand that Mrs. G. Cook Kimball, of Beechwood boulevard, is going East today to join her daughter, Marjorie, who has been spending most of the summer at Tuxedo. They are planning to spend a few days in New York. Marjorie is going to remain in the East until some time in September.

Away from home, too, are Mrs. James Francis Burke and Mrs. Lawrence C. Woods, both of whom have sailed for Europe. And sailing also are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Copley Thaw and Henry Carnegie Phipps.

AN engagement announcement just made, which will interest you, I know, is that of Patricia Grinstead, daughter of the William Wade Grinsteads, of Sewickley and Gautier, Miss., to Peter Anderson. Mr. Anderson is a son of the G. W. Andersons, of New Orleans, La., and Ocean Springs, Miss.

WHILE I was discussing debutante plans, I forgot to tell you that one of the September dates has been changed. Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of Sewickley Heights, will give her tea dance for her debutante granddaughter, Virginia Thaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thaw, III, of New York, on September 21, instead of a week earlier.

* * *

THE wedding of Miss Mary Agnes Mevay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Mevay, Jr., of Wilmot avenue, Washington, Pa., and Earl D. Meek, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Meek, of Elm Grove, W. Va., will take place at noon on Saturday, August 31, in the Mevay home, with the Rev. Dr. William E. Slemmons, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Washington, officiating. Miss Katherine Mevay will be her sister's maid of honor and Frank Lobmiller, of Wellsburg, W. Va., is to be best man.

WEDNESDAY, September 4, is the date chosen by Miss Dorothy Anna Steedle, daughter of Mrs. Charles P. Steedle, of Homewood, for her marriage to Francis E. McGillick, Jr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. McGillick, of Homewood. The ceremony will be performed at 9 o'clock in Holy Rosary Catholic Church by the Rev. Mark Kistner, cousin of the bridegroom, and will be followed by a breakfast for the immediate families in the Rittenhouse. Miss Catherine M. Steedle will be her sister's maid of honor, and Louis J. McGillick is to be his brother's best man.

MISS ANNA JANE SODERBERG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew William Soderberg, of Munhall, has named Wednesday, September 4, as the date for her marriage to Dr. Joseph A. Soffel, of Pittsburgh. The ceremony will take place that evening at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Sheldon B. Heath will be her sister's matron of honor, and Miss Anna Betty Davis and Miss Nida Jean Davis, cousins of the bride, and Miss Anna Mae Davis will be bridesmaids. Acting as page will be Sheldon Heath, Jr., small nephew of the bride-elect. Robert J. Daum will be best man, and Dr. Leigh Darsie and Charles E. Fralich, ushers.

THE marriage of Miss Helen M. Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Lloyd, of Garden City, L. I., and Charles B. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Walker, of Ben Avon, took place Saturday, August 10, in the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, L. I. Miss Ruth Flattow, of Staten Island, was maid of honor and Samuel H. Holmes, Jr., of Mineola, L. I., was best man. After September 1 Mr. and Mrs. Walker will be at home on Broad street, Williston Park, L. I.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM BURKE, of Forbes street, and their granddaughter, Marian Burke, left last night to spend a fortnight in Atlantic City.

THE Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, will hold its third annual golf tournament, bridge party and summer dinner meeting on Monday, September 9, at the Pittsburgh Field Club. The "Field Club" committee is headed by R. T. Hambleton, while Mrs. George L. Hays is chairman of the committee in charge of the women's golf match. Mrs. W. H. Stevenson is chairman for the women's bridge party in the afternoon. Franklin Z. Blackstone is chairman of the general committee on golf events.

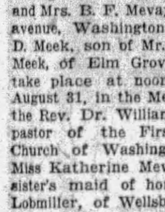
if cooked in this appetizing way!



MANY men and many children seem to dislike certain vegetable dishes that everyone knows they should eat. That is why the recent work of a group of nationally known women cooking experts is so important. These women working on the problem of taste rediscovered an old secret—add a dash of sugar to vegetables while they are cooking. It makes more difference to the taste than anyone who has not tried it would believe.

No, it does not make the vegetables taste sweet. That must be clear. The little sugar acts as a developer of the tasteful flavors—of the delicious flavors already in the foods. It also makes the vegetables seem fresher and it adds to their color. Experiment now with a little sugar in cooking every kind of vegetable and you will be amazed at the difference it makes.

A great variety of appetizing foods—that is the daily need of children and adults. Remember to use a little sugar as a flavorer for cereals, fruits, vegetables and milk desserts. Sugar, if used intelligently, can help everyone to eat and to enjoy variety. Think of sugar as a seasoning. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1929

APPEAL PLANNED ON CHARTER VOTE BAN

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

VILLAGE GOSSIP: Another of the large office buildings downtown has disengaged a squad of male elevator operators and engaged a squad of girls to pilot the indoor aircraft. . . . No reason for the drastic change was set forth. . . . This makes two buildings which are now manned, so to speak, by women. . . . What seems to be the fastest-growing community in the district is the Mt. Lebanon section, which, barring a very few architectural relics, is composed solidly of new houses. . . . One of the real boosters for this particular section is Ralph Hunter. . . . The district is well-restricted as shown recently when an honest banana man was told he would have to put up a tiled-roof store to the tune of $20,-

000 or more, but replied that that was too many bananas. . . . This is the time of the year when a great many city folk wend their way countryward of an evening to lay in supplies of vegetables and eggs right from the producers. . . . While the prices are about the same as charged by the city merchants, the customer gets some fun out of the notion that he is roughing it by driving out in his sedan and watching the farmer pick the corn, count the eggs right out of the nests. . . . The farmers, with a ready market downtown, barely tolerate the city dwellers who make personal calls. . . . This for the reason that the farmer has put in about 14 hours' work ere the city dweller approaches him in the evening and he does not relish walking a half mile or so to pick more corn. . . . Ordinarily this reporter does not have to ask the farmer how much for his eggs for a brood of home chickens supplies his modest requirements, but in the event you are still listening, recently our chickens came upon some lice, which have kept the chickens so busy, after a fashion, that they have given up all thought of egg-laying for the present. . . . The thing to do, of course, is to get rid of the lice, but how is a question not easily answered and in the last three issues of our favorite periodical, The Farmer's Friend and Guide, not one word has been said about the problem. . . . The airplane in this district is still on the rise, but Casper Mayer, the Bridgeville veteran who got into aviation some years ago, will tell you everyone who enters the business does not develop into a success. . . . There was the Williamsport contractor, for example, who became air-minded and went into the business of airplaning to discover that it was not all strawberries and cream. . . . Recently the contractor in question made a unique deal, trading an airplane to Mr. Mayer in return for a steam shovel. . . . The motor age has deprived John Finney, perhaps the oldest newsboy, from the standpoint of continuous service in town, of paper weights. . . . Mr. Finney is the gentleman who dexterously folds the newspapers at Fourth avenue and Smithfield street. . . . Time was when he could step into the street at almost any hour and pick up a horseshoe, with which he kept his papers from blowing away. . . . But horses being scarce and automobile tires being unhandy for the purpose, Mr. Finney almost prizes certain horseshoes he has now. . . . Some of them have been in his service so long that they have been worn shiny. . . . In his collection are shoes that are from 20 to 25 years old. . . . In the present scurry for the mayoralty it is unusual to bump into a man who wouldn't take the job. . . . For a brief time he was dimly mentioned as a possible candidate, and while never directly approached, he was fearful lest he might be called upon to serve. . . . He deems it the hardest, and most unpleasant job in public life and cannot understand why so many men are available for the post. . . . A Pittsburgh surgeon of renown recently returned home from Europe on a boat out to break the record and an acute something or other took hold of a woman passenger who required an immediate operation. . . . The Pittsburgh surgeon was called in for the job and performed it. . . . The captain volunteered to shut down the engines, but the surgeon in question said there was no need for that as the boat was moving smoothly enough for his steady hand and eye. . . . It would be a better story if the woman got well, but the operation was a last resort in a bad case, and the woman died some days later in New York.

CAR SERVICE TO EAST END CURTAILED

One-Man Cars Installed By Order Effective Today; Tripper Trolleys Cut

Orders issued by the Pittsburgh Railway Company effective today, in which schedules are changed, cars taken off and one man car service installed, will materially affect trolley service to the East End, according to patrons and car men.

The new schedule changes but little the service on the Frankstown avenue line, known as No. 88, the change in running time being but a few minutes.

TAKE OFF TRIPPERS

A material change will be made on the Hamilton avenue line, known as No. 76, when the early morning tripper will be taken off and the trippers in the evening will be sent to the barns earlier. This it is said will work a hardship on many shopmen who have been relying on these cars to get to and from work.

One-man trolley service to East Liberty and the East End district also was inaugurated on the No. 75 line. One-man cars have been operated on this line on Sundays only, but the new order extends the service to include week days also.

EXTRA LIST GROWS

These changes, it is said, will add from 15 to 20 men to the waiting list at the Homewood car barns, making a total waiting list of approximately 50. At the Craft avenue barns there is a waiting list of 15 men, it is reported. This makes a total of 65 men on the waiting list in these two barns, many of whom are considering, it is said, taking other positions, due to the fact that their semi-monthly pay is too small on which to live.

HESTER DENIES RIVAL'S CLAIM

Thomas H. Hester, Democratic member of the commission for the selection of jurors and a candidate for re-election, has denied current reports that Thomas Daugherty, one of his opponents, has received the indorsement of the Democratic organization.

Hester declared he is being supported by most of the prominent leaders of the party, including Mrs. J. Wood Clark, vice chairman of the Democratic county committee, and 80 per cent of the city and county committeemen and women.

Hester explained that Daugherty has been indorsed by James Houlahen, former Democratic member of the board of county commissioners, but that the party is not a one-man affair.

BUS HITS POLE, NONE HURT

Losing control of a Dormont-Mt. Lebanon bus, owned by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, according to the Mt. Lebanon police, William Wilson, the driver escaped with but slight shaking up when he hit a wooden telegraph pole at Washington and Castle Shannon roads yesterday. The pole broke in half, and the bus was damaged considerably. Police said that the bus was city-bound and it was very unusual that there was no passengers in it at the 5:30 rush hour. Wilson did not need medical attention.

Hearst-Zeppelin-'Round-the-World Flight

Zeppelin Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,
Pittsburgh:

Here is my entry in the Hearst-Zeppelin-'Round-the World Flight Contest:

The Zeppelin will make the trip around the world in ..... hours ..... minutes flying time.

The Zeppelin will travel from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Tokio, Japan, in ..... hours ..... minutes.

The Zeppelin will travel from Tokio to Los Angeles, Cal., in ..... hours ..... minutes.

The Zeppelin will travel from Los Angeles to Lakehurst, N. J., in ..... hours ..... minutes.

My slogan for the trip is .....

Signed .....

Address .....

How Long Will It Take Zep to Circle World?

With the announcement of the Hearst-Zeppelin-Around-the-World-Flight Contest prizes in the Sun-Telegraph, speed calculation has jumped into the limelight as Pittsburgh's favorite game.

As the Graf Zeppelin is flying the second lap of its historic flight around the world, $400 in cash prizes is to be given by the Sun-Telegraph to those guessing most closely the probable elapsed time of the entire flight and the various legs of the journey.

What time will be made against the winds of Siberia to Tokio? Will there be storms over the Pacific, hindering the Graf's flight to Los Angeles, or will all be calm? Questions such as these must be considered.

Can you figure the length of time it will require for the Zeppelin to circle the globe. When will the ship reach Tokio? Los Angeles? Lakehurst?

For best answers The Sun-Telegraph offers $400 divided into 139 cash prizes to be awarded as follows:

For the nearest correct answer as to the number of hours and minutes the Zeppelin will require to fly around the earth $100 in cash will be awarded. Second prize will be $25, third $15, fourth $10, fifth $5 and fifty prizes of $1 each.

The actual flying time only is to be computed from the hour the Zeppelin left Lakehurst until it returns to the same point, allowing for stops along the route.

ADDITIONAL AWARDS

In addition to the grand prizes, cash awards will be made to contestants who compute the time necessary for the Zeppelin to reach the principal stopping points along the route. For the best answers as to the time required to reach Tokio, Japan, after leaving Friedrichshafen, Germany, the prizes will be:

First prize $25, second $10, third $5, and twenty-five prizes of $1 each.

To the contestants who give the nearest correct time for the Zeppelin to travel from Tokio, Japan, to Los Angeles, Cal., cash prizes will be awarded as follows:

First prize $25, second $10, third $5, and 25 prizes of $1 each.

For the nearest correct answers as to the time it takes the Zeppelin to fly from Los Angeles to Lakehurst cash prizes will be awarded as follows:

First prize $25, second $10, third $5 and 25 prizes of $1 each.

Entries in the Friedrichshafen-to-Tokio contest should reach the Zeppelin Editor of The Sun Telegraph not later than midnight next Friday. Closing dates on the others will be announced later.

Everybody is eligible in the Hearst Zeppelin Flight Around the World Contest!

You may participate in one or more of the contests. In other words, you can win one of the grand prizes as well as a prize in the smaller contests.

Each answer or set of answers should be accompanied by a slogan of not more than six words graphically describing the flight. Here's a sample slogan "Linking the Earth by Air."

TIME OF ARRIVAL

The time of arrival of the Zeppelin at the various points, as given in dispatches received by The Sun-Telegraph, will be used as authority in selecting prize-winners.

You need not be a reader of The Sun-Telegraph to take part. The coupon printed above is for your convenience, but you may write your answers on a plain piece of paper if you wish.

In the event of a tie the full amount of the prize tied for will be awarded to each tying contestant.

The prizes will be awarded after the around-the-world trip is accomplished.

Should the Zeppelin fail to reach any of the points of destination and the flight be abandoned, the contest will be considered withdrawn.

The judges' decision will be final. No entries will be returned.

Neatness and cleverness of slogans will be factors in selecting the prize-winners.

WOMAN FOUND IN HOME HELD

When T. D. Johnson, of 1960 Perrysville avenue, went to his second floor apartment late yesterday he was ordered out by a strange woman.

He appealed to the North Side police, informing them that some of his furnishings had been moved onto the back porch. The police accompanied Johnson to his residence, where they found a woman who said she was Mattie Brophy, 40, of 119 Park street. She insisted that the apartment was her home. The police took her to the North Side station, where she was being held for examination today, they said.

METRO PLAN WANTED ON BALLOT

Supreme Court Rule Sought As Judges Here Bar Issue At Election in November

Preparations have been started toward an appeal to the State Supreme Court, which sits here next month, from the decision of three Common Pleas Court judges here, who yesterday ruled the Metropolitan charter could not be voted on again in November.

This was announced today by County Solicitor Heber Dithrich. The quick appeal is being made so that an early and binding opinion can be had. If the appellate court reverses the lower court, the commissioners plan to submit the charter to voter again in November.

The county commissioners have neither duty nor discretion in the placing of the question upon the ballots and are directed to omit it from the November ballot, according to the opinion yesterday handed down by Judges James R. Macfarlane, Joseph M. Swearingen and Harry H. Rowand. The opinion was written by Judge Macfarlane and concurred in by the other judges.

FIREMEN HOLD PARADE TODAY

This is the day of the "Big Parade" of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association in East Pittsburgh.

A water battle will take place tonight, and the Rivoli and Frederick theaters will present midnight performances as a climax to the convention.

MECHANICAL MAN SHOWN

Business, education and pleasure were combined in yesterday's activities. Guides from the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company were kept busy throughout the day escorting parties on sight-seeing tours through the plant.

Instructive demonstrations of new electrically - controlled appliances were given before a large crowd in the Convention Hall. H B. Stevens, Westinghouse engineer, illustrated the working of the mechanical man, "Televox," which obeys commands given over the telephone. Mr. Stevens also exhibited a different type of robot, which plays recorded music in response to light reflections. A third robot extinguished a fire.

OFFICERS ELECTED

At an election of officers, H. A. Rottler, of Connellsville, was named president; Dave Simon, of Stowe township, vice president; William H. Sierah, of Braddock, secretary, and James H. Steel, of Wilkinsburg, treasurer.

Glendale was decided upon for the 1930 convention.

The Chalfont Fire Company won the daily water battle, which was followed by a parade of about 500 members of the American Legion.

A ball given in Cafeteria building last night attracted many. The Rivoli theater staged a midnight show.

BUHL FUND AIDS PITT FORM BUSINESS RESEARCH UNIT

IMPROVEMENTS IN TRADE AIM OF PROJECT

$244,500 Allotted University For Eight-Year Study of Means to Help Commerce

The University of Pittsburgh will try to solve Pittsburgh's problems of commerce and trade. To that end it will establish at the school a new department for business research. It will continue for eight years with financial assistance from the Buhl Foundation.

The program, announced today, compares, in the study of business problems, with the Mellon Institute's study of industrial problems.

The Buhl Foundation has made a grant of $244,500, to be paid in eight annual instalments. The university will pay the rest.

PROJECTS OUTLINED

Just as industry has been benefitted by chemists searching for new formulas and new methods to improve manufacturing, to present new products, to improve on old, so does the new business research department hope to find new ways or improve old in the conduct of commerce and trade. The investigations will be confined principally to the Pittsburgh district for the present time, it was stated, to stimulate business in Western Pennsylvania.

Some of the projects to be included in the program are:

Study of the fundamentals of Pittsburgh business.

Analysis to discover what opportunities the district offers to those who would start new enterprises of different types.

Analysis of changing business conditions.

Improvements of existing methods in the developments of this business area.

Publication of the findings.

Establishment of a clearing house for business facts.

Study of unemployment with the object of bringing about stability.

Calling the program "real pioneering," Chancellor Bowman said that it would be conducted with the future in mind.

"An orderly attack upon the problem," he continued, "carried on by trained and intelligent men with the co-operation of the citizens of Pittsburgh, will, it seems reasonable to predict, bring extraordinary good to Pittsburgh."

AIMS CITED

Statements outlining the aims of the new project in Pittsburgh were issued by Chancellor Bowman and by the Foundation. It was pointed out that whereas some of the principal national and international foundations had expended large sums for general economic research, the contemplated program here is intended to be of particular and direct benefit in eight annual installments, on a descending scale. As the Foundation's payments decline, the University's annual investment will increase, so that the program will be maintained over the eight-year period.

Both statements pointed out the fundamental nature of the proposed research.

Commenting upon the projected far-reaching analysis of the opportunity for industrial diversification and the establishment of new employing enterprises, the Foundation's statements said:

Fundamental researches designed to discov and correlate the advantages of a city are increasingly indispensable as means of maintaining its industrial position and of attracting new industries. It is believed that the present disturbin. of industrial balance due to the intense competition among cities, the rapid development of amalgamations, and the problem of technological unemployment due to introductions of new and more effective machines, gives the University's program greater significance to all the people of the Pittsburgh district."

"Third, That said petitions examined contain a total of 67,480 signatures of citizens of the City of Pittsburgh."

114 NAMES FILED

Mayor Kline explained that he did not file the hundreds of petitions because he felt it unnecessary to burden the office of the county commissioners with such an amount of additional work.

"I filed a petition with 114 signatures, far more than necessary," he said.

CITY TO RAZE BUILDING AT BRIDGE END

Structure to Be Torn Down To Clear Way for Water Street Improvement Work

The low brick structure at the southwest corner of Smithfield and Water streets is to be razed at once to make way for the widening of Water street. This is the building which City County once ordered removed and then, weeks later, was astonished when it learned that the place was still standing.

The building, at the end of the Smithfield street bridge, has been occupied for more than eight years as a fruit store, news stand and lunch counter. Abe Marsella, the last tenant, took possession last January. It stands on city property and the lease was canceled by ordinance.

Water street is to be widened and a retaining wall built, and the building must be razed to permit these improvements. When it is down, motorists will have an unobstructed view of traffic.

Mother Defends Son Killed as Burglar

CLARKSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 15.—Doubt that her son was a house robber was expressed by Mrs. Benjamin Rheck, after identifying the man shot down at a bedroom window by George Wetzel, glassworker, as a supposed burglar. The victim was William Bridwell, 25, of O'Neil. He was killed instantly. No action has been taken against Wetzel, whose story of the tragedy has been accepted by authorities.

FIREMAN HURT AS APPARATUS HITS TRUCK

Victim Hurled to Street In Collision Occurring After Fire in Greenfield

Thrown from a fire truck on which he was riding when the apparatus collided with a truck owned by the Duquesne Light Company in Greenfield avenue late yesterday, Hoseman Amel Rebel, 38, of 3538 Butler street, was seriously injured. Rebel, a member of Engine Company No. 31, was returning from a fire with his companions at the time of the crash.

The accident occurred in Greenfield avenue, near Second avenue. Rebel was plunged head first to the street and was picked up unconscious. He was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain and cuts on the face and body.

Rebel was riding on the rear of the fire truck, which was driven by Thomas McGill. Police arrested Walter Murray, 28, of 1311 Belasco street, driver of the other truck. The fire from which the men were returning was in a rubbish dump at Johnston avenue and Winston street.

FIRE TRAPS MAN SET FOR BATH

Discovering that his home at 218 Bingham street was on fire yesterday while he was preparing to take a bath, Walter Everett broke speed records by climbing into a pair of trousers and then ran with his wife to the street. The residence, a two-story frame structure, was damaged to the extent of $3,000.

The Everetts occupy the second floor of the dwelling and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lawler, who reside on the first floor, were absent at the time. The fire originated on the first floor.

TRENCH IN NEW PAVING BRINGS PROTESTS

Residents Aroused as Gas Firm Gets Permit to Lay Line in Hazelwood Avenue

Residents of Greenfield and Hazelwood are preparing for submission to Council a protest against the action of the Department of Public Works in issuing a permit to tear up Hazelwood avenue near Winterburn street.

The city has not accepted from the contractors the repaving of the thoroughfare that has just been completed at great expense, but a utility company was granted permission to dig a trench 10 feet long by three feet wide through the newly-placed concrete and Belgian block for a gas line to a residence.

All the other properties complied with city regulations and had utility lines run to abutting buildings while the excavation for the repaving was in progress, according to the objectors.

URGES AUTOISTS GIVE SIGNALS

Many motorists are careless about signaling with their hand when making a stop or turning, and most of them are ignorant that they are breaking the law, according to C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Mr. Roth points out that this unintentional violation of traffic regulations is the cause for many rear-end collisions. He cites that the State motor code prescribes a fine of $10 and costs for violation of this clause.

3rd Ward Candidate Denies Withdrawing

In a statement last night, Herbert Reel denied that he had withdrawn as a candidate for alderman in the Third Ward. He characterized reports of his withdrawal as "false and malicious misrepresentation, issued without foundation and without my knowledge."

A Budget Avoids Extremes

Charles Arthur Brooks

Vice-President
The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

THE man who travels the middle road between wastefulness on the one hand and miserliness on the other, has learned to avoid dangerous extremes in the handling of money. Just as you have to know the rules before you can play golf or any other game, you have to know the principles of regular saving in order to succeed in life. Intelligent saving, as with a Budget, indicates good judgement. I am sure that the person who displays forethought and thrift in money matters, will also show wisdom and moderation about everything else he does. My advice to the young man and young woman of today is, cultivate the saving sense.

At seventeen years of age, Mr. Charles A. Brooks started to work in a humble capacity for the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company. The Company was then in the early stage of its development and as the Company grew, his responsibilities kept pace until he is now Vice President of the entire Company and President of the Central Division—one of the six great divisions of this largest corporation of its kind in the world. Mr. Brooks is living proof of the fact that opportunity is not lacking for the man who applies himself with intelligence and industry.

What Mr. Brooks says about avoiding extremes in the handling of money, is of the greatest importance. There is nothing better than a Budget to help you intelligently control your spending and saving. In presenting this series of editorials by Pittsburgh's leading business and professional men, the Union Savings Bank hopes to call your attention to these things by personal, modern example.

One of the first steps in saving money is to start a Savings Account. Plan to save a certain amount weekly. The Union Savings Bank has prepared a booklet entitled, "More for Your Money," which has helped many in their efforts to save. This booklet will be sent free upon request.

SCOUTS HOSTS TO LIONS

Members of the Mt. Lebanon Lions Club were guests of Boy Scouts at their Camp Umbstater, near Sewickley, last night. That the Scouts were 100 per cent hosts was voiced by the visitors.

As the special motor buses pulled into camp, the Scouts were lined up waiting for retreat. After parading in review, all adjourned to the mess hall, where a hearty dinner was served. The boys sang their camp song, gave their individual yells, but were interrupted by a man who broke into the hall asking for his "Joie." The late arrival was later introduced as Bill Barnett, a Pittsburgh entertainer. Mr. Barnett delighted the attendant with his funny songs, jokes and recitations. President E. B. Goldsmith, Secretary Howard R. Haines and Charles Geisler were the speakers. The club held its regular weekly meeting. A tour of the camp followed.

The visitors present, guests of the Lions Club, were: T. A. Clydesdale, George A. Geissinger, R. S. Hall, Arthur D. Davidson, H. J. Mayer, W. H. Caskey, J. Kinsley and W. J. Barnett, all of Mt. Lebanon.

J. E. Mesta was admitted as a new member.

The club announced that next week's meeting will be held in the Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church, when E. B. Coll, vice president of the Farmers Bank, and past president of the Pittsburgh Lion Club, will be the principal speaker.

A photograph of the Lions' visit to the camp will appear in Friday's Sun-Telegraph.

SPORT COMMENT

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

Woof! Woof!! Gains Large Following.
Town Goes to the Dogs. Donie Bush's Position.
New Sport Takes Hold. Whip-Cracking Justified.

MORE ABOUT K. E.'S NEW JOB

THERE'S no question about it, this ol' town is going to the dogs.

Literally, that is, not merely figuratively.

Many were the skeptics who sat back and ho-hummed when the news broke that a greyhound race meeting was to be held at the Bridgeville Speedway. They didn't think it would go over for one of two reasons, i. e.:

1—The promoters wouldn't be able to get away with it because of the wagering involved, or,

2—The public would be so unresponsive that the promoters would have to curl up and quit after running a few nights.

Imagine their embarrassment, not to mention consternation, when more than 5,000 persons, some of them the best people in the city, turned out for the opening program, last Saturday night, and more than 2,000 followed on Monday and steadily increasing crowds have been lending their patronage to the newest craze.

THERE can be no question of the fact that the sport provides a lot of thrills—at least eight a night, for there are that many races on each night's program. The mad dash of the thoroughbred canines after the mechanical rabbit gets the natives worked up—especially if they have a small bet per each on the entrants.

Pari-mutuel betting is supposed to be illegal in the state, and the wagering on the dog races is patterned on pari-mutuel lines. Yet horse race meetings are held regularly at Ebensburg, Pa., with machine betting, and no attempt is made to suppress them. And the local fans who like to visit the race tracks hie themselves to Wheeling, Cumberland and elsewhere within reach whenever the opportunity offers.

So far as the public appears to be concerned with regard to the dog meeting here, the attitude would seem to be that if the sporting-inclined element gets a kick out of the meeting that is its business and there is no law compelling anyone to attend or to bet on the races. Hence the hands-off policy and the success of the affair, which promises to increase steadily as the days, or nights, go on.

ONE feature of the meeting is that the tickets on the races are sold underneath the grandstand and visitors can attend and look at the races without seeing a single bet made unless they stroll into the ring. Betting is done out in the open on fights and baseball games and virtually every other sport and little is thought of it, and bookmaking establishments flourish here that make wagers on the horse races at all of the tracks. The difference between these bookmaking spots and the greyhound races is that the patrons of the latter can see their entries run for their money.

Naturally, the promoters of the dog track are not playing up the betting angle of their venture, but it is no secret that neither horse nor dog-racing can exist without betting. The play on the races is what enables the plant to operate. The nominal admission price of 75 cents is a negligible matter.

If you doubt that the ol' town is going to the dogs, don't try to tell it to one of the already confirmed followers of the galloping canines. He is liable to laugh you down—and take you along and make you a fan, too.

ANY move that Manager Donie Bush may make to put the Pirates firmly back into a winning stride will be justified by the record of the club since it started to slip with the most roseate pennant chances staring it in the face, and for this reason the fans are with him to a man in his cracking of the whip on Pitcher Fred Fussell, whom he sent home from the East for breaking training, and his threat to hand out similar punishment to others of his athletes who fail to remain in condition to give their best efforts to the club.

After all, Bush rises or falls on the success of the team under him. Whether he will retain his job after this season or lose it depends on how the club finishes the race. He has reached the stage of tolerance where he may be excused for adopting a plan of every man for himself. Every employe of the club owes it his deepest loyalty and most sincere effort, and, with matters as they are, Bush, in justice to himself, can brook no indifferent playing. So far as individual recalcitrant players are concerned, it is a case of their heads or Bush's head, and Bush would be foolish to vacillate when he is certain that any player or players are putting him in the middle.

The same rule would apply in any walk of life. The executive in any position who permits the men under him to take advantage of his leniency merely weakens the structure under his own job.

YESTERDAY'S column, was devoted entirely to the machinations of one Karl E. Davis, former graduate athletic manager and alumni secretary of the University of Pittsburgh, at Cleveland, where he is trying to build another Pitt out of the athletic possibilities of Western Reserve University. There comes to hand now a batch of clippings from Cleveland newspapers which have been playing up the acquisition of Davis by Reserve to the exclusion of baseball and other timely topics during the less than two weeks he has been on the job there.

One of these, from the Cleveland Press, written by Stuart Bell, sports editor, I find especially interesting in that it outlines some of the problems that await solution by the former Pittsburgher, who leaves behind him here many friends. Bell writes, in part, as follows:

"Davis' greatest asset in improving athletic conditions at Reserve will be the virginity of his field. There is much to be done out there and his field is abundant in possibilities.

"He promises to get Reserve into the National picture, to build an atmosphere of activity and to redeem a school spirit that has lain dormant many years.

"Not only Reserve alumni, but the Cleveland public as a whole, will approve all this. There is an opportunity for our colleges through their athletics to advance the cause of Cleveland, to arouse the city's natural instincts and enthusiasm for sports and pageantry which have long awaited stimulation.

"It is unnecessary for this department to express its gratification over Reserve's latest move to improve its position in athletics. We began to boost Reserve before it began to do any boosting itself.

"WE HAVE very little advice to give the new secretary-manager. It probably will not be necessary to tell him that he can

TOMORROW—A HIGH-PRICED RECIPE.

CRAWLEY HOLDS EDGE OVER GOLDSTEIN

Ask the average local boxing fan which man he regards as the more formidable fighter, Phil Goldstein, of the Hill, or Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, and the chances are he will reply without hesitancy, "Goldstein."

Phil Goldstein

Yet these two have met three times and Goldstein has yet to score a victory over the South Sider. They will clash again in the 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night.

All three previous battles between the local rivals have been hard fought. The first, staged on the afternoon of Christmas day, 1926, was the final of an elimination series to determine the featherweight champion of Pittsburgh. Goldstein knocked down Crawley twice early in the bout for counts and it looked like curtains for Tommy. However, Crawley rallied and came back to win the decision in eight rounds, finishing by dropping Goldstein in the final round.

Despite the fact that the fans were clamoring for a return bout between the pair, they were not brought together again for almost seven months. That second bout resulted in a draw. Shortly afterward they were booked again, and Crawley pulled out his second victory.

RIVALRY FLARES ANEW

All three of these battles were fought in the Motor Square Garden ring. Since then Goldstein and Crawley have grown into lightweights, and their old rivalry flared anew recently when both put up fine fights against Tony Herrera in the Meyers Bowl. The rematch for a fourth meeting was a "natural," but it was closed only after considerable bickering over terms. Goldstein's manager, Jimmy Bronson, of New York, held out stubbornly until his demands were acceded to. Crawley accepted readily with the remark that Goldstein is one fellow he can beat any night in the week, and pointing to the record of their meetings to back up the remark.

Dan Billick, of Duquesne, will meet the best opponent obtainable in the semi-final of eight rounds Monday night. He is anxious to redeem himself for his one-round knockout by Jackie Rodgers in the same ring recently and has asked the management to get Jackie for

Foxx, Simmons Fail to Gain On Herman

Associated Press.

Jimmy Foxx and Al Simmons worked 17 innings yesterday while Babe Herman, leader of the Big Six clouters, was idle for the second day, but the Athletic stars still could gain no ground on the heavy-hitting Robin outfielder. Foxx broke even by getting two hits in six tries, but Simmons lost two points with two in seven. Babe Ruth picked up two points with three hits against Detroit. Klein lost ground and Rogers Hornsby was idle. The standing:

BILLY WALLACE BEATS GROGAN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—Making a game comeback after being floored for a nine count in the third round, Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, punched his way to a 10-round decision over Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, at Taylor Bowl, last night, before 12,000 fans.

It was Wallace's third victory over the Westerner in as many battles, and put the Clevelander on the doorstep of a scrap with Sammy Mandell. Billy received Referee Lou Magnolia's verdict after winning six of the 10 rounds by a safe margin.

Reardon Improves After Operation

Jack (Beans) Reardon, National League umpire, who underwent an operation for the removal of his appendix last Monday, reported himself "feeling fine" this morning. The popular arbiter expects to remain in the St. Francis Hospital at least another week.

Reardon plans to remain with local friends for several weeks after his discharge from the hospital. He is not likely to return to the game until next month.

SWIMMER DIES

Donald J. Hardy, 26, Canonsburg swimmer, died Tuesday in Albuquerque, N. M., following an attack of pneumonia. He was a member of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A., and held a Master Swimmer's degree and the Red Cross Senior Life Saving Medal. Hardy was a graduate of the Pittsburgh Academy.

TURNESA, CIUCI WIN

BRDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Joe Turnesa and Henry Ciuci defeated Bill Mehlhorn and Leo Diegel, 4 and 3, in an 18-hole exhibition match here over the links of the Mill River Country Club. Ciuci and Mehlhorn both had 69's, Turnesa 71 and Diegel 73.

CELLAR CLUBS MENACING LEADERS

By Staff Correspondent

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The National League race may continue right down to the tape with the cellar contenders causing moans all along the line. Consider the Braves, for instance. Boston writers state that the Tribe almost measured the Cubs for three defeats in the four games played, each contest being a hot battle, although the Bears were able to get three verdicts.

The last-place contenders have played .400 ball practically all season. The three of them—the Braves, Reds and Quakers—are feared by every club. At the present time the Braves are especially dangerous, as Johnny Evers, Rabbit Maranville & Co. have several pitchers in fine fettle.

BOOSTS RABBIT

Nick Flatley, the humorist of the Boston American, is a great booster for Walter Maranville, whom Nick considers to be one of the topnotchers of the game. Maranville's wonderful stride of the present season is pleasing to Flatley and thousands of others in these parts. Nick now states that the real reason why the National League has done away with the valuable-player prize was because it figured Maranville had been given enough publicity.

Lloyd Waner doesn't fan very often in the course of a whole season. Yet Percy Lee Jones whiffed the outfield marvel twice in succession in the opening game. The little fellow looked at a third strike in the first round, but he had his cut at the last pitch when he came to the plate the next time.

Dick Bartell's muff in the fourth, a misplay that might have lost the game, was his first bobble in more than 20 games which featured the clever infielder at short and second. Dick did not make a misplay throughout the stay of the Eastern clubs at Forbes Field. Bartell is a dandy little ball player and quite a hitter, although he is no knockout in the leadoff position. He has not been getting on consistently.

ADAMS LOOKS GOOD

Sparky Adams seems to be in the same form that made him stand out in the shortfield last season after Glenn Wright was injured. Sparky played more than 30 ball games without a slip at that time.

The Pirates probably will have to look at some nifty pitching here in the next three battles, as the Braves have Eddie Brandt, Socks Seibold and Bob Smith all ready for action.

Godfrey's Purse Is Held Up In West

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The state Athletic Commission, pending investigation, has withheld the $7,500 purse allotted George Godfrey, Leiperville, Pa., Negro heavyweight, for his bout here Tuesday night against Long Tom Hawkins, San Diego, Cal., Negro.

Godfrey also was automatically suspended from boxing in California for 30 days for fouling Hawkins, who was declared the winner. Ringsiders declared that both fighters were guilty of low punching.

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—The Pirates these days are like the country boy who is just trying to get along. Winning a pitching classic yesterday in the first clash with the fighting Braves, the Bushwackers felt they had an excellent chance to repeat this afternoon, with Remy Kremer all set to do his stuff on the mound.

Monsieur Kremer, by the way, had a game shot out from under him at Brooklyn last Sunday, and there is no denying that Frenchy and his mates felt the eleventh hour setback right keenly.

BUCS GET THREE HITS

Jess Petty worked his banner game of the year yesterday as the Freebooters scored a hair-line decision over Percy Lee Jones and his Tribal mates. The Boston lefthander, fresh from a shoutout triumph over the Cardinals at St. Louis a few days ago, swapped punches with Petty in a spectacular manner. Jones held the Pirates to three hits while Petty was throwing the Braves' offensive back on five blows. The score was 1 to 0.

The Boston hustlers gave the Buccos a bad scare in the ninth, when they had the tying and winning runs on the paths. There was a panic scene in the Pirate bullpen with the immediate prospect of a relief pitcher when Dick Bartell threw out Fred Maguire to end the rare engagement. To Sparky Adams goes the credit of driving in the only counter of the contest, and, as hits were at a high premium, Sparky didn't have to produce a safety to turn the trick. Adams paddled Paul Waner over the plate in the fourth with a sacrifice fly to Lance Richbourg.

P. WANER HELPS

The tally, which stood out in majestic proportions as the ninth round arrived, was half made on the ability of Paul Waner. Brother Paul started the inning with a walk, and, while Pie Traynor was heckling Percy Lee, the rightfielder swiped the middle bag. Traynor then walked, and both runners advanced when Comorosky sacrificed.

Acting Manager Evers decided to load up the sacks with the hope of getting a double play; so he ordered a pass for Earl Sheely. Up came Sparky, who upset the strategy by refusing to hit a ball into the ground. Sparky cracked a drive out to Richbourg, and Brother Paul scampered over.

PETTY IN JAMS

Petty was in one or two jams, the worst of which came in the home half of the fourth. Due to Dick Bartell's muff of a double-play throw from Sparky Adams, the bases were cluttered up with Braves, only one out and George Harper at the plate. The Silver Fox outfoxed Harper by making him mis a third strike, and then he made Cooney ground out.

One was out in the last of the ninth when Less Bell clicked a single to left. Joe Dugan batted for Harper and lifted to Sheely. Cooney, however, singled to put the important runs on second and first; but Petty made Maguire ground to Bartell.

ENGLISH STAR LOOMS AS TILDEN OPPONENT

AUSTIN SHOWS CLASS, BEATS SHIELDS

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, England's singles star, assumed the position of favorite to meet William T. Tilden in the final of the Eastern grass court tennis championship by his defeat of Frank Shields, 6-3, 6-3, here yesterday. The match proved that the British ace had returned to his almost faultless form which slipped away from him momentarily last week when he was defeated at Southampton rather easily by Gregory Mangin in straight sets.

Against Shields, Austin was invincible. In each set he ran into a 4-1 game lead, dropped two and took the next two to determine each chapter. Austin gained the quarter-final bracket, which was filled when five others joined him there. Of the eight men who are fighting today for places in the semi-final round, five are from the seeded list, one is a member of the first 10 but not seeded and the remaining two are earnest aspirants for first 10 honors.

In the women's division, the quarter final brackets were filled also, but in this instance, all eight are seeded players.

Gregory Mangin, of Newark, Eastern intercollegiate titleholder, caused one of the two upsets of the day when he defeated J. S. Oliff, indoor champion of England and placed second on the foreign seeded list by scores 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Harold MacGuffin, Philadelphia, accounted for the other upset when he won a well-earned victory over Gilbert Nunns, of Toronto, third in the Canadian rating, 7-5, 6-4.

John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Melvin Partridge, of New Rochelle, N. Y., 6-0, 6-4. Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y. won at 6-1, 6-1, from Bruce Barnes, of Austin, Tex, 6-1, 6-1. And Julius Seligson, of New York, just nosed out Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, by 7-5, 6-4.

Bryant in Junior Tennis Semi-Final

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Robert Bryant, Chattanooga, Tenn., won his way to the semi-finals of the national junior tennis championship today by defeating Earl Bossong, Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-0.

Bryant, as a result of his victory, becomes the dark horse of the tournament. He will meet the winner of the match between Ellsworth Barnes, youthful Californian, and Frederick Roll, of Philadelphia, for championship honors.

HERO BY REQUEST

DETROIT, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Fowlerville, Mich., baseball fans know how to pick presentation days. Yesterday they chose to honor Second-Baseman Gehringer, a home-town boy, and the Tiger star came through with four hits, one a home run. Just to make things complete he stole home. Gehringer was presented with a golf bag.

PAIN AFTER EATING

can be quickly stopped with ACIDINE, the new discovery, because it eliminates excess acid and digests starchy foods. Six out of every ten suffer from stomach digesting failure or as Webster's Dictionary puts it "Diastatic Deficiency."

ONLY IN ACIDINE CAN YOU FIND AN EXTRAORDINARY ANTI-ACID PLUS THE EXTRAORDINARY STARCH DIGESTANT "JAPTASE" WHICH DIGESTS 800 TIMES ITS OWN WEIGHT IN STARCHY FOODS.

At the first sign of SOURNESS, ACID, BELCHING, INDIGESTION, BILIOUSNESS, HEARTBURN, GAS OR A FEELING OF FULLNESS, take ACIDINE at once. Immediately your discomfort will vanish.

ACIDINE prevents starchy foods from getting into sour fermenting lumps and at the same time kills excess acid conditions. Potatoes, bread, cereals, in fact all starchy foods are liquified within 30 minutes and pass out of the stomach as liquid dextrin. In addition, ACIDINE contains an anti-acid which remains in the stomach and keeps it sweet for a considerable period of time. ACIDINE is safe, effective, swift, sure, and GUARANTEED UNDER A MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. Your druggist has it, or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

RINEHART WINS WAY TO NET SEMI-FINAL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Staff Correspondent.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 15.—A raging mountain downpour put a sudden quietus upon hostilities in the Western Maryland tennis championships here on the courts of the Women's Civic Club late yesterday afternoon. The interruption, however, failed to give serious pause to the event, for four crack racqueteers, from as many different cities had earlier passed into the semi-final bracket, while competition in the men's doubles and women's singles likewise had progressed well toward the latter rounds.

Marion Rinehart bore Pittsburgh colors into the penultimate round by carving out impressive victory over John Brown, rangy Latrobe ace, 6-3, 6-2. Rinehart's booming service was hitting and his ground game was more than ordinarily heavy and accurate.

MEETS RAMSAY

Rinehart's semi-final opponent will be Billy Ramsay, Uniontown and Lafayette College ace, who eliminated Paul Sullivan, Pittsburgh Athletic Association player, 6-4, 6-4, in a free-hitting contest that saw both victor and vanquished missing the lines aplenty.

In the opposite half, B. F. Arkle, brilliant Wheeling boy, surprised the gallery by the decisive fashion in which he trimmed Tack Hammer, steady and heady Greensburger, 6-3, 6-3. Arkle's hard, deep slices to rival backhand opened the pathway to forecourt.

Sam Cohn, conqueror of Arkle in the West Virginia final recently, came through for another clash with his blond nemesis by downing George Sawin, Steel City veteran, whose baseline game matched that of Cohn, but fell short of offsetting the other's aggressive barrier play.

The Cohn-Smith combine, of Beckley, W. Va., and the Ramsay-Hammer duo crashed the men's doubles semi-finals quite handily, while seeded favorites, Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown; Mary Will Wakeford, of Washington, D. C.; Ruth Martinez, also of the capital, and Miriam Sullivan, of Pittsburgh, forged into the women's quarter-finals in speedy fashion.

MISS HARRIS WINS

Dolly Harris, Edgewood girl, scored twice to attain the same round, but Betty Wattles, P. A. A. driver, was beaten by Miss Wakeford, fresh from copping the North Carolina title, in stanza two. The summary:

OVER THE HURDLES

Here's what the greyhound races at the Bridgeville Speedway kennel track are all about. The dogs, all especially bred and trained for the sport, are placed in the starting boxes before each race and are released by the lifting of the door as pictured above. Races are run on the flat and over hurdles, the dogs chasing an artificial stuffed rabbit propelled by motor on a rail. Rio Olive is one of the star racers at the track. It is used in races of one-quarter and three-sixteenths of a mile and is owned by Spot Davis, of Miami, Fla.

THE GALLOPER WINS AGAIN

The season's largest crowd attended the greyhound racing at the Bridgeville Speedway, held under the auspices of the Keystone Kennel Club, last night. The Galloper, reputed to be the best jumping dog in the United States, again ran away from the field in the final event on the program, a quarter-mile hurdle race.

The fourth race produced interesting competition when Craven Image and Hazel Faye had a spirited fight down the home stretch, the former barely copping the honors.

Tonight's program includes eight races, and begins at 8:15 o'clock.

N. Y.-Pa. League Trade Canceled

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—John H. Farrell, president of the New York-Pennsylvania League, yesterday notified the local club that the deal by which Pitcher Red Parkes was to be sent to Williamsport for $1,500 and Pitcher Bill Knowlton could not be carried out.

The league head called attention of the two clubs to the rule prohibiting trades or sales within one month of the end of the season. The last day on which such deals were possible was August 8.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Immediately following receipt of notice from John H. Farrell, league president, that the Parkes-Knowlton trade, announced Tuesday, had been declared void, the Williamsport Grays released Pitcher William Knowlton and Frank Wayneburg outright at Scranton, where the club played. Pitcher Frank McCracken, lately of the Rochester International League club, has been signed to bolster a wobbly hurling staff.

BRITISH GOLF STARS SAIL

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The United States amateur golf championship was the goal of a party of four British amateurs, who sailed yesterday to compete in the tournament at Pebble Beach, Cal., in September.

The quartet was made up of Cyril Tolley, present British titleholder; Lord Charles Hope, E. F. Story and T. A. Bourn, former French amateur champion. Story was across last year as a member of the British Walker Cup team.

"I'm not going to play for the American title simply because I won the British championship," Tolley said. "It's a long journey, but I've long wanted to play in California and this is a good chance. I can't say I think I'll win. It's a terribly difficult title to capture."

GENERALS, GIANTS TIE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 15.—The Greensburg Generals and Bachrach Giants, of Atlantic City, played a tie seven-inning game yesterday at the Idlewild picnic, the score being 3 to 3. The Generals led until the seventh, when the Giants scored twice after two were out. Rain shortened the game.

LEGION PLAY RETARDED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Rain yesterday washed out the first game and all the ceremonies attending the opening of the battle for the American Legion junior regional baseball championship. The first game was to have been played by the Baltimore team, champion of Maryland, and Wilmington, which won the Delaware title.

It was arranged to play this game at 10 a. m. today at Shibe Park.

At 1 p. m. there will be a game between Morgantown, the West Virginia champion, and the Washington, D. C., champion.

At 3 p. m., the winner of the Baltimore-Wilmington game will meet Uniontown, Pennsylvania champion.

The final game will be played tomorrow, between the winners of this afternoon's games.

WIN TITLE AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 15.—Winning two out of three games in a playoff with the Lutheran team, the Methodist Protestant team captured the championship of the Washington Sunday School League for the second consecutive season. During the regular season the Methodist team won 11 games and lost but two.

Hill and McPhail Reach Semi-Final

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Dr. C. M. Hill, Dallas, Tex., defending titleholder, and Donald McPhail, Baltimore, medalist, won their way into the semi-finals of the Old White Sulphur golf championship here yesterday. Dr. Hill defeated W. H. Carpenter, New York, 2 and 1, and McPhail was pushed to the limit to down Elmore Hotchkiss, Jr., Richmond, Va., 1 up on the home green.

Olive Kahlo, White Sulphur Springs, and Mrs. Angus MacDonald, Charleston, will meet in the final of the women's division today.

MAX SEEKS DEMPSEY FIGHT

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Joe Jacobs, manager for Max Schmeling, German heavyweight fighter, said here yesterday that Schmeling had not and would not agree to terms to fight Phil Scott, of England, as Humbert Fugazy, New York boxing promoter, told the New York State Athletic Commission Tuesday.

Jacobs said Fugazy did not have any authority to make the announcement to the Commission. Jacobs, who with Schmeling has been suspended by the New York Commission, said he has several tentative matches lined up for Schmeling, but is withholding acceptance pending a conference with Jack Dempsey, Floyd Fitzsimmons, of Detroit, and Paddy Harmon, of Chicago, promoters, at Chicago Sunday.

"The fight I am seeking for Schmeling is against Dempsey, and until I learn definitely whether the former heavyweight champion will return to the ring, I am not accepting any offers for the German fighter," Jacobs said.

FOURSOME PLAY AT OAKMONT

The women's golf committee of the Oakmont Country Club is directing a mixed foursome invitation tournament at that club today. A large, fine field is in the competition despite the fact that it conflicts with the playing of the Western Pennsylvania amateur championship.

BUTLER OPENS NEW NINE

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 15.—A big time marked the opening of nine additional holes at the Butler Country Club yesterday, giving that club an 18-hole layout. J. H. Allman, president of the club, hit the first ball.

In the competition, C. R. Koughler of Greenville, and G. N. Glass, of the Country Club of Pittsburgh, tied for the low net among the visitors, the former scoring 81-10—71, and the latter, 96-25—71.

R. B. Scott was low among the Butler members, with 88-18—70. In the sweepstakes, conducted by Walter Johnstone, Koughler won with his 81-10—71, George Thompson was second with 82-10—72, while S. G. Sears, 82-3—73, and W. R. Davis, 96-13—75, were deadlocked.

In the second flight, R. S. Scott won with 88-18—70; G. M. Glass was second with 96-25—71, and three were tied for third, W. Rockenstein, Jr., 99-28—71; S. W. Collins, 101-30—71 and Jack Stewart, 101-30—71.

SPORT COMMENT

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

improve the Reserve spirit by providing all the students with copies of their alma mater and other school songs.

"He may even get enough students for a cheering section out there and coax their voices into the open. In years he may even get a band, not one of those little German bands, but a snappily dressed, back-erect, 50-piece tooting, marching band that will have a tall drum major in the lead, his silver stick flashing in the sun or gleaming in the rain.

"One of his duties will be to inform the public that Reserve games are in no sense private affairs and that the public is not only welcome but urged to attend. He may find it difficult at first to whittle through some of Reserve's ancient and beautiful traditions, but eventually he will do that, especially after Reserve realizes that these traditions are something the whole city can be proud of when they come to know about them and not something to be selfishly kept for student worship.

"RESERVE will not have any Platz this year to stir up the citizenry. Platz will be remembered along with Reserve's greatest football heroes, but even his great playing and the improved form of Reserve teams under Gordon Locke failed to impress the W. R. U. student body last fall.

"The students did not come out whole-heartedly for their team. You would see them huddled into what passed for bleachers at Van Horn Field, but you did not hear them raise their voices in paeans of praise.

"There was a noticeable restraint about their acceptance of Reserve's new-found football glory. Perhaps, after many years of unsuccessful elevens, they would not believe a new era was at hand.

"One of Karl Davis' jobs is to change all this. He has to make whoopee ring where only gloom has been.

"Davis will be at once the stage manager and ballyhoo prompter for Reserve. He will have to organize the students into a solid unit behind their athletes and he will have to organize the public's interest in one of its schools.

"WESTERN RESERVE makes a fine start in getting an organizer and it is going to help him by playing its football games at Dunn Field. The baseball park isn't the ideal spot for football games, perhaps, but it is far superior to Van Horn Field in the number and quality of accommodations."

ATHLETICS ADD FULL GAME TO A. L. LEAD

TIGERS OUTBAT YANKS BY 17 TO 13

Associated Press.

A moist afternoon along the major league trail, where three of the nine scheduled skirmishes were postponed, was hardly enough for the Yankees, but just about right for the Athletics. The leaders turned the day to account by wresting a 5-to-3 decision from the Indians in 17 innings behind Mose Grove as the Tigers outpunched the Yanks by 17 to 13, and the Philadelphia lead increased to 13½ games.

This margin is the greatest the A's have had at any time this season, and is the exact distance by which the Yankees led for two days or so when the 1928 race was at its loosest stage around the Fourth of July.

REAL SWATFEST

The less said about the lacing of the Yankees in Detroit, the kinder it will be to both teams. The game began just as it ended, with the batters swinging from the floor and the pitchers ducking after each toss. Between them the teams scored 16 runs in the first three innings. From that point to the finish Owen Carroll held the Yanks to the comparatively safe quota of nine hits and six runs, while the various Yankee tossers continued their queer capers with the result that the Bengals won rather handsomely.

After the failure of George Pipgras, Waite Hoyt made his first appearance on the mound since his recent attack of blood poisoning. It was brief and disastrous, three hits and one pass helping the Tigers to seven runs before Tom Zachary could put down the uprising. Zachary departed from the game just in time to escape charge for the defeat. The Bengals broke a 12-to-12 tie with Wiley Moore by lacing out five runs in the eighth.

The Red Sox defeated St. Louis by 4 to -, and the Senators slammed the White Sox by 11 to 3 in the remaining American League games.

REDS BEATEN

With all activity halted in the New York metropolitan district, where the Cubs were scheduled to meet the Robins and the Cardinals, the Giants, National League proceedings for the day were limited to Boston and Philadelphia. Jess Petty turned in a five-hit game at Braves Field to defeat the home team by 1 to 0, and the Pirates reduced the margin of the Cubs half a game to eight contests.

At Philadelphia the home team shaded the Reds by 2 to 1 in the first game of a double-header, cut short at the end of the seventh by rain. The second game, of course, was postponed.

British Ring Board Defied by Dickson

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—In connection with a report that a contract has been signed for the Italian-American, Frankie Genaro, to fight the British flyweight champion, Johnny Hill, in October, the Express states that the American promoter, Jeff Dickson, has leased Albert Hall in London, in defiance of the British Boxing Board of Control. He proposes to stage several fights there, of which the first will be between Genaro and Hill, the paper says.

Dickson has arranged many contests in Paris, but six times has been refused a promoter's license by the British board. His invasion of London creates a serious position for the board, the Express asserts, as that body has no legal remedy. However, since a majority of British boxers are licensed by the board any who sign articles with Dickson will automatically disqualify themselves.

MACKS BEAT INDIANS IN 17 INNINGS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Lefty Grove, Connie Mack's great left-hander, pitched 17 innings yesterday to bring home his eighteenth victory of the season and boost the Athletics' lead over the Yankees in the American League pennant race to 13½ games, as the A's turned back Cleveland, 5 to 3.

Grove went the entire distance without faltering to win his first victory since July 25. He has been beaten only twice this season.

Jimmy Foxx's twenty-eighth home run of the season broke a 3-3 tie in the seventeenth after Grove and Willis Hudlin had pitched brilliantly down through the stretch. Hudlin weakened after holding the Mackmen hitless for five innings and three more hits after Foxx's clout gave the A's their winning margin.

Miller and Hudlin held the Athletics to 13 hits. Bing Miller led the Philadelphia attack with two doubles and a pair of singles. The Indians had 23 men left on bases while the A's left only eight men stranded. The score:

SINGLE YEAR ERASES BIG BOUT ACTORS

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Time is a faithless friend. A year ago, they put on the last heavyweight championship fight, and, for one night, at least, the men who fought the fight and those who sponsored it were all-important in the eyes of the world. One of them was the challenger, Tom Heeney. He is fighting tonight as a trial horse in a dollar-ninety engagement over in Brooklyn. Another was Tex Rickard, the greatest promoter of his day or any other. He is dead. Two more of them were Billy Gibson and Charley Harvey, respective managers of the fighters. Gibson is out of boxing altogether and Harvey is fighting for his life in a Brooklyn hospital as the result of an automobile accident. Bill McCabe, who was Tunney's duenna, is dead. Mr. Tunney, by his own wish, has passed from this life almost as definitely as if he had died.

Tom Heeney.

HEENEY ALONE REMAINS

Of all the principals in this $700,000 enterprise, only Heeney, the chastened challenger, remains active with the passing of 12 months, and personally I wouldn't give a nickel for his kind of activity. He is going in there tonight with Vittorio Compolo, the Willard of the Argentine, in a fight that means little today and may mean less tomorrow. He is supposed to build up Vittorio, the man-bullock, but, whether he builds him up or tears him down, is highly unimportant. The point is that the man who fought for a million-dollar title a year ago will take five or six thousands for his end tonight and be glad of it.

Yes, the world moves on, leaving the roadside to its stragglers and a tombstone to its dead. Mr. Tunney, happily, is neither of these. And, by the way, it will be a relief to an anxious nation to know that Gene is soon to resume being an American, after having been abroad so long that a lot of people were beginning to worry because they were afraid he mightn't stay much longer. He won't. Gene has forgiven boxing for what it did for him and late in September will return to America with the Bernard Gimbels. He will wish it to be known that he no longer is interested in self-defense except in the case of law suits. So much for what a year will do.

PLAYS NO FAVORITES

It has made a young society man out of Tunney, a chump fighter out of Heeney. It has driven Gibson out of a life he followed for 35 years, and the Mortimer brothers, also associated in the management of Heeney, are out of the business, too. Harvey will do well to get out of the hospital in a matter of many weeks. Rickard and McCabe are dead.

Time, in truth, plays no favorites.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Does the shape of the head of the driver influence a player's game? What shape should one use?

Answered by WILLIE OGG

New England Professional, Former Massachusetts Open, Shawnee Open Champion.

The fairly large-headed driver gives the best results and instills a greater degree of confidence to most players, which, after all, is half the battle. It is hard to imagine the average player addressing the ball with a puny-headed driver having any confidence whatever, and to that degree his game is influenced accordingly.

Reparations Hit Trade — Late Financial News

FATE OF DEBT PACT TO HIT BUSINESS

Young Plan Action Held More Significant to Trade Than Raise in Rediscount Rate

By MEREYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—From a fundamental standpoint, the fate of the Young Plan at the Hague is more significant to domestic and world business than the raise in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve bank of New York to 6 per cent.

The spring reaction in the American security market, which culminated late in May, was based in part on dissatisfaction over delay in reaching a new agreement on reparations at the Paris conference and on the slump in grain prices. The agreement on the Young plan in Paris and the recovery in wheat and other grain quotations paved the way for the better feeling which caused the subsequent broad upward swing in selected stock prices since May.

CRITICIZE ENGLISH

If the objections of Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, should permanently block the Young plan, the whole world will be seriously disappointed. Accordingly, there is a disposition on the part of foreigners to criticize the English.

The present incident, however, should be judged in the light of the British post war financial behavior. The British treasury has been a leader in validating the sanctity of contract. It funded its debt to the United States government years before it came to an agreement with its own debtors. During the war, it taxed its people heavily, instead of inflating its currency. After the armistice, it made radical sacrifices in order to recover its financial prestige and get its currency back to par. Whereas Russia, Germany and Austria repudiated their pre-war currencies, and France, Italy and Belgium revalued their currencies far below pre-war parity, Great Britain restored its currency to mint parity. England started to repay its debts, while certain other countries improved their cash position by stalling.

BUSINESS AFFECTED

Furthermore, in the successive modifications of the reparations bill levied on Germany since the original conference at Versailles the major sacrifices have been made by England. The threatened deadlock at the recent Paris conference was averted only by the willingness of the British representatives to make the largest sacrifices. Now Chancellor Snowden is asking for better terms for England.

Irrespective of the merits of the dispute, it is plain that world business has most to gain if an ultimate agreement is reached. A new break would undo the widespread good feeling that resulted from the Paris conference, the success of which was a signal for the quickening of business enterprise throughout Europe, especially in Germany. Immediately after the successful issue of the Paris conference, American copper manufacturers reported an increase in foreign buying.

STREET CHANGES VIEW

After Wall Street caught its second breath, it modified its original view of the significance of the raise in the rediscount rate at New York from 5 to 6 per cent. The fact that the essential meaning of the rate was that it was intended as a psychological offset to the seasonal easing policy of the Federal Reserve System. In past years, it has been customary for the Federal Reserve to release about $300,000,000 of extra Federal Reserve credit between August and December to facilitate the movement of crops and the fall trade expansion. The announcement of a reduction in the buying rate of acceptances from 5¼ to 5⅛ per cent indicates that the system intends to provide the extra seasonal credit this year, and the raising of the rediscount rate was doubtless intended to prevent the stock market from gobbling up the additional credit intended for agriculture and industry.

The double barreled reserve policy and the holding down of call money rates indicate that the main concern of the Federal reserve will be in providing for legitimate economic requirements. After the turn of the year, the Federal reserve will be free to take more aggressive measures against the Wall street bulls if circumstances warrant. If in the fall, rampant speculation flares up again, the reserve may after the seasonal peak resort to a still higher rediscount rate. There is a precedent in the history of the New York bank for a 7 per cent rate. The member of the Federal reserve board, who first advocated a 6 per cent rate, indicated that if necessary further sharp advances of a full per cent at a time should be made in order to check the flow of credit into security loans.

SPURS SPECULATION

A stock of the character of United States Steel Corporation common appeals to both speculators and investors. However, when the stock rises to unprecedented peaks, as it has been doing of late, there is usually a disposition on the part of long term investors to sell some of their holdings to speculators. In the four months ended July 31, the amount of stock in brokers' names—presumably stock held speculatively—increased 1.59 per cent.

In this so-called new era, when it is common for favored industrial and public utility stocks to sell twenty or more times pr sent earnings, the 27 leading dividend paying railroad common stocks were selling earlier in the week about 12 times earnings, and were offering a return of 4.2 per cent on the investment. The disparity in prices amply discounts the limited capacity for future growth of carriers, in my opinion.

Mid-Continent Crude Cut Considered Unlikely

PITTSBURGH, once the hub of the petroleum industry and always a big holder of the oil stocks, is naturally cheered by the distinct improvement in the oil shares this week. It is impossible to attribute the betterment in the shares to any particular development. Rather, it is due to a combination of circumstances arising out of the efforts of the industry's leaders to bring production under some semblance of control and thus stem the flood of crude oil which has glutted the market for over a year.

The local trading fraternity searched diligently and surveyed conditions as carefully as their removed position permitted, and the result of their efforts was a general assumption that the mid-continent crude oil market will hold and there will be no price cut in the immediate future. The recent reduction in Pennsylvania crude prices had given rise to a feeling that the Western oils would go next. In anticipation of such action, oil stocks had sagged perceptibly and a few days ago reached new low ground for the year.

Jersey Leads Recovery

THE recovery has not been of violent character, but the fact that the stocks rallied at all was enough to excite the hopes of the patient traders who have been hanging on to their waterlogged oils while nearly every other class of security in the market has advanced at one time or another. First intimation of a rise in the oils were seen a few days ago in Standard of New Jersey, the "daddy of them all." Several thousand shares were handled in sudden burst of activity and the price stood like a rock at 57. This absorption had its reflection shortly after when Jersey started forward on a steam-roller move which carried it to 60 on Tuesday and above 63 yesterday. This demonstration automatically brought strong buying into other issues in that division.

Improved sentiment in the trade is reported from several Western centers. While the actual data on production shows but slight improvement, the decrease in daily average production for the week ended August 10, as reported by the American Petroleum Institute yesterday, was regarded as a probable turning point in the present campaign to regulate crude output. Latest efforts in this direction have been in Oklahoma where the big Oklahoma City Pool output threatened to exceed pipe line capacity. Apparently competitive selling was avoided and it is now reported the conservation measures have assumed wider scope and may include the whole state with its many prolific pools.

Progress in California

IN CALIFORNIA there has been definite progress in the curtailment campaign and a new gas conservation law will go into effect there September 1. This law is designed to prevent the waste of natural gas and, thereby, check the flow of crude oil from the flush fields. The direct influence of the California oil fields on mid-continent oil is its competition with the latter in supplying the east coast and Europe. California refiners' excess supplies are shipped through the Panama Canal to these markets, coming into direct competition with tank steamer shipments of Texas and Oklahoma products, thus causing a serious backing up of gasoline at the mid-continent points.

Gasoline Market Stronger

FEARS of a cut in crude oil prices caused a weakening of the mid-continent gasoline market in July and the early part of this month but with the hopes of a curtailment plan revived, the gasoline market has strengthened and the wholesale quotations are now ¼ to ½ cent a gallon above last week. In this connection it is pointed out that the big, integrated companies, which produce their own oil and handle it all the way to the retail consumer, are reporting satisfactory profits while the strictly producing companies are not faring so well.

Gasoline consumption is now at the seasonal high and the trade has approximately 10 weeks of heavy demand to look forward to. As this year's consumption has outstripped all previous records there is increasing confidence in industry that the tapering off later in the season may be of such moderate proportion that a reduction in crude prices even at that time may not be necessary.

Record Earnings for Columbia

THE Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation chalked up a new earnings record for the year ended June 30, last, when gross business totaled $101,776,637, a gain of 9.3 per cent over the previous year, and net income reached $30,131,380, a 15 per cent increase over the previous year's net. This is equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $2.90 a share on the common stock. The previous year's earnings were equivalent to $6.08 on the old stock which was split 2½-for-one, or $2.43 a share on the basis of the present stock.

The present shares, selling in the 90s, have been established on a $2 annual dividend basis, a very meager yield even for the present low yields on most of the good stocks, but those who have been following the long side of Columbia are banking on future prospects and giving little consideration to the present return. Columbia is now said to be engaged in a program of expansion which includes not only the acquisition of new consuming territories but also the tying-in of major producing properties and which will extend its system from the Rockies to the Atlantic Seaboard.

Phelps Dodge Corp. Reports Net Income

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Phelps Dodge Corporation net income was $4,481,497 for six months to June 30, after depletion and taxes. Earnings are based exclusibely on sales during the last three months of the period. These were negligible, resulting in an accumulation of unsold copper at end of period of 58,298,883 pounds, which are being carried in inventory at cost of production. Production of copper during the six months was 117,846,431 pounds. Sales to customers during same period were 65,161,876 pounds.

Comparison of 27 Prominent Stocks Proves Market Price 12 Times Earnings

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The 27 leading dividend paying railroad common stocks at approximate closing prices August 12 were selling at an average of 12 times earnings of $13.55 for the 12 months ended June, 1929.

At the current rate of dividends they were selling to yield an average of 4.2 per cent and at an average selling price of 163.

By comparison with a similar tabulation made in these columns June 18, in connection with prices prevailing June 15, it is noted the average selling price has risen $17. Also on June 15 stocks were selling 11.2 times average earnings of $13.04 for the 12 months ended April, and at an average yield of 4.7 per cent.

HIGH EARNINGS RATE

Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western show the highest rate of earnings but are selling the least times earnings. Canadian Pacific, L. & N. and T. & P., are the only stocks selling below June 15 prices, the first named no doubt discounting the unfavorable crop conditions in its territory, while the other two issues are more or less inactive marketwise. Texas & Pacific is already giving incentive to boost a minority stock reporting lower earnings, where chance for higher dividend rate is controlled by a carrier inclined to acquire additional stock.

DIVIDEND EXPECTATIONS

Low yield on New Haven can be ascribed to prospects of increase in present $4 dividend rate. If $6 rate is established stock would yield 5.1 per cent on present selling price.

Eleven of the roads here treated are earning dividend requirements more than twice over, creating prospects for additional benefits to stockholders. Pennsylvania at 93 is selling only 10.7 times earnings and yielding 4.3 per cent with a dividend record of over 100 years.

Atlantic Coast Line shows the greatest improvement in earnings over 1928, when road just about covered dividend requirements, fulfilling management's faith in the future.

The reason for Lackawanna selling the greatest number of times earnings is probably based on the speculative possibilities in store for stockholders in connection with any merger move. This is an important trunk line desired by several carriers who are not known as holding control.

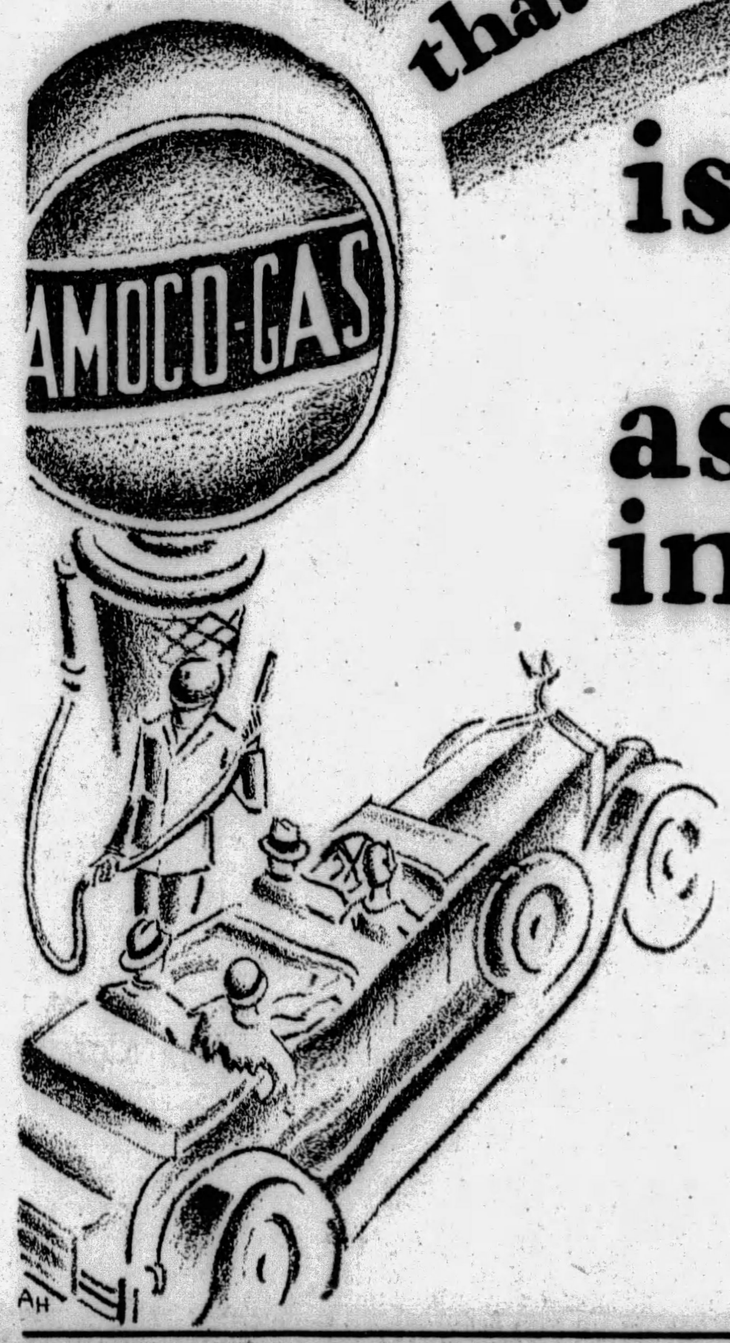
It pays to remember that the best motor-car is only as good as the gas in its tank



THE finest custom-built car will sputter and splutter on inferior gasoline. And the "fifth hand" rambling wreck salvaged from the junk-pile will still be sensitive enough to gasoline quality to respond more willingly when it's fed a better grade of fuel. Remember that--and remember that every car in between these two extremes will prove the same thing. A car is only as good as the gas in its tank--and on that basis, how can you afford to "feed" your motor anything but AMOCO-GAS? You'll find a steady diet of AMOCO-GAS will keep its trade-in value higher, too!

STOCK MARKET IRREGULARITY INCREASES

Uneasiness Over Loan Report Causes Further Mixed Prices in Shares

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Uneasiness over the weekly Federal Reserve brokers' loan statement, to be issued after the close of the market, brought about further irregularity in today's stock market, although the main tendency was again upward. Trading turned rather dull but there was evidence of organized buying in a rather wide assortment of public utilities, rails, and merchandising shares.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent, after having dropped to 6 in yesterday's late trading, and there was no change in other monetary accommodations. Further withdrawals of gold in London for shipment to New York were announced during the day, but its effect on the credit situation will not be apparent until after its arrival next week. Wall street guesses on brokers' loans vary widely but several brokers advised their customers that no material change either way was likely.

STEEL FLUCTUATES

U. S. Steel common quieted down after its spectacular advance of the past week. The stock opened unchanged at 238, advanced to 239, fell back to below 236 and then rallied to the day's high figure in the early afternoon. Vanadium and Michigan steels turned heavy, but Otis Steel was marked up nearly 4 points.

The announcement that freight car loadings in the first week of August had set a new high record for the year attracted fresh buying to the railroad shares. Delaware and Hudson ran up nearly 6 points, New York and Harlem 5, Atchison and New York Central 3 each and Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, Lehigh Valley, Canadian Pacific and a few others sold 2 or more points higher. Union Pacific rallied 8½ and then fell 5½.

Revival of speculative activity in the public utilities was based on the belief that important developments planned in that field by powerful New York banking interests had not yet been completed, and that further combinations and alignments would be announced before the end of the year. Consolidated Gas was one of the leaders, moving up 4 points to a new high at 171¾.

REACH NEW HIGHS

American Can was brought forward by operators for the advance as the leader of today's market, being pushed up 7 points to a new high above $176 a share, which contrasts with the year's low of $107.75. Worthington Pump and Gillette Safety Razor also moved into new high ground.

Outbursts of buying also took place, at intervals, in Radio, Montgomery-Ward and American Water Works. Case Threshing broke 15 points and Air Reduction 7⅜, but they recovered about half their loss by early afternoon. Allied Chemical, National Biscuit and Columbian Carbon also showed conspicuous heaviness.

No Car Shortage.

Railroad men say that there isn't any danger of a car shortage anywhere, though the figures of anticipated movement are extraordinarily high. The only disturbance to transportation in recent months has been at Galveston, where the movement of wheat is under embargo, but that is attributed to inability to get the train loads of grain afloat, and is a market rather than a transport matter.

LOCAL MARKET CONTINUES QUIET

Lone Star and Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt in Demand; McKinney Mfg. Moves Up

There was no change in the character of the dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in the early market today.

The firm opening on the New York Exchange was reflected here to a certain extent, but volume of business was comparatively light. Lone Star Gas continued to lead the market for fuel stocks, again moving ahead for a large fractional gain in the initial trading. There was no explanation of the heavy turnover in Lone Star yesterday other than that traders are optimistic over the company's future and are willing to buy the stock on any appearance of reactionary tendencies. Improvement in the oil stocks in New York was probably a factor in Lone Star's strength as the company is a large producer of crude.

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was active again, but the stock failed to break out of the trading area in which it has been fluctuating for several weeks. Earnings of $1.11 a share were reported for the first half of the year. This was about what had been expected and amply covers the present dividend basis of 35 cents per quarter.

McKinney Manufacturing extended the previous day's gain, opening fractionally higher at 12½ and later going to 14. This company has developed a new lock which has met considerable favor in the hardware trade and its ornamental metal business has increased substantially in 1929 as compared with last year.

National Banks Decrease in Resources

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Resources of national banks at the close of June this year totaled $27,440,228,000, a decrease of $1,581,684,000 during the year, it was announced today by the comptroller of the currency.

Treasury officials ascribed the decrease to the growth in power and privilege of state banks, many banks having withdrawn from the national banking system.

Loans and discounts amounted to $14,801,000,000, a decrease of $116,000,000. Total deposits were $21,598,000,000, a decrease of more than a billion dollars.

Weekly Freight on Pennsy Decreases

Loaded cars handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad system for the week ended August 10 totaled 173,795 against 174,583 in the preceding week and 161,689 in the 1928 period.

For the period from January 1 to August 10, loaded cars handled totaled 5,189,584 against 4,841,390 in the 1928 period.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points under a renewal of yesterday's selling. There may have been a little buying on fairly steady Liverpool cables and further encouraging reports as to the prospects for an early settlement of the Lancashire wage dispute. The demand was limited, however, and the market worked still lower after the opening with active months showing net losses of about 10 to 11 points by the end of the first half hour.

December sold off to 18.34c and March to 18.62c. Early weather reports showed slightly lower temperatures. The market seemed to be paying little attention to continued reports of crop deterioration in the South.

The census report showing domestic consumption for July at 546,457 bales exclusive of linters compared with 570,281 in June and 439,821 in July last year brought in a little buying during the middle of the morning. Larger figures than last year's had been discounted by private forecast, however, and the demand was quickly supplied with prices later making new lows for the day under renewed liquidation and local selling.

December sold off to 18.28c and March to 18.57c, making net declines of 15 to 17 points around midday.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The raw sugar market was firm today and while the demand was not very active, offerings were light and held at higher levels, or 3.83c for spots, duty paid. It was reported that late yesterday an outport refiner bought 30,500 bags of Cuban for August shipment at 3.80c, and while no sales were reported today there were further buyers at this price.

Raw futures were quiet but the undertone was firm, reflecting the strength of the spot market and the light offerings. The market opened 1 to 4 points advance on covering and buying by houses with trade connections and showed further partial gains in the late forenoon and at midday was 3 to 5 points net higher.

Refined was unchanged with refiners listing at 5.50c for fine granulated, while second hands were quoted from 5.20c to 5.25c.

Money Market.

Tri-Continental Organizes New Unit With Capital Of $50,000,000

ANNOUNCEMENT today of plans for organization of another investment trust under the sponsorship of J. & W. Seligman & Co., as an affiliate of the Tri-Continental Corporation, aroused considerable interest in the financial district and again directed attention to the pronounced drift toward powerful investing groups. The new company, to be known as the Tri-Continental Allied Corporation, will start with a capital of about $50,000,000, and will have a management almost identical with the parent company. Financing is scheduled for next week.

The decline in call money rates to 6 per cent yesterday, marked the first time in almost a year that this charge has been as low as the prevailing rediscount rate at the New York Federal Reserve Bank. A year ago tomorrow call money fell as low as 4½ per cent, compared with the 5 per cent rate then in effect at the reserve bank. On the seventeenth, however, the rate soon rose to 7 per cent, after renewals had been arranged at 5, and for most of the remainder of the year demand loans commanded from 6 to 10 per cent.

UNSETTLED conditions in the Cuban sugar industry, especially in the affairs of Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, has resulted in heavy selling of securities of several companies operating on the island. For example, Consolidated Railroads of Cuba preferred is now around $50 a share. Annual dividend is at the rate of $6 a share, and in well-informed quarters it is stated that when the directors meet for dividend action next month the regular quarterly disbursement will be ordered. No matter what happens to Cuba Cane Sugar there will be a large amount of the commodity to be moved on the island and Consolidated Railroads will do the bulk of the business.

Aside from its profitable operations so far this year, Allied Chemical and Dye is believed to have had substantial holdings of many of the high grade investment issues which have enjoyed sensational advances. Wall Street long has been of the opinion that Allied at frequent intervals has been a large lender of money in the call loan market. The company has built up a substantial surplus and a "melon" cutting will eventually be had.

A DIVISION must be made between various opinions expressed in connection with the New York market outlook. Those who stand in the most powerful class and are credited with directing many of the recent movements, are as bullish as ever, but in some cases have diverted their activities to new stocks. An important group switched from United States Steel to American Can in the past few days, and made the latter the leading feature in current operations. Outside of this powerful element there are numerous instances where market operations reflect an extremely bearish position on the part of many in purely speculative circles. Reference might be made to the fact that the first period of weakness in several days came in the last half hour Wednesday, the time apparently set for basing speculative trading on predictions and estimates as to what the Federal Reserve statement of brokers' borrowings will show today. As it is known that the most important commission houses have increased their loans during the period covered by the statement to new high record, the assumption is that its showing will exert an unfavorable influence on values.

Among the non-dividend paying rails, Erie common again showed signs of being under accumulation. In the opinion of some market observes it still has some distance to travel to sell on an equivalent basis with some industrials in the same class. Strong banking groups are understood to have taken a large position in the stock, basing their commitments on official estimates of earnings which indicate progressive gains over the next four years.

Federal Reserve Head Says Average Pittsburgher Is Earning Increased Wages

Business is booming and the man-in-the-street is spending and saving more money than ever before, it was revealed here today through reports from the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

Savings deposits increased 2.3 per cent in 1929 as compared with last year, said Joseph C. Nevin, manager of the Pittsburgh Federal Reserve branch of Cleveland. Demand, or checking accounts, increased 0.9 per cent, Nevin revealed. Only time deposits showed a decrease in the district of 11.8 per cent.

"Savings accounts and time deposits should be grouped together," Nevin explained. "The result would be only slightly lower than the 2.3 per cent gain showed, because of the relatively small amount of time deposits as compared with the savings.

"That 2.3 per cent gain means that the average man is making and saving more money. Possibly he is buying more, too, and investing more in the stock market, because the earnings, as indexed by payments of the Federal Reserve Bank of currency to member and non-member banks is showing a constant increase."

JULY PAYROLLS

For the month of July, the payments for payroll purposes in the Western Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh district were $35,425,860, plus at least $1,500,000 and probably more in new, small bills put into circulation and included as payroll, according to figures released for publication today. The total of nearly $37,000,000 payrolls for the month of July, compared with $30,284,693 for the purpose in July, 1928.

"This does not necessarily mean that the permanent earning power of workers in Western Pennsylvania district has increased in that large a percentage," Nevin said. "Some of the previous months of the year showed a smaller percentage of gain, but as the summer progresses it is apparent that the average for the year will be considerably above that of last year.

"I do not recall a month this year when the gain over the same month last year was not appreciable."

Nevin pointed out that figures just released on the wholesale and retail trade for the Cleveland district showed gains of from 1.4 to 10.7 in cities throughout the four states covered. Wheeling, W. Va., was the only city to show a loss in department store sales, showing a decrease of 8.7.

MERCHANDISE STOCKS

"Stocks of merchandise are running low, which is a good sign," Nevin said. "The people seem to be putting a reasonable amount of money into savings, in proportion to their earnings, and buying with the balance. The decrease in stocks shows that goods is moving, giving wholesalers and retailers a turnover of profit.

"Few cities show unchanged or increased stocks, which means that they will be in the market to purchase and replenish. That of course means increased general buying and greater demand."

Only three large cities in the district showed an increase in department store stocks. Cincinnati and Cleveland showed slight increases in wearing apparel stocks. Furniture and drugs were spottedly uneven. Wholesalers generally showed an increase in sales with a slight increase in stocks in preparation for fall demands. The wholesalers, it was pointed out, are the first to increase stocks in anticipation of the demand.

BUGS BAER Says

LITTLE FISHES IN THE SEA

PRESIDENT HOOVER leaps forth with an executive gob of information that sounds like a very likely story.

"Bugs" Baer

President Hoover states that he likes fishing even when he doesn't catch any fish.

We always thought that the idea of fishing was to catch fish.

But there is a certain amount of human nature in Mr. Hoover's statement.

How many times have you piped two guys get up and argue all day—when neither one of them had an argument?

It's like a worm in an apple. It's liable to work out two ways.

Personally, when we fish we like to catch fish.

Otherwise, we would have just as much fun in a flooded cellar.

We admit that we are not much of a piscatorial athlete.

We have angled for trout in the Adirondacks, juggled for tarpon in the Gulf and jabbed for flounder in Great South Bay.

And the only time we ever caught a fish was when we trolled for sardines in a delicatessen store.

The political attitude toward fishing has changed considerable since the Republicans took over the Riparian rights.

When you saw Grover Cleveland driving a load of lumber down the street you knew he was going after planked shad.

Grover was the greatest fishing President we ever had. He was a pip. And he was our first sailor President, for he spent his administration in a rowboat.

If President Hoover ain't catching fish then we must not blame him. It's the economy wave. Andy Mellon must be baiting Herbert's hook.

Either that or Herbert has no hook on his line.

Andy is saving the hooks to throw them into the Democrats.

FRISBY OFFERS TO BLEED FOR COUNTRY

Hands Across the Sea.

(Posed especially for this newspaper by Congressman Horace B. Frisby, the Nonparell, and Rev. Wiley.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—Congressman Frisby today offered to give a quart of blood to promote World Peace, providing 50,000,000 others would do the same.

Later he repudiated the offer, thus averting consideable bloodshed.

He immediately filed an application for the Nobel Peace Prize, setting forth that his prompt reconsideration of the proposal had prevented the world from being "drenched in blood." If awarded the prize money, Frisby declared it would be used for charity, as he is practically destitute.

WHAT A MAN!

(Lake County Bee.)

Mayor Anton states that if his courage continues after his first flight, he may take up flying for a pastime, that is, if his wife will allow him to do so. One of Anton's ambitions, so he says, is to jump from a high altitude with a parachute. He says there is nothing to this stunt, but of course one must remember to pull the string on the chute after jumping.

Mr. Lang States Public Can Aid in Cleanliness

Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, evidently is not the kind of city official who lets criticism of his particular branch of the city government roll off his shoulders like water off a duck's back. The Sun-Telegraph is in receipt of a communication from Director Lang written in response to an editorial entitled "Dirty Street Complaints Should Never Be Heard."

It is to Mr. Lang's credit that he is deeply concerned about criticisms, so we shall not stress the fact that the editorial was based specifically on the report that Squirrel Hill residents were making a second complaint about a condition once promised to be remedied, but take up another feature of Mr. Lang's letter. This is to the effect that residents should co-operate with the department in keeping the streets clean.

"If the people of Pittsburgh," to quote the director, "would take a little pride, and co-operate with the department in maintaining the cleanliness of our streets by segregating rubbish and materials of all kinds in receptacles on their properties, or using the receptacles on the streets, it would relieve this department very much and bring about the condition so much to be desired."

There is point to that. Often some streets do look untidy a few hours after they have been cleaned just because of carelessness of the public in general. The request for co-operation on the part of the public shows that Mr. Lang not only is interested in having the streets cleaned, but in having them kept tidy through a little thoughtfulness on the part of those who make use of them. Such thoughtfulness, Mr. Lang points out, not only would improve conditions, but decrease the expense of maintaining streets in a clean and attractive condition.

The public at times has just cause for complaint about such matters and it is more than likely that Mr. Lang's department frequently has equally just cause for feeling that the public is negligent and careless about its own interests.

British Troops to Be Recalled From Rhineland

It is welcome news from London that the MacDonald government proposes to have British troops out of the Rhineland by Christmas.

In other words the MacDonald government, supported by British opinion, is done with being a catspaw to pull French chestnuts out of the fire.

To our own eternal honor be it remembered that 10 years ago we brought home the last American soldier from the Rhine.

If, when the British withdraw, the French legions remain there to feed like locusts upon the toil of the German people, it will be one more flagrant manifestation of a militaristic France standing alone among the civilized nations of the world.

With Germany's acceptance of the harsh terms of the Young plan for payment of German reparations, the last excuse for military occupation of the Rhineland disappeared.

It is certainly not Germany's fault that France and England cannot agree upon the percentages that each of them shall receive of Germany's annual war tribute.

France will keep her troops on German soil if what she is interested in is not to make Germany pay but to make Germany incapable of payment by burdening her finances, interfering with her industries and subjecting her people to such harassment and such humiliation that they will in desperation revolt and refuse to pay.

American sympathy and support will go to the British because Americans and British have the same sense of fair play, of not hitting a man when he is down.

Americans and Englishmen have identical ideas about a French government which extracts the last pfennig of war tribute from the Germans while refusing for years to pay the French debt of honor to the United States and England, though without the help of the United States and England France would now be a German province.

News from The Hague may seem disquieting for the moment.

In reality it is good news.

It signalizes the withdrawal of England from her unnatural alliance with a France that thinks in terms of a Napoleon.

It clears the way for the rapprochement of the United States and the members of the British commonwealth.

British withdrawal from the Rhineland will give an opportunity for liberal and peaceful-minded Frenchmen to take their stand against the perpetuation of French militarism.

Irreverency, 1929

Heritage of Early Spanish Inhabitants Lost.

In a wistful thin volume, "Mission Memories," recently published in attractive form by the Neuner Corporation, the following paragraph appears:

"When the vast chain of 21 missions were completed, through the toiling and patient years, California was the happiest land the world has ever known. There was peace and plenty, and hospitality became a religion. . . . In those days a man might travel from San Diego to Sonoma, a distance of 700 miles, without a penny in his pocket and never lack for shelter at night or food by day. It was around the old missions that the colorful life of the early Spanish inhabitants centered. Song and laughter filled the sunny mornings. There was feasting and music. . . It was a sheer Utopia. Nothing like it ever existed before, nor has any approach to it existed since."

This heritage—an attitude—has been largely lost in these days of inefficient efficiency. And we may always be too busy to learn to live gracefully—but, then, we have modern plumbing. And pink stucco houses. And, after being completely industrialized, we can issue pamphlets showing how the population has increased, along with crime, gasoline stations, hit-and-run traffic accidents and hot-dog stands.

Bible Passages

His Life Manifest in Us

(II Corinthians 4; 8-18.)

WE are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in dispair;

Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed;

Always bearing about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our body.

For we which live are always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh.

So then death worketh in us, but life in you.

We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak.

Knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you.

For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God.

For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day.

For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory;

While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.

So this poor John's father went home to test out the guarantee. At dinner he says, "Say, Lily, there ain't no better doughnuts made than these. I guess I knocked your last cooking job, but this is great! Say, I want you to know that I appreciate this here kind of cooking!"

And she was crying.

"What's the matter?" he says.

"You old nut," she says. "You know very well that these here doughnuts came from the bakery!"

NUMBER OF THE STARS

By Archibald Henderson

WHEN we walk abroad on a fairly clear night and glance up at the purple inverted bowl decorated on the interior with its little bright, twinkling dots, we might almost count them. By confining our attention to some known fraction of the space exposed and carefully counting the stars in that portion, we could quickly arrive at a close approximate estimate of the total number. This has often been done, and the number is found to be about 5,000. On a particularly clear night, it is even possible to count up to 6,000 stars.

These are the stars we can see with the naked eye. But what about this gigantic and ghostly river of light which flows across the sky. Are there not stars galore in that mystic diadem?

The effort has been made, on scientific principles, to count the stars in the Milky Way. From observation, we know the mean value of the proper motions of the nearer stars. The late Henri Poincare, one of the greatest of modern mathematicians, on this basis calculated that the total number of stars in the Milky Way must be about 1,000,000,000. This figure agrees fairly well with the results of the star-gauges effected by the astronomers by means of photographic plates.

What bigger figure does recent investigation give? The new figure put forward by Harlow Shapley, of Harvard, 10 Billion, or just 10 times the figure given by Poincare. What will be the figure, we wonder, when the great Hooker 100-inch reflector telescope is set up at Pasadena?

Poincare showed that the proper motion of the stars would be greater if there were many more stars than those which we see. Thus we see, as Nordmann points out, that Poincare's calculations are opposed to the hypothesis of an indefinite extension of the stellar universe, since the number of stars "counted" agrees fairly closely with the number "calculated." This calculation is explicitly based upon Newton's law of universal gravitation.

The question naturally arises here: Is the universe infinite? If a voyager of the skies should travel deep into the inter-stellar spaces, past the great blue helium stars of Orion, past Betelgeuse and Antares, beyond the white variable Cedpheids, the gaseous red and yellow giant stars, the faintest of the super-nebulae, "lying like silver snails in the garden of the stars," but whirling in fiery spirals in the dim void of remoter space—would he ever reach any limit to the universe? No scientist is yet prepared to give a categorical answer to this question. Astronomers are not yet in agreement that the amount of matter in the universe is finite. But it is highly significant that the density of matter falls off quite rapidly the deeper we penetrate into the stellar universe. The distinguished American astronomer, George Ellery Hale, concludes that there is, in all probability, an actual thinning out of the stars towards the boundary of the stellar universe. Some day we shall discuss what is meant by this mystifying term "boundary!"

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

A Record

A RECORD should be kept always
Of what we lose or gain,
A record of triumphant days
And sunless hours of pain.

And we must pay but little heed
To darker entries there;
But, ah! how often we should read
Of joyous times and fair.

For all the failures we may make
We never need despair;
But we can seek in each mistake
To find the reason there.

Then on dark days what joy to turn
To some glad hour again,
And from its memories to learn
How little power has pain!

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, August 15.—The small town invariably peeps through the most sophisticated strips of this rock-ribbed island. Perhaps the most calloused worldliness of the Tenderloin will be found on that teeming block of West 47th street between 6th avenue and Broadway.

It is where the sucker never gets a break and is lined with dim lit hotels, speakeasy chop houses, upstairs dice games and downstairs take joints. After midnight it is filled with kimonoed ladies followed by shaggy poodles, shifty eyed men with hats down and coat collars up—ships that pass in the night.

This block was the scene of perhaps the greatest bit of cruelty the town has ever known. Drunken roysterers tossed an inoffensive waiter from a ninth story window to the roof below and to permanent invalidism. Its sidewalks have frequently run red with blood.

And yet in the mid center of the block is a gypsy fortune teller, the sort featured with carnival shows, who does a land office business in a room with tented decorations. An old time Indian herb doctor and a long-haired prophet who sells charms have flourished in the block for years.

For six years now a freak show and flea circus have played to capacity business in the heart of Forty-second street's theatrical zone. Within a stone's throw are 11 of the best known theaters exhibiting the most famous of the current theatrical hits.

In the shadows of the Hippodrome, a block from Broadway, are three penny arcades with shooting gallery attachments, peep machines and ear tube phonographs. In the neighborhood of the Winter Garden are four slot machine photograph parlors always overflowing.

The shrewdest street fakers declare Fifth avenue, if the police did not shoo them away, is the most prolific of all streets for a curbstone pitch. An hour there unmolested is good for a ten-dollar take in. In other words, remove the New Yorker's spats and behold the yap!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

MATTHEW ARNOLD once wrote of one "who saw life whole."

TO SEE LIFE WHOLE—that can come to any human spirit.

We do not naturally see life whole. We see it as animals, savages and little children see it—in fragments, fragments which affect us. Dimly we realize that there is other experience beyond ours—other joys and sorrows, fears and hopes—but we do not actually FEEL that other experience nor wish to feel it. We do not wish to see life whole. We only wish to see that part of life which concerns US. Upon that, we focus all our thought and emotion.

And because we give ourselves up so intensely to these personal fragments of life, they acquire a tremendous mastery over us.

A TOE ACHE, TO THE MAN WHO CAN THINK ONLY OF HIS OWN TOE ACHE, IS MORE TRAGIC THAN THE FALL OF ROME.

Try to see life whole—try to see it whole for two reasons—

FIRST, because it is supremely well worth seeing.

SECOND, because only by seeing life whole, will you see your own life in its right perspective and gain power to command your own situations.

For example, there was that situation which trapped you yesterday. Somebody hurt your feelings. The day was ruined for you. You can still see nothing but your hurt feelings. You can still feel nothing but your pain and resentment.

STOP!

Don't let that incident get you down. Rise above it. Look at it from the right slant. A moment ago it covered the sky. Now you see that it is only a little part of life—only a fragment of the vast bulk of human experience. There is nothing new about hurt feelings, nor are they of great importance. The only thing that is of importance is YOUR REACTION TO THEM. Each insult, each slight, OFFERS YOU AN OPPORTUNITY TO TEST YOUR METTLE.

That changes its aspect, doesn't it—robs the hurt of part of its sting. That's the beginning of SEEING LIFE WHOLE. Now go further.

Stop thinking of that hurt in its relation to you. Think of it in relation to the other fellow—to the other fellow's life—to ALL life. Why do people hurt each other? What loneliness, what fear, what sense of futility lies behind that desire to hurt?

Study that ranklin spirit which hurt you. Presently you will find that you have forgotten your own hurt—you have forgotten your own Self. You will have left your Self as a bird leaves a trap and cast yourself into the endless reaches of infinity. And from that height, from that serene detachment, you will have a blessed instant of SEEING LIFE WHOLE.

That is one small example of SEEING LIFE WHOLE. But the principle which lies behind it can be applied to every occasion in your life. It can be applied to the most heart-breaking tragedy as well as to the most trivial circumstance. For all that may happen to you is only part of universal experience, the substance of life from which you take your individual experience.

As you perceive, more and more clearly, your place in the scheme of things you will also perceive something else. Gradually you will come to see Something towering behind all the pain and confusion—Something sure and serene, beautiful and strong beyond all your imagining—a Presence that is, at once, the answer and the source of all we are.

When you have sensed that Presence you will at last begin to SEE LIFE WHOLE. And begin to feel "the Truth that sets men free."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you a good fighter or simply quarrelsome?

At first thought you may see little difference.

A fighter, traveling along the right track won't admit defeat.

Too many jelly-fish.

Do you seek the society of those who are wafted about—literally controlled by others of a stronger nature?

Are you one of those always ready to do what the crowd does even though you know better?

Are you afraid to take a stand for what you know is right?

To please the crowd you often take part in things that you know would cause your family grief if they became known.

Men and women are alike in this respect.

But if you should get into trouble would your so-called good fellows help you out? No, rather, they would avoid you.
